Form New Cabinet

CAIRO, Egypt, May 3 (AP).—Reconstruction of the Greek government-in-exile was announced tonight at the Greek legation here after King George had received the new cabinet.

Prof. Panajotis Kannellopoulos, political idol of Greece's youth and for a long time the leader of underground resistance to the axis occupation forces, was named vice president of the cabinet. Prof. Kannellopoulos recently escaped from Greece.

Prime Minister and Foreign Minister E. J. Tsouderos takes over the navy, air and war ministry portfolios. S. Dimitrakakis, temporary war minister, becomes minister of justice. Dimitrakakis will go to the United States soon on a special mission.

Kannellopoulos, former professor of sociology at Athens university, was exiled by the Metaxas régime, but returned and fought with the army when Italy attacked Greece. He is the leader of the National Unity party. It was announced he would remain here to represent the Greek government.

This is the second in a series of articles on the part being played in the prosecution of the war by Chicago groups of foreign birth or extraction.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

About 75,000 American Greeks, foreign or American born, live in Chicago, and the group is active in all forms of war effort. "The Greeks think of nothing but winning the war," says Peter Lambros, publisher of the Greek Star, one of the well known members of the group.

Peter Lambros.

Greek leaders estimate that between 3,000 and 4,000 Americans of Hellenic descent from the Chicago area are in the armed forces of the United States. Many enlisted before Pearl Harbor.

Rush to Recruiting Offices.

When the papers were filled with the exploits of the Greeks fighting the axis invaders, many Chicago Americans of Greek extraction sought recruiting offices to join the American army and navy. Large families are the rule among American-Greeks and many have sons in their twenties. Most families, leaders report, have one or more sons in the service—on land or sea or in the air.

There are some 300 Greek societies in Chicago and suburbs. Almost all of them are engaged in wartime activities—among them Red Cross work, war bond and stamps campaigns, and civilian defense work. More than 1,000 American-Greek women have enrolled for Red Cross work or training. Many have given blood for the plasma banks.

War Efforts Unified.

An all-out war effort is being organized among Americans of Greek ancestry by the Pan-Hellenic association, the president of which is John Manta, 1821 South Loomis street. This association was formed at Cincinnati last August to unify activities among Greeks in the United States and Canada, in behalf of the war efforts of the two countries.

More than $2,500,000 in war bonds have been bought by Chicago American-Greeks, group leaders estimate. Many arrange purchases thru their banks. One group bought $20,000 of bonds at THE TRIBUNE's bond counter. Every Greek society and church community is active in war fund work.

Ahepa Largest Order.

Ahepa, the largest Greek fraternal order, is one of the most active in the city's war effort. Its supreme president is Van A. Nomikos, 6228 South Halsted street. This order uses a name formed of the initials of its official name, which is American Hellenic Educational Progressive association.

It is of national scope, with 750

First Millions Will Sign Up for Rationing

Registration Facts

WHO MUST REGISTER—Every consumer of sugar must register for a ration book either individually or be registered by a member of his or her family. Boarders and servants must register individually. Persons whose last names begin with the letters A, B, C, D, and E register today.

WHEN — Registration begins this morning and continues thru Thursday. Registration places will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

WHERE—Register at your nearest school. Registration will be held in 333 Chicago elementary schools and in 278 schools in the suburbs of Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties. Visitors and residents of loop hotels will register in the election commissioners' office of the city hall.

The biggest civilian job of the war thus far—registration of America's 130 million people for their first food ration books in the history of the nation—begins at 8 a. m. today.

Ration books limiting each consumer of sugar to 1 pound every 2 weeks will be issued today thru Thursday at schoolhouses thruout the land. The half pound weekly limit will be in effect until June 27 and after that time it may be raised, or cut.

Each ration book contains stamps, one of which is to be torn out of the book by the grocer each time a purchase of sugar is made. By means of these stamps the federal government can keep a continuous check on the sugar consumption and gear it to the supplies on hand.

Eight Million in State.

Eight million Illinois residents will be signed up in the four day period. An estimated 4,227,694 will register in the Chicago metropolitan area.

To prevent bunching of registrants, the period is divided alphabetically according to the first letter of the applicants' last names. Those whose surnames begin with the letters A and B will register this morning; those with C, D and E in the afternoon.

Other registration periods follow:

Tuesday morning—F, G, and H.

Tuesday afternoon—I, J, K, and L.

Wednesday morning—M and N.

Wednesday afternoon—O, P, Q, and R.

Thursday morning—S.

Thursday afternoon—T, U, V, W, X, Y, and Z.

Micnael F. Mulcahy, ration administrator of the Chicago area, announced yesterday that 18,000 registrars will begin working today. "But we need another 6,000 or 7,000 more to help do the job efficiently," he said.

9,000 Teachers to Help.

About 9,000 city public school teachers have been assigned as registrars. They will be assisted by members of Parent-Teacher associations, American Legion, block captains, and other volunteers.

In comparison to the sugar wholesalers' and dealers' registration held in April, the individual rationing is simple despite the greater numbers of persons to be registered.

Here are the nine questions you will be asked if you apply for yourself or your family:

1. Name and address.
2. Height in feet and inches.
3. Weight.
4. Color of eyes.
5. Color of hair.
6. Age.
7. Sex.
8. Number of persons in your family unit.
9. Amount of white and brown sugar owned by your family unit.

One Registers for Family.

A husband or wife may register for all members of the family. The registrant must give the information for each member of the family.

After you have registered, you will be given what is officially called War Ration Book 1. This book contains 28 stamps, permitting you to buy 1 pound of sugar every two weeks.

The registrars will tear out of the book one stamp for each pound of sugar an applicant has on hand over the individual quota of 2 pounds per person.

FLAG STILL FLIES ON CORREGIDOR

Shot Down Twice, It's Run Up Under Fire.

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—For the second time men of Corregidor's garrison have braved heavy enemy fire to restore their shot-down flag atop the 100 foot pole on the fortress island in Manila bay.

The second incident, similar to one of April 18, was reported by the war department today.

The initial restoration of the Corregidor flag impelled President Roosevelt alluded to the incident in his "fireside chat" last Tuesday.

Flag Rescuers Decorated.

Capt. Arthur E. Huff of St. Louis, Mo., and three enlisted men who risked their lives to restore the colors to their position atop the flagpole, were awarded the silver star decoration for gallantry in action by Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright.

The three enlisted men were Corp. Louis A. Roark, Gypsum, Kas.; Pvt. First Class Roy O. Bailey, Kansas City, Mo., and Pvt. Harley H. Leaird, Durant, Okla.

The communique described the incident as follows:

"Again our flag on Corregidor was the target for a Japanese artillery attack, and again it was rescued by gallant American soldiers.

Men Dare Shells and Bombs.

"When the bombardment was at its height shell fragments struck the pole and caused the flag to fall. Observing this from an anti-aircraft battery position 600 yards distant, Capt. Arhur E. Huff of St. Louis and three enlisted men left their shelter and ran to the flagpole.

"They disregarded their personal safety as they ran thru the shell swept parade ground.

"Making their position more precarious, several dive bombers chose this moment to attack the island fortress. Nevertheless, under Capt. Huff's supervision the men climbed the pole, repaired the halyards and restored the flag to its prior position at the top of the staff. Gen. Wainwright warmly commended the four soldiers and awarded each the silver star for gallantry in action."

Captain's Wife Thrilled.

St. Louis, Mo., May 3 [Special].—News that Capt. Arthur E. Huff of St. Louis had been cited in dispatches for bravery in saving the American flag at Corregidor today was the first word his wife, Mrs. Mary Huff, who word of his wife, Mrs. Mary Huff who lives with their 26 months old daughter at Lemay, Mo. She was thrilled to hear of her husband's exploit.

Capt. Huff, a research chemical engineer before the war, is 33 and a graduate of Washington university. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1932.

Claim Mindanao Town.

TOKIO, May 3 [From Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Domei reported today that Japanese troops on Mindanao had captured Pikit Pagalungan, in the Cotabato plain region, an advance of 30 miles east from their landing point at Cotabato on the Mindanao river. The dispatch also reported troops which landed at Parang had pushed 35 miles northward to occupy Gatussi.

A Few Seconds, a Few Bullets and Yanks Leave Fewer Japs

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AN ADVANCED ALLIED BASE, May 3.—The increased tempo of air raids and other factors indicate the enemy is stepping up his assault on Port Moresby, allied base on New Guinea.

Lieut. Col. Boyd D. Wagner.

Allied air forces consisting mostly of Americans have been battling raiders daily over Port Moresby and carrying the fight to the enemy in attacks on Lae and Salamaua, on New Guinea, and Rabaul, New Britain, in an endeavor to clip the wings of the enemy.

Twenty-five year old Lieut. Col. Boyd D. Wagner of Johnstown, Pa., today told how he led a squadron of 12 United States pilots into the air offensive in which they shot down three Japanese Zero fighters and destroyed 12 to 15 others on the ground.

He's a Fast Worker.

Wagner, holder of the distinguished flying cross and America's No. 1 flying ace in this theater, shot down the three Japs himself. Known as "Buzz" Wagner, he was a lieutenant in January, a captain in March, and a lieutenant colonel in April, skipping the grade of major.

American losses were slight, but all pilots were saved in the action, which occurred over Salamaua last Friday.

Wagner said that as a "guest pilot" he led his 12 lads into action by a dive from 16,000 feet on Lae, where "we saw 15 heavy bombers lined up nicely on the airdrome looking like they were just out of the paint shop."

"I don't know how much damage we did but I'm sure we put lead into them all," Wagner said.

"We were on and off in four or five seconds, but when I looked back I could see columns of black smoke rising. I never had so much fun in my life. We must have destroyed most of them."

Squadron Sweeps Down.

After leaving Lae the squadron swooped in string formation on Salamaua, 25 miles away, the pilots being instructed to strafe whatever targets they could find. One after another the planes dived from 500 feet down to ground level.

"We sighted a gasoline dump beneath the trees and a couple of us let it have a burst or two," Wagner said. "It burst into flames. Then as we swept over a hill we saw a beautiful target—a nice, white shack. The planes machine gunned it and dived and smashed the whole side out of the shack. Ten or 12 Japs rushed out, fleeing in all directions. I think all of them were considerably damaged.

"The attack on Salamaua lasted about 10 seconds. Just as the fighters were pulling away we saw Japanese Zeros in two groups with seven in one and four or five in the other. They were high up above us and had us at a great disadvantage.

Best Dogfight of His Life.

"We assembled our squadron, opened up the throttles, and started to get out of there, when several of the boys in the rear planes said, 'The hell with this, let's take a crack at them,' and peeled off.

"The next thing we knew, 12 Zeros were attacking four of our planes, so we all joined the battle. For the next 25 minutes we had the best dogfight I've ever seen in my life."

Three Zeras fell burning fiercely into the sea, none of the pilots bailing out. In addition to the three definitely downed, the group probably got another.

"One boy who had to bail out got down safely, altho a Jap Zero pilot made a pass at him with machine guns," Wagner said. "These boys did wonderfully well. They are all anxious to get back and take another crack at the Japs."

WHERE JAPAN GETS ITS RAW MATERIALS.

In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will appear a new large scale color map of the Japanese empire, Manchukuo, and contiguous land and sea areas. By means of various symbols, this map shows where Japan obtains many of its raw materials essential to war and also where its main industries are located.

Jap Casualties in Burma 14,000, Chinese Only 4,000

CHUNGKING, May 3 (AP).—Japanese casualties in the Burma campaign were reported by a Chinese army spokesman tonight to total 14,000, against only 4,000 Chinese losses.

EXPERTS LOOK FOR ATTACK ON PACIFIC ROUTE

Jap Islands Afford Bases for Blows.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—Reports of concentration of Japanese naval forces in the Marshall Islands lead military experts here to believe that the enemy is preparing for a flank attack on American communications in the South Pacific.

The United States has succeeded in sending large land and air forces to Australia and is continuing to augment their numbers in preparation for a grand offensive to recapture the East Indies and the Philippines. Numerous American warships are employed in convoying these forces and the planes and other equipment they require.

The American air offensive launched from Australia is growing in extent and intensity and the Japanese position on the eastern fringe of the East Indies has become critical. The American lines of communication have been strengthened recently by occupation of the French island of New Caledonia.

May Use Islands as Base.

It therefore is considered not unlikely that the Japanese, alarmed by the development of the American offensive from Australia, will try to cut our line of communication with that continent by naval operations directed from the Marshall Islands either thru the Gilbert and Ellice Islands or thru the Solomon Islands and the New Hebrides.

Possession of numerous groups of tiny islands in the Pacific between Hawaii and the Philippines has given Japan an enormous advantage in this war. They afford bases for naval operations against the United States today. And the success of the treacherous surprise attack on Pearl Harbor was due to the fact that it could be launched from these islands, almost half the distance from Japan to Hawaii.

Japan Got 3,000 Islands.

The United States got the Philippines and Guam in the peace settlement following the Spanish-American war but allowed Germany to get the groups of Spanish islands screening the new American possessions from the United States. Then, after the first World war, President Wilson allowed the Japanese to get all the German islands in the Pacific, numbering about 3,000.

Germany annexed the Marshall Islands in 1885 and held them until the World war when they were occupied by Japan.

The United States had no sooner gone to war with Spain in 1898 than Germany began intriguing to get all the Spanish possessions in the Pacific upon the conclusion of peace. Germany, having seized Kiaochow, was blossoming forth as an Asiatic power and had designs on the Philippines, Guam and the smaller Spanish island groups. It was in furtherance of this policy that Adm. von Diedrichs was sent to Manila where he clashed with Adm. Dewey before the battle of Manila bay.

Britain Opposed Jap Aims.

The Germans were pro-Spanish and made life miserable for Andrew D. White, our ambassador in Berlin. A holdover from the Cleveland administration and thoroly unsympathetic with McKinley imperialism, White sought to appease the Germans by assuring them that the United States had no intention of annexing Spanish colonies in the Pacific. The Germans said they wanted Samoa, the Caroline

HERE'S SUMMARY OF NEWS FROM BATTLE FRONTS

Latest war developments:

Four Yank troopers on Corregidor Island braved heavy Japanese fire to save the American flag after the Japs had shot it off its staff, Gen. Wainwright reported. They were awarded silver stars for gallantry in action. It was the second time Old Glory has thus been rescued.

Two Japanese columns are pushing forward from Mandalay, one northward toward China, the other west toward India, a Chungking communique revealed. The thrust north from Lashio, which was heavily bombed by American and Chinese flyers, has carried the invaders to within 23 miles of the Chinese border.

Bag 20 Jap Planes.

Allied headquarters in Australia reported a total week-end toll of 20 Jap planes destroyed and four Jap ships blasted by planes in scattered battles to the north and northeast of Australia. A 4-motored Jap flying boat was damaged in a 35 minute fight.

The RAF smashed at Germany again and Berlin reported the port of Hamburg was one of the targets of British bombs. The Vichy, France, radio reported planes were sighted over Toulon and Marseille, in southern France.

The Russian army forces all along the 2,000 mile battle front took oaths to make 1942 the final year of defeat for the Germans, Moscow reported.

'We'll Defend India,' Says U.S. General

NEW DELHI, India, May 3 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the United States air force in India, said in an army hour broadcast to the United States tonight that "we stand ready to defend the shores of India." He shared the broadcast with Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander in India.

[The New Delhi broadcast was unintelligible in the United States, due to atmospheric or Japanese interference, NBC reported in New York.]

The American commander told the people back home "you must realize that here there can be no question of divided effort or difference of viewpoint."

Says Soldiers Happy.

"Your soldiers are happy here," he said, "but are very anxious to finish this job and go home. Your United States air force in India has been in action against the enemy since the beginning of April.

"In close collaboration with the RAF we attacked successfully enemy warships and transports threatening Burma and the shores of India. We have struck repeatedly at the harbor, docks and warehouses at Rangoon which the Japanese must use to reenforce and supply their army in Burma."

Gen. Brereton paid high tribute to Gen. Wavell, declaring, "There is no commander with whom I'd rather serve."

Urges Letters from Home.

American forces have been welcomed "in a way to make your heart warm," Brereton said, but reminded the homefolk to remember that "letters sometimes seem even more important than ammunition."

Gen. Wavell said that the presence of the American air force in India "is to us and to this country evidence of the determination of the American people to stand side by side with this and other allied peoples wherever the enemy is to be met and is a guarantee of final success.

"I particularly welcome this opportunity to pay tribute to the fine work which was done and the great gallantry shown under the most difficult conditions by the United States air force under Maj. Gen. Brereton's command in Java," he said. "Their exploits won our whole-hearted admiration."

3 NAZI WARSHIPS CRIPPLED; HELD IN PORT: BRITISH

Threat to Allied Sea Lanes Reduced.

LONDON, May 3 (AP).—The elusive German 26,000 ton battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst and the 10,000 ton cruiser Prinz Eugen are definitely out of action and most undergo extensive repairs, the British announced today. A heavy blow thus has been dealt to German-Italian-Japanese hopes for a gigantic, simultaneous worldwide attack against the fleets of the united nations.

Breaking the reserve they had shown since the three ships challenged the British navy by sailing thru the English channel in February, the admiralty and the air ministry said the Nazi warships had been grievously hurt by torpedo and bombing attacks in the channel fight, by mines laid by British planes and by British surbmarine action.

The announcement, after the previous reserve, was taken to indicate that knowledge of the damage was absolutely certain and that the ships would not see action for a long time.

Only 3 Ready for Battle.

Instead of the formidable armada of six powerful warships ready for a smash at the British and United States fleets, Adolf Hitler now has, according to the best available reports, only three warships at Trondheim, occupied Norwegian port, ready for a fight. These are the battleship Tirpitz, 35,000 tons, the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, 10,000 tons, and the Admiral Hipper, sister shop of the Prinz Eugen.

The official announcement said the Gneisenau was located at Gdynia, former Polish port, the Scharnhorst still is in the dockyard at Kiel, German naval base which the RAF has pounded hard, and the Prinz Eugen is at Trondheim.

Reports from Norwegian sources said the Prinz Eugen had been grounded by the stern to keep her afloat.

Account of the Nazis' Dash.

In brief, the British gave this account of what happened to the three ships after they dashed from Brest on Feb. 11:

The trio, object of many raids by the RAF during their stay in the occupied French port, sailed in an effort to concentrate with other German surface ships at Trondheim.

On Feb. 14 the Germans announced that the battleships had left their base on the Atlantic supply route for "further operation duties"—but more than two months later aerial reconnaissance by the RAF has established that both the powerful ships are still in dockyard hands.

The Gneisenau is severely damaged along "the whole length of her forecastle and needs extensive repairs."

In addition to the damage suffered during the attempted concentration in the channel battle in February, it is probable "that further damage was caused by mines laid by our aircraft."

Suffer Additional Damage.

"It also seems probable that both the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau received additional damage between Feb. 25 and Feb. 28 during our bombing raids on the dockyard at Kiel. During these raids a liner used as a naval depot ship was also set on fire."

The Prinz Eugen made it safely to Germany, but later, on her way to Trondheim, was attacked off Kristian-

EIGHT RAILROADS TO CARRY LILACS FOR CITY SHUT-INS

Hope to Cheer 100,000 with Bouquets.

BY GAIL COMPTON.

Tomorrow and Wednesday lilac growers thruout Chicagoland will share their flowers with the sick and shut-ins of the city's hospitals and institutions.

In a wartime world where there is a great need for moral and spiritual courage, the fragrant bouquets of spring blooms will bring a note of joy and encouragement to those whose spirits are being tried hardest.

This year's campaign is the 14th that lilacs have been transported from suburban areas to decorate the bedsides of charity and ward patients in hospitals, homeless children in orphanages, and the lonely persons in the old people's homes. The "Share Your Lilacs" campaign is sponsored jointly by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Scouts Aid Campaign.

The work of cutting the lilacs and delivering them to local railroad stations is the result of the voluntary efforts of more than 2,000 garden club members affiliated with the guild, Boy and Girl Scout troops, and school children everywhere. Eight railroads coöperate in bringing the blooms freight free to city terminals where they are picked up by Tribune trucks and delivered to the hospitals and institutions.

Guild officials urge lilac donors to use extra care this year in cutting and wrapping the flowers so that they will arrive at their destinations in good condition. The flowers should be cut the afternoon before lilac day and kept in tubs or pails of water over night.

Pack in Damp Newspapers.

The lilacs should be wrapped in damp newspaper or packed in cardboard cartons. Do not allow the flowers to overrun the sides of the cartons or protrude beyond the newspaper or they may be shattered during handling.

During the two days of lilac distribution last year more than 100,000 blooms were distributed among 25,000 patients in 158 hospitals and institutions. This year the guild hopes to reach even more people so that every one can enjoy the beauty and fragrance of the season's first large flower crop.

BUSINESS GROUP TO HEAR DETAILS OF PRICE RULINGS

The method in which the price ceilings will work will be explained to Chicago business men tonight in the council chambers of the city hall by staff members of the Office of Price administration.

Leverett S. Lyon, executive secretary of the Chicago Association of Commerce will preside. Speakers will be Bruce MacLeish, vice president and secretary of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., and a member of the National OPA Retailers' Advisory committee, and J. P. Davis, OPA chief of procedures of the retail division.

A question and answer period will follow the addresses.

GERMAN BOMBER HIT BY NORSE FLYERS IN 1ST ICELAND AIR FIGHT

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 3 (AP).—The first air battle over the area of Iceland, the United States garrisoned base in the north Atlantic, between a long range German bomber and Norse airmen, was reported by American army officials today.

The German plane, altho damaged by a stream of bullets poured into its fuselage by the Norwegian plane, escaped into a cloud bank and its destruction was not confirmed. The Norwegians spotted the German bomber at sea and immediately closed in, opening fire. Tracer bullets showed that their second burst found its mark, but the bomber dived to within 100 feet of the sea and got away in a thick cloud. The Norwegian crew searched the area without result and returned to base unhurt.

There was nothing in the official report to suggest whether the German was engaged in routine patrol of the sea in search of allied shipping or on a more important mission.

Warns Australia May Set Up Food Ration Program

CANBERRA, Australia, May 3 (AP).—Food Minister John Beasley warned in a broadcast today that food rationing might be introduced in Australia. He said the government at least would be obliged to control more foodstuffs and that altho Australia had plenty of food, it is deficient in certain kinds. He added that imported foods soon would be scarce, making substitutions necessary.

GAMBLING RAID LEADS TO HUNT FOR HIGHERUPS

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

State's Attorney Courtney began an investigation yesterday to determine the identity of the men behind the grand opening of a gambling casino in the sedate Elms residential hotel at 1634 East 53d street—around the corner from the Hyde Park police station.

The grand opening, with roulette wheels and crap tables, was Saturday night. The grand closing came a few hours later, when Sam Freedman, assistant state's attorney, led a squad of detectives in, to the consternation of 45 women and men intent on chips ranging up to $100 in value.

Forced to Give Names.

The patrons were forced to give their names and addresses, in case Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, might find it interesting to summon them before the grand jury.

Nine men said by Freedman to be employés of the casino were arrested and subpenaed to appear before the grand jury today. They gave their names as Norman Ptashkin, Walter Parman, George Bennage, Joseph Hare, Sol Holub, Edward J. O'Connell, Charles O. Stromquist, Sid Jacobs, and James E. Hanley.

Manager Will Testify.

Miss Louise Lauten, manager of the hotel, also was ordered to come before the grand jury today. The prosecutors said they will try to learn the names of the higher ups in the gambling ring from her.

Miss Lauten said she rented the gamblers the dining room in which the casino was established on their assertion that they meant to conduct a keno game. She said they did not bring in the roulette wheels and crap tables until she had left the hotel Saturday night.

I. C. INAUGURATES 18 HOUR SERVICE TO NEW ORLEANS

Streamliner's Extra Fare Includes Dinner.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Centralia, Ill., May 3.—A new wartime train, the Illinois Central's streamlined Panama Limited, eased out of Chicago at 3:15 p. m. today to start an 18 hour service to and from New Orleans. It arrives in New Orleans at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow.

This new train, containing the latest innovations in passenger service, will take an important part in maintaining the road's war service to the nation. It links the busy arms plants of the Great Lakes region with those of the gulf area by the fastest train schedule in the road's history, and it makes available for other use 19 passenger cars and five steam locomotives.

Every car in this nine car train contains sleeping accommodations except the diner.

Colors Are Pleasing.

The 130 passengers boarding the train in Chicago were thrilled by the pleasing color combination of the exterior. A broad orange band extends the length of the cars under the window, edged with gold stripes. The base and the upper parts of the cars are painted a dark brown. Up ahead, the 4,000 horse power diesel electric locomotive is painted in vivid colors, mainly orange, to make it plainly seen by motorists.

Inside, passengers who have seen most of America's finest trains were surprised by the beauty of the decorations. Latin American decorative styling dominates the dining and observation cars.

There are new gadgets to intrigue the most cosmopolitan travelers. There is a two way telephone system linking each sleeper with the public parts of the train, such as the dining room and the bar.

The sleeping rooms have water bottles that operate on hinges.

Extra Fare Includes Dinner.

Each porter is given the name, address, and business connection of all his charges to make it easy to get messages.

The passenger also gets a pleasant surprise when he is informed that the extra fare he pays includes dinner.

Riding facilities of the train as it speeds south thru Illinois are rated excellent by the passengers who keep a steady procession thru the cars.

Placing of the new train marks success for years of effort to speed up service between Chicago and New Orleans. After the war the time is expected to be cut to 16 hours.

Built in Chicago.

The new Panama Limited is a Chicago product. The cars were built by the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company and the locomotive by the Electromotive corporation.

J. V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager, represented the Illinois Central railroad on the first run. A northbound duplicate of this train left New Orleans at 2 p. m. and will arrive in Chicago at 8 a. m.

President of Peru Starts Flight to Visit Roosevelt

Diagram prepared by James Bonebrake, 4142 Magoun avenue, East Chicago, Ind., teacher in the Lincoln school in East Chicago, to simplify sugar rationing registration procedure. With the aid of the diagram, registrars can tell at a glance how many stamps to remove from registrant's ration book. Example: A five member family has 16 pounds of sugar on hand. By referring to the diagram the registrar finds the family has six pounds in excess of its quota of two pounds per person, in this case a total of 10 pounds. Thus he will remove six stamps from the registrant's ration book.

Daughter of U. S. Envoy to South Africa Hurt in Fall

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, May 3 (AP).—Miss Joan Keena, daughter of Leo J. Keena, United States minister to the Union of South Africa, was seriously injured today when she fell over the rail of a railway car while traveling to Cape Town. Miss Keena, who is a member of an entertainment group attached to the South African forces, was taken to a hospital.

RAIL PASSENGER CURBS OPPOSED BY ROAD CHIEFS

Wartime Transportation Record Cited.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

There is no need at the present time for drastic curtailment of railroad passenger service such as has been suggested by Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, leading Chicago railroad executives said yesterday.

None would allow his name to be used because of the control the government has over the railroads. However, those asked about the Eastman statement were among those closest to the railroad situation of any traffic authorities in the country.

The railroads demonstrated their ability to handle both military and civilian traffic right after Pearl Harbor, one executive said. They moved about 600,000 men together with huge amounts of military paraphernalia over vast distances with the public almost unaware of what was going on, he said. Civilian travel during that emergency was hardly affected.

Winter Service Cited.

In the military movement after Pearl Harbor about three-quarters of 600,000 moved to the Pacific coast went in Pullman cars. And that was at a time when the railroads were handling their customary Christmas holiday business.

There is a tight situation in travel between Washington and New York, one executive said. But that is about the only place where that condition exists, altho travel between Washington and other leading cities is heavy and it is sometimes difficult for the railroad patron to get the exact type of accommodations wanted.

Outside the Washington-New York run, traffic has been moving smoothly. There have been a few instances where it is difficult to provide for every one at once such as in the streamlined service out of Florida.

Materials Difficult to Get.

Such luxury equipment as lounge and parlor cars could only be rebuilt into coaches thru large expenditures of money and time. Further, materials necessary to convert them into coaches are difficult to obtain. Some carbuilders, including the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, Philadelphia, have been unable to complete cars because of lack of materials.

The Pullman company, which operates sleepers all over the country, reported yesterday that it has been able to handle all business so far easily. It said it did not see how sleeping cars could be eliminated, as was suggested in the Eastman statement, because of the demand for them from the military, government, and other official sources.

One executive said there would be opposition to reduction of the running time of high speed transcontinental and thru trains by army and navy officers, government officials and war plant executives—all of whom want to get to their destinations in a hurry. There has been an ever increasing load placed on the air lines and now planes are being taken off the air lines to go into military use, reducing the amount of high speed transportation available.

Train Weights Reduced.

Another executive said it might be possible to reduce the weight of some trains by taking off parlor and lounge cars and this has been done in a few instances such as in the Chicago-St. Louis service.

The railroads recognize that with the wearing out of automobile tires there will be an increasing load thrown on them. With this situation ahead of them they are planning for the future and there undoubtedly will be coördination of service between centers where there are numerous competing roads.

One railroad executive said some cars might be taken off branch lines where business is light. Attempts to eliminate such service, he said, are opposed strenuously by state utilities agencies.

The railroads already have eliminated excursions and special rates to discourage large movements and they are urging the public to stagger vacations to eliminate peak movements.

One railroad executive said the automobile tire situation has not yet reached the point where workers in arms plants will pay the fares charged by the railroads to take them from their homes to the plants. He cited railroad service established to take workers from Louisville, Ky., to the big powder plants at Charlestown, Ind. Workers preferred to ride in their own automobiles.

Another railroad man said his road—one of the transcontinental lines—could handle from one third to a half more passenger business.

HAWAII MAY OFTEN BE BOMBED, EMMONS WARNS 4,000 WARDENS

HONOLULU, May 3 (AP).—The Hawaiian Islands may be bombed again and again by strong enemy forces, Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commander of the Hawaiian department, told 4,000 air raid wardens at a massed review today.

"War has come very close to the civilian," he said. "Battle lines are immediately around us. The civilian must assume duty along with the soldier and it is gratifying to see you men and women have accepted responsibility. The strategic location and importance of these islands indicate that we may be bombed again and again, and in strength.

"Our defensive forces are well trained and constantly on the alert. They will inflict heavy damage on the enemy, but it is too much to expect we will escape damage. Among the things you can do to limit the success of the enemy are to give warnings, look out for the safety and welfare of the civil population, bolster their assurance and confidence, care for the wounded, and assist in discovering and controlling fires."

100,000 POLISH CITIZENS HEAR GREEN'S PRAISE

Mark 151st Constitution Day Anniversary.

BY KERMIT HOLT.

"Poland is not dead. Poland will rise again."

Charles Rozmarek.

More than 100,000 Polish-Americans, part of Chicago's largest racial group, cheered those words yesterday as they gathered in Humboldt park to observe the 151st anniversary of the adoption of the Polish constitution.

While the celebration was primarily a tribute to their mother country, the huge throng applauded, time after time, assertions that Polish freedom is secondary to an American victory in the fight against the axis. After the war is won, a score of speakers told them, Poland will be restored.

Charles Rozmarek, president of the Chicago organization, presided.

Gather at Kosciuszko Statue.

The Polish-Americans, residents of the largest Polish city after Warsaw, gathered around the statue of Gen. Thaddeus Kosciuszko, Revolutionary war hero, and heard addresses by Gov. Green; Dr. Karol Ripa, Polish consul general in Chicago; Dr. F. X. Swietlik, dean of the Marquette university law school in Milwaukee and grand censor of the Polish National alliance, and other Polish-American leaders.

Observance of Polish Constitution day began in the morning with masses in the 55 Polish Roman Catholic churches of the Chicago archdiocese. A two mile parade of civic, religious, social, and war veterans' organizations preceded the meeting in Humboldt park.

Gov. Green Praises Patriotism.

In the principal address Gov. Green paid tribute to the Poles who have helped build the American nation.

"I am very happy to be the guest of a great group which for so many years has devoted tireless effort to creating and nourishing the true values of Americanism," Gov. Green said. "This exceptional gathering is a magnificent manifestation of that principle of equality which we pledge to ourselves, and which millions have pledged before us for 156 years.

"Nowhere else in the world except in America is that liberty enjoyed which permits the people of any national blood to speak their thoughts and ideals freely under the all-encompassing protection of the American flag."

Here to Escape Despotism.

"We call ourselves Americans," he continued. "Yet who are we Americans? Some are children of Poles who came here to escape despotism. Others are sons and daughters of Germans who fled the tyrannies of the Hohenzollerns, and some are descendants of Russians and Italians and Slavs.

"You are gathered here to observe Polish Constitution day, but you exemplify more than a tribute to your ancestry and to your former homeland. Your presence is evidence that liberty and equality and opportunity are the principles into which you have breathed your very souls.

"We in America recognize our debt to Poland, a debt we have tried to repay and have repaid in part by our amicable relations and by our earnest prayers that Poland's independence be restored."

The celebration was sponsored by the Polish National alliance.

JAP GOVERNMENT PARTY WINS 378 SEATS IN DIET

TOKIO, May 3 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Complete returns from all but one of the 122 constituencies today showed that candidates of the league for support of the throne scored a sweeping victory in the April 30 elections of a new house of representatives, Domei said today.

The government recommended candidates won 378 of the 466 seats, the news agency said, and added that the "fact that Rightiest elements, as well as Renovationists, made an amazingly strong showing, contrasted with the decline of Leftist and Liberalist elements, is indicative of the nation's unqualified support of the government's foreign policies."

The foreign office Japan Times and Advertiser said the election showed determination "to carry the war to a successful conclusion." A record turnout of the 15,000,000 eligible male voters was said to have taken place.

BRITISH PRIMATE GIVES POSTWAR PEOPLE'S CHARTER

MANCHESTER, England, May 3 (AP).—The archbishop of Canterbury outlined a broad postwar "people's charter" today to improve the lot of the common man. He said the aim of this program would be better housing, equality in education, adequate leisure for personal and family life, universal recognition of holidays with pay, and a "wisdom pool" thru which views and experiences of all sections of a community could be exchanged. The archbishop also advocated wider appreciation of the view that labor is a partner in industry as much as management and capital.

EXPERTS EXPECT JAP ATTACK ON PACIFIC ROUTES

Islands and one or two positions in the Philippines and White said he saw no objections thereto. He even suggested a German-American conference to divide up the Spanish islands.

The British government, however, struck an attitude of distinct hostility to the German ambitions in the Pacific and expressed the hope that the United States would get and keep the Philippines, failing which Britain wanted an option on their purchase.

Notwithstanding this rebuff, the Germans concluded a secret agreement with Spain whereby they would receive some of the islands in the Caroline group and "favorable consideration in any future disposal of Spanish insular possessions."

Secret Treaty on Islands.

In the peace negotiations, the United States did not insist on getting all the Spanish islands, taking only the Philippines and Guam. Thereupon Germany purchased the Carolines, the Pelews and the Mariana Islands, exclusive of Guam, from Spain for $4,200,000.

In February, 1917, just before the entry of the United States into the World war Great Britain and Japan made a secret treaty dividing German possessions in the Pacific. Japan got Shantung and all the German islands north of the equator. Great Britain took the German islands south of the equator. In consideration of this deal Japan agreed to give naval assistance against the U-boats in the Mediterranean. President Wilson always insisted that he did not know of this secret treaty until after he got to Paris. Secretary of State Lansing, however, was aware of it.

Under the League of Nations covenant Japan received the mandate for these islands and proceeded to fortify them and establish naval and air bases therein in defiance of the mandate terms. She excluded all foreigners from the islands and made deceptive reports to the League of her stewardship.

Report 16 Poles Shot for Forming Anti-Nazi Group

LONDON, May 4 [Monday]—(AP).—The Moscow radio reported today that the Germans had shot 16 persons in Vilna, Poland, on charges of creating an anti-German organization. The radio report was based on a Tass dispatch from Stockholm, Sweden, quoting the Swedish newspaper Eskilstuna.

Built in 3 Years

Three years ago Werner Salg, 30 years old, 1044 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, built a sheet metal workshop at the rear of 123 South Laflin street and began building a boat. Yesterday he tore the shed down. He had to to get the boat out. The unveiling revealed a 30 foot, 6 ton auxiliary cutter of teakwood and mahogany. Salg, who manages a die engraving concern at the Laflin street address, has spent every leisure moment in the last three years building the boat. He spent $3,000 for materials and completed the job alone. Only one task remains. He will take the boat to the lake today to find out if it will float.

Japs Claim 50,000 Chinese Trapped Near Yellow River

TOKIO, May 3 [From Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Domei news agency reports from the Yellow river front in China today said 50,000 Chinese troops were encircled by Japanese forces in the vicinity of Wuchen in western Shantung province and Weihsien in southwestern Hopei province as the result of a series of drives started last Wednesday.

2 ARMY AND 2 NAVY AIRPLANES CRASH; 12 KILLED

Two army planes crashed in the Pacific northwest last night, killing nine men and injuring three. A third plane with six aboard was reported overdue.

On the east coast crashes of two navy planes were reported, accounting for three more deaths, one of them a navy ensign whose home was in Mattoon, Ill. Details follow:

Two Bombers Crash.

Pendleton, Ore., May 3 (AP).—Nine men were killed and three injured today in separate crashes of two big army bombers on the west coast.

A flying fortress rammed the wooded Blue mountains near Pendleton, Ore., and exploded, killing six flyers and injuring two.

Three men died in the crash of their bomber near Tacoma, Wash., and another man was seriously hurt. The plane was on a routine flight from the McChord field air base.

In the Oregon crash Technical Sergt. Wesley E. Wallace, Philadelphia, who survived without losing consciousness, struggled in a dazed condition thru two miles of forest to reach a highway and tell a motorist of the tragedy.

Reserve Crews Sent Out.

Rescue crews from the Pendleton army air base, from where the Boeing B-17 plane had taken off on a training flight, were directed to the scene by Wallace, and found Sergt. John H. Starr, Littleton, Mass., unconscious and in a critical condition from spinal injuries.

Col. Frank W. Wright, base commander, said the other crew members, all killed instantly, were:

First Lieut. Joseph T. H. Laycock, Baton Rouge, La., the pilot, who also was a squadron commander.

Second Lieut. James M. Brown, Pleasant Hill, La., co-pilot.

Sergt. William A. Forrest, Salisbury, N. C.

Staff Sergt. Harry G. Cameron, Medford, Mass.

Staff Sergt. Richard L. Carmichael, Wynnewood, Pa.

Mattoon Ensign Killed.

Norfolk, Va., May 3 (AP).—Two navy land planes crashed during the weekend near Whitehurst field near Norfolk, carrying three navy men to death, the 5th naval district announced tonight.

The dead were listed as Harold E. Bowers, aviation photographer, first class, of Des Moines, Ia., and M. K. Wenc, aviation ordnance man, third class, of Saundersville, Mass., killed Saturday afternoon, and Ensign Paul Warren Monson, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ray Monson of Mattoon, Ill., killed this morning.

Another Plane Overdue.

Ft. George Wright, Wash., May 3 (AP).—Capt. Robert Emahiser, public relations officer at 2d air force headquarters, said tonight a two-motored army bombing plane was overdue on a flight from Gowen field, Boise, to Felts field, Spokane. Two officers and four enlisted men were aboard the ship. Capt. Emahiser said it was possible the plane had landed safely in some remote spot.

BROADCASTS A THREAT TO U. S. NEWSPAPERS

Philadelphia, Pa., May 3. [Special].—John Austin, radio commentator sponsored by a finance company notorious for its "loan shark" rate of interest, tonight in a broadcast attacked several of the country's largest newspapers. He professed to have knowledge that the government is preparing to "crack down" on certain publishers and papers.

Officials of station WCAU, thru which he broadcast, knew neither Austin's address nor telephone number and refused to make public transcriptions of what he said. A representative of the loan company refused to give out information concerning Austin.

PUBLISHER ASKS: WHEN DO WE LIFT LID ON BUNGLING?

Censorship Temptation Is Seen as Threat.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., May 3 [Special].—At the rededication today of a historic shrine of press freedom, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, president and publisher of the New York Times, raised the question of how long American newspapers ought to submit to voluntary censorship involving suppression of bungling and carelessness.

The occasion was the dedication of the restored Saint Paul's church, on whose grounds in 1733 Peter Zenger, an editor, defied the English crown governor to print the facts of a controversial New York assembly election and to become the first American martyr to a free press.

Sees Great Responsibility.

"Never before was the responsibility of newspapers as great as at this moment," Sulzberger declared. "If, in our belief, a battle was bungled or a ship lost for apparently careless reasons, and if the story is not told—as in some instances it has not been—how long will we—who may know the facts—obey these rules of censorship—rules that we have helped to make?"

The New York publisher asserted that there can obviously be no cut and dried answer to this question.

"Equally obviously," he said, "it is the duty of the press to support our government as long as it is worthy of support and to do so even if that government fails to demonstrate a comparable desire to support the press or, as has frequently been the case, to do other than criticize it."

Sulzberger differentiated between the censorship clamped down on Zenger and the voluntary censorship now adopted by the American press. He added that newspapers have accepted voluntary censorship freely and that "the simple law of self-preservation" insures it.

Power a Heady Wine.

"Never before in this country has there been such a concentration of power as now exists in Washington," he said. "The temptation is always present to use censorship—once it is developed—first, to soften the impact of bad news and, finally, to cover the inefficiency of government bureaus and personnel.

"That is no reflection upon any one now in Washington," he stated. "It is merely a recognition that those who are there are human and that power is a heady wine."

Sulzberger explained that he spoke as a member of the publishers' committee headed by James W. Brown, editor of Editor and Publisher.

Letter from President.

A letter from President Roosevelt was read during the ceremonies. The President's mother, the late Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, was honorary chairman of the church's restoration committee. His letter, addressed to the Rev. Dr. W. Harold Weigle, rector of St. Paul's, was read by Basil O'Connor, chairman of the dedication committee and the President's former law partner.

20 JAP PLANES RAID MORESBY; 4 ARE SHOT DOWN

Allies Bag 20 Aircraft, Hit 4 Ships in Weekend

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 4 [Monday]—(AP).—Allied fighters shot down three Japanese bombers and one fighter yesterday over Port Moresby, New Guinea, damaged three enemy transports at Rabaul, New Britain, on Saturday, and damaged another enemy aircraft at Bougainville in the Solomon Islands yesterday, allied headquarters announced. This made a week-end toll of 20 enemy aircraft in scattered battles.

The Japanese planes destroyed over Port Moresby were part of an attacking force of 12 bombers and 8 Zero fighters, a communique said.

The bulletin described the work of the allied fighters as "brilliant" and said their losses were light.

Hit Big Flying Boat.

The communique disclosed that allied bombers had carried out another raid on Rabaul Saturday night scoring direct hits on a Japanese transport. Two transports had been reported damaged and a tender capsized in a daylight raid on Rabaul Saturday.

The enemy aircraft damaged at Rabaul was a big four engined flying boat which was engaged in a 35 minute running fight by two allied bombers on reconnaissance, headquarters said.

Advance into New Guinea.

AN ADVANCED ALLIED BASE, Australia, May 2 [Delayed].—The Japanese have made another incursion into the Markham valley on the other side of New Guinea, and have reached the high mark of their advance there six weeks ago, when floods chased them out, an Australian military spokesman said today.

A strong Japanese force went up into the Markham valley 27 miles from Lae, reaching Nadzab. Australian forces have not yet contacted them. A second Japanese advance was reported south of Salamaua, where the enemy traversed 15 miles without contacting Australians. Last week a small Australian patrol encountered a strong Japanese detachment there, killing several.

The purpose of these Japanese advances is belived to be to acquire airdromes in the plateau country which can be used as dispersal fields for planes now based at Lae and Salamaua, both of which have taken a drubbing by allied bombers and fighters. Fields were built in that country in peacetime to accommodate planes carrying all sorts of machinery and supplies to the gold fields. There are many such airdromes.

Japs Report Island Raid.

TOKIO, May 3 [from Japanese broadcasts] (AP).—A Domei news agency dispatch from the Japanese base in the southwest Pacific reported today that Japanese bombers scored devastating hits on an air base on Horn Island, off the northeastern tip of Australia, and subjected a military establishment at Tulagi, in the Solomon Islands, to a damaging assault last Thursday.

[The official allied report on those raids, issued last Friday, said eight enemy bombers with a fighter escort attacked the Horn Island airdrome, but damage was negligible.]

Yanks, Latin Americans in Norway to Be Exchanged

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 3.—United States and South American citizens living in Norway—with the exception of Argentines and Chileans—are to be exchanged for Norwegians living in the United States and South America, according to a decision reached by the Vidkun Quisling government. Norwegian authorities have appealed to these citizens to register before Wednesday with the "Norwegian or German authorities" to be sent back to their countries in exchange for a similar number of Norwegians.

Key West Has a Blackout —Till Building Catches Fire

Key West, Fla., May 3 (AP).—An unannounced blackout plunged this city into darkness at 10 p. m., but a $4,000 fire broke out that ruined its effectiveness. The blaze, originating in a café, spread to an adjoining dwelling and lighted up the midtown section.

Navy Service Emblem

New service emblem designed especially for families with men in the naval service.

A special red, white, and blue service emblem, exclusively for families with men in the United States navy, has been issued by the navy department, Lieut. David N. Goldenson, Chicago naval recruiting officer, said yesterday. The emblem, suitable for posting in the windows of homes, may be obtained free upon application at the seventh floor, south wing, of the United States courthouse, 225 South Clark street. No mail deliveries will be made.

YANKS SLEEPLESS AND HUNGRY ON AUSSIE WEEK-END

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 3 (AP).—Hundreds of Australian and American soldiers and sailors on leave went hungry and sleepless this weekend when the town's hospitality arrangements broke down. The Rev. H. Hawkins declared "this bungling was an insult to the soldiers and humiliating to Melbourne people."

The Rev. Hawkins said that during the week innumerable private families offered hospitality to the soldiers and that an adequate list of accommodations was prepared, but the authorities were informed few men would be on leave and the arrangements were canceled. Then a trainload of American soldiers arrived.

Beds were found for 528 at the YMCA Saturday night but 180 others slept on the gymnasium floor and billiard tables.

Spring Tides Cause Heavy Floods in Dutch Guiana

PARAMARIBO, Surinam, May 3 (AP).—Heavy spring tides are causing the severest floods in the history of Dutch Guiana, flooding many streets and gardens, Aneta, Netherlands Indies news agency, reported today.

3 NAZI WARSHIPS CRIPPLED; HELD IN PORT: BRITISH

sund, Norway, by the submarine Trident.

"Tho not sunk, it was evident that she was severely damaged. Reconnaissance has also shown that tho she did reach Trondheim, the after part of this enemy cruiser needs very considerable repair."

The communique did not take into consideration any damage which might have been done the Scharnhorst and the Prinz Eugen by heavy RAF attacks on Kiel and Trondheim late in April.

Disrupts Hitler's Plans.

The knocking out of three of Hitler's most powerful ships threw a monkey wrench into any plans he might have had to put his battlefleet into the North Atlantic in an attack on the allied supply line to northern Russia.

Many naval experts have been expecting Hitler, Mussolini, and Premier Tojo of Japan to order their combined naval forces into action simultaneously this spring in a move coördinated with a German land attack in Russia.

Under this plan, while Hitler attacked in the North Atlantic, the Italian fleet would engage the British and American Mediterranean forces and the Japanese would drive into the Indian ocean and toward Australia in the Pacific.

Allies Must Keep Watch.

"Such an effort would strain the allied nations' sea power to the utmost," one source conceded, "not to mention the havoc it might cause to the supply lines to Russia, India, and Australia."

Even tho British and American navies must keep powerful units on watch on the ships at Trondheim, the potential striking power of the axis has been greatly reduced and the strain eased in the event of any such combined attack, well informed sources agreed.

Altho the amount of damage on the Prinz Eugen was not mentioned, these sources said a torpedo hit on the aft part of the vessel, would mean a dockyard job and there are no such facilities in Trondheim.

"She probably will have to be patched up temporarily and taken to Germany for repairs," one source said.

Hitler Navy Crippled

Map locates ports where the British say are three German warships—the Prinz Eugen (1), the Scharnhorst (2), and the Gneisenau (3)—which have been put out of action by British attacks.

YANK COOK HAS AN IDEA: ANTHILL MADE INTO OVEN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 3 (AP).—The Americans at an advanced flying base have just about all the comforts of home—plus parrots and a Dutch oven burned out of an ant hill.

One fighter plane squadron captured two young green parakeets and in their off hours the pilots are trying to teach the birds to say "Air raid! Air raid! Yipee!"

The camp boasted the novel Dutch oven after the cook had a brilliant idea. He dug a hole in the top of a three foot tall conical ant hill. Then he poured in gasoline and burned out the interior—and now he cooks pastries in the hollowed interior. One pilot, an expert taxidermist, finds plenty to do stuffing goannas [lizards] and other reptiles.

Waste not today what tomorrow may need

TODAY, in the midst of a great war of production, the American people are using the idea embodied in this maxim to preserve their material resources. By wise foresight and thrifty saving, they are "wasting not today" the rubber, metals, and other essential raw materials which "tomorrow" is sure to need, and on which the victory and the freedom of the United Nations depend.

For a hundred years Americans have been using the same principle to create life insurance. By the same wise foresight, the same thrifty saving, they have built for themselves and their families a financial security which can be depended on in future times of personal trouble and distress.

JAPS STRIKE AT CHINA AND INDIA FROM MANDALAY

Two Columns Advance to Encircle Allies.

LONDON, May 3.—The onrushing Japanese pushed north from Mandalay toward China and west toward India today in a great encircling move of annihilation against the weary, outnumbered Chinese and British defenders of Burma.

A Reuters report from Chungking said the Japanese launched a fierce assault on Chinese positions 65 miles north of Lashio, southeastern terminus of the Burma road.

The Chinese were said to be putting up stiff resistance with both sides losing heavily. Last previous reports from the Burma front placed the Japanese at Kweichieh, 58 miles above Lashio, where fierce fighting with heavy losses on both sides had been reported.

Near Chinese Border.

The Japanese thrust northward from Lashio carried them within 23 miles of China's Yunnan province, a Chungking communique said.

The "Flying Tigers" of the American volunteer group struck back heavily at Lashio, bombing grounded planes, setting fire to barracks at the airdrome, and blowing up a large fuel dump. Several AVG planes swept low over the airdrome, strafing personnel.

Confusion in Mandalay.

The Chinese high command said the enemy pushed on to Mandalay after investing the railway town of Kyaukse, 35 miles south, on April 30.

A Chungking communique from the forces commanded by Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, U. S. A., said the Japanese entered Manadalay Friday and that savage fighting and great confusion raged in the rubble of the former capital of Burmese kings.

The British account issued at New Delhi said vaguely that Chinese troops "are on both sides of the Irrawaddy river in the vicinity of Mandalay" but authorative military quarters declared "it is apparent the Japanese control the Mandalay-Lashio road" and that the allied position was "very mucky indeed."

The Japanese filled the air with radio accounts of the Burmese triumphs and said Mandalay was a destroyed city, "burned to the ground."

Steel Bridges in Ruins.

The Japanese attested to the thoroness of the British scorched earth policy by saying most steel bridges into the city were heaps of tangled ruin.

More ominously, the keynote of all the Japanese boasts was that "Mandalay had become an advance base for an attack on India."

The Chinese communique said the Japanese continued to drive northward from Lashio, railhead of the Burma road, but that Chinese forces holding Taunggyi, 170 miles to the southwest, were continuing to harrass the Japanese communication lines and rear.

There was a faint and desperate hope that these forces, pocketed between the Sittang and Salween rivers, might exert sufficient pressure to isolate the more advanced Japanese.

Two Columns Advancing.

Competent London military quarters said the Japanese apparently had thrown out two powerful columns, one from the Lashio vicinity aimed at Bhamo, 175 miles to the northeast of Mandalay, and the other cutting to the west of Mandalay in the direction of India in an encircling move against British forces along the Chindwin river, which flows into the Irrawaddy.

Bhamo is the northernmost point of navigation on the Irrawaddy and the terminus of an ancient and important caravan road of Kunning, Chinese capital of Yunnan province.

Artillery Helps Enemy.

"The enemy was in far greater strength and supported by divisional medium artillery," the British communique added.

Japanese accounts said the destruction of Mandalay was complete. Most of the city had been burned by Japanese bombing attacks, and the rest apparently was demolished by the defenders and dissident Burmese.

"The whole city with its harbor installations, silk mills, and bazaars was but one heap of ruins," the Tokio radio said. "Smoke curled from debris which extended for miles and no human being was visible. Even the picturesque Buddhist monasteries with their world famous wood carvings were burned. It seemed as if the Japanese had entered a ghost city. The half burned old palace and part of the golden pagoda seemed to be the only monuments which remained partially standing during the hellish conflagration which consumed the entire large city."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by the Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. John A. Rehnberg, 8151 Peoria street.]

THE QUESTION.

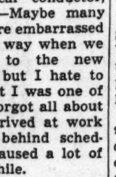
Did a slip of your memory ever cause you embarrassment?

WHERE ASKED.

Merchant's National Bank, 3158 West Madison street.

Emily Knitter, telephone operator, 1021 North Campbell avenue.—When I bought my new purse I filled it with everything from my old one. The next morning when I went to work I forgot about the transaction and grabbed the old one. It was embarrassing enough to have to borrow money, but without my make-up kit I really "lost face."

David Sax, street car conductor, 4355 Flournoy street.—Maybe many others were embarrassed the same way when we changed to the new wartime, but I hate to think that I was one of them. I forgot all about it and arrived at work an hour behind schedule. It caused a lot of shifting around for awhile.



George Reynolds, photographer, 3255 Monroe street.—The customers were in a hurry for the pictures and said they'd wait right there while I developed them. After hours of hard work with the uncoöperative child model I had to tell them we had to go thru it all again as I had forgotten to load the plates with film.

Florence Guerino, telephone clerk, 3502 Franklin boulevard.—My husband was in the wholesale meat business and one of his best customers called to give him a large order. I wrote it all down and then forgot to give it to my husband. It took a lot of talking to talk myself out of that one.

Marie Beneda, telephone supervisor, 2714 South Ridgeway avenue—It was my job to train a class of new student telephone operators. I was giving a lesson in speed and was going to demonstrate to them how to check in and out of work in a hurry to avoid congestion. I tried to work the lock on my locker and forgot the combination.

Isabel Park, telephone operator, 533 Lawndale avenue—Instead of dressing for my 8 o'clock date I laundered every pair of stockings I had besides many other clothes, completely forgetting the appointment. Then while my date waited impatiently in the living room, I baked the clothes dry in the kitchen oven.

CHINESE PLANES AND 'TIGERS' HIT JAPS AT LASHIO

Yanks Bomb Air Field on the Burma Road.

CHUNGKING, May 3 (AP).—Bombers flown by Chinese airmen and fighter planes of the American volunteer group smashed with heavy and unexpected force yesterday Lashio, advance base for the Japanese East Burma armies.

AVG headquarters said "a Chinese bombardment group" supported by units of the AVG left fire and wreckage amidst parked planes and barracks buildings on the enemy occupied Lashio airfield, and blew up a big gasoline storage dump.

China Gets Air Support.

To the Chinese defenders under United States Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, backed up now against the Yunnan province border, the news of the raid meant one thing: China appears to be getting heavier air support.

[This first official mention of a "Chinese bombardment group" seemed a definite indication that reënforcements of heavy warplanes have reached China, probably from India. Thruout the Burma campaign the only Chinese and British air support has consisted of the AVG and its P-40 fighting planes and small units of the RAF. Lately there have been several long-distance attacks on Rangoon and the Japanese occupied Andaman Islands in the Bay of Bengal by heavy planes from the U. S.-Brereton command in India. The last of these was a night attack on Rangoon Wednesday.]

Text of Communique.

The AVG announcement said neither the Chinese nor the Americans lost anything in men or equipment in the Lashio raid. The official account read:

"A Chinese air force bombardment group supported by units of the AVG heavily bombed Lashio this afternoon. Bombs were seen to fall on the airdrome in the midst of parked planes. Barracks buildings were set on fire and a large fuel dump blown up.

"Several American volunteer group planes swept low over the field and strafed the airdrome.

"No losses in aircraft or personnel were sustained by the attackers."

Japs Advance 58 Miles.

The Japanese occupied Lashio, southwestern terminus of the Burma road, last Wednesday, after a massive attack by tanks, armored cars, and aircraft. They pushed on quickly along the Burma road to Hsenwi and, receiving reinforcement Friday night, advanced to Kweichieh, 58 miles above Lashio.

Fierce fighting was in progress there today, with heavy losses for both sides.

Suffers Fatal Stroke in Restaurant.

CADETS AT STATE TRAINING SCHOOL RECEIVE MEDALS

The Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars conferred medals upon inmates of the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles yesterday at the school's annual military drill. Walter Cherry, Ernest Ford, and James Kehoe tied for honors as the outstanding cadet. Ernest Emmrich was acclaimed the best captain, Corp. Ralph Rohr the best noncommissioned officer and Thomas Bangue the best private. The inmates of Washington Cottage dormitory won the dormitory drill contest. The awards were made by E. J. Stilwell of Elgin, patriotic instructor of the VFW.

NEW ZEALANDERS MAKE HUGE BASE OF THEIR NATION

Expand Army as War Tools Pour In.

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, May 3.—Swift development of natural defenses by New Zealanders themselves and the pouring in of war materials have built a powerful main base here for the new South Pacific command which American Vice Adm. Robert L. Ghormley is to take over soon.

Vice Adm. Ghormley.

Army promotions announced this week indicate the land forces have been built up to a full army demanding the creation of four new major generals. Also Maj. Gen. Edward Puttick, chief of the general staff, was advanced to commander in chief of New Zealand forces with the rank of lieutenant general.

Seek New Recruits.

Plans to recruit in the current week enough men to build up the home guard, previously 100,000 strong, to full battle strength, indicate that organization and equipment of this holding force are now near completion.

The latest tanks are being handled by appreciative graduates of the armored fighting vehicles school. Around the coasts, heavy artillery installed in hidden pits in the most unexpected places, commands likely landing points.

Air Force Transformed.

The major development has been the transformation of the New Zealand air force, planned mainly as a training organization, into a combat unit. This task has now largely been carried out.

New Zealand is garrisoned by a trained and equipped force the dimensions of which exceed anything thought possible even two years ago.

3 Soldiers in Battle Dress Drown in Canadian River

CHATHAM, Ont., May 3 (AP).—Three Canadian soldiers from a basic training center drowned in two boating accidents in the Thames river Saturday. Wearing heavy battle dress and army boots, they sank immediately altho other occupants of the boats were saved.

Report Rommel Names New Chief for Army in Libya

LONDON, May 3 (AP).—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has brought Lieut. Gen. Nehring from the eastern front and put him in charge of the German African armies succeeding Gen. Cruewell, the News Chronicle reported today in a dispatch from its correspondent with the eighth army in Libya. Rommel remains as commander of the German-Italian forces in Libya, but has brought in younger officers for a number of regiments, the dispatch said. Maj. Gen. von Bismarck was reported in command of the 21st Panzer [armored] division.

This is about APPETITES we've known . . . . . and what happened to them . . . . . at HENRICI'S

One we knew . . . . . and never will forget . . . . . was a roaring, stomping, meat-'n-potatoes, pie-'n-coffee appetite that lived inside a big, smart, energetic man . . . . . and it came in each day at noon or night . . . . with a chip on its shoulder and dared us to think up something big enough and good enough to stop its roaring . . . . . and every day we did . . . . . and right today that appetite is one of our firmest friends.

Another appetite . . . . . a small and timid little thing . . . . . came in one day to sulk . . . . . we dusted off our sympathy . . . . . and fed it greens and salads right at first . . . . . and then from time to time a bit of fine roast beef, or fish . . . . . and even later on desserts!

Well, you should see that hunger now . . . . . a nicer, happier, better-mannered appetite you'd never want to meet.

REPORT NEW NAZI TROOPS SENT TO QUELL SERBIANS

Uprisings in Jugo-Slavia Grow, Turkey Told.

[By wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 3.—Jugo-Slavia is in chaos on the eve of Germany's expected spring offensives and the anticipated general attack on the axis occupying forces there by Gen. Draja Mikhailovitch's Serbian troops, according to a special agent who escaped from Jugo-Slavia last week.

The agent reported that the German high command had sent fresh troops into Serbia in an attempt to quell guerrilla warfare and sabotage. A German infantry division and another Elite guard division have been moved into Belgrade to reënforce the Elite guard division stationed there since last winter, the agent said.

Serbs Face Many Divisions.

The axis forces now engaged in fighting Serbian regulars and Chetniks, Croats and Moslem revolutionaries, and communist saboteurs include nine Italian and seven Bulgarian divisions, one Hungarian division, and the entire Croatian Ustachi army of about 80,000 ragamuffin conscripts.

Half of a German tank regiment is billeted outside Belgrade and the rest of the regiment is expected to arrive from Hungary. German officers have been put in command of every garrison in Serbia.

Despite the wholesale destruction wrought in the German clean-up campaigns and mass executions, Serbian resistance and sabotage are growing, the agent reported.

Four Nazi Agencies Rule.

The confusion and disorder in Belgrade, which aids the night raiding Chetniks, is heightened by the German burocracy, with four separate Nazi administrations beside the puppet government of Premier Milan Neditch, now attempting to rule. They include the military governor, the Gestapo, the civil administrator, and the Volksdeutscheburo, which is described as a maze of burocrats, gauleiters [leaders] and Nazi party ne'er-do-wells from Berlin.

The Italian and Croat detachments stationed in Belgrade are treated with contempt by the Germans as well as by the Serbs. Many Croats were reported deserting daily rather than suffer the humiliation of bootshining jobs and the danger of guard duty at suburban warehouses and on the Danube wharves after nightfall.

The Italians and Croats have to buy and trade in the black markets in order to survive. The Serbs refuse to speak German or Italian and the axis occupiers have to use the Serbian tongue in any dealings.

Disorders Upset Croatia.

The Jugo-Slav agent said anarchy and disorders were besetting Dr. Ante Pavelitch's "kingdom" of Croatia. He declared all Croatia was in the grip of spy fever and that a simple denunciation was enough to insure the execution of anybody. Gen. Mikhailovitch's name, he said, strikes terror among the Ustachi, who regard garrison duty outside Zagreb as tantamount to suicide.

In the Hungarian held regions the January and February demonstrations were reported to have been transformed into active revolt. The Hungarians were said to have killed more than 3,000 Serbs, 1,600 Jews, 700 anti-fascist Germans and Hungarians in the Novisad district alone, and burned whole villages.

The Croatian Ustachi rules in Zagreb, but outlying cities such as Karlovatz and Banjaluka, a Bosnian industrial city now put in "Greater Croatia," are frequently terrorized by Chetnik raiders. Marshal Kvaternik, Croatia's chief of staff, has narrowly escaped assassination three times.

REPORT FASCISTS SHOT FOR URGING ITALY QUIT WAR

MOSCOW, May 3 (AP).—A soviet information bureau communique said tonight that "at the end of April many prominent representatives of the Fascist party were arrested and shot in Italy. It is believed the arrested persons opposed the dispatch of Italian troops to the soviet-German front and demanded withdrawal of Italy from the war."

A half column Tass news agency dispatch from Geneva reported the meeting of Hitler and Mussolini at Salzburg and discounted the axis communique as "full of the usual phrases about military and political 'coöperation.'"

The dispatch quoted Swiss circles as interpreting the meeting as an occasion for Hitler to present "a number of new claims" to Mussolini for additional Italian aid against Russia as well as to discuss future operations in the Mediterranean.

Hitler was represented as promising Italy compensation for its "cannon fodder" at the expense of France.

LAVAL, DARLAN FETE JAP ENVOYS ON AXIS MISSION

Banquets, Honor Guard Mark Arrival in Vichy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, May 3—The cordiality of relations between France and Japan was affirmed with colorful formality at receptions today for Adm. Naokuni Nomura, head of the Japanese mixed axis commission in Berlin, and Rear Adm. Abe, member of the commission in Rome.

The Japanese admirals, returning to Berlin from Madrid, conferred with both Adm. Jean Darlan, chief of armed forces, and Pierre Laval, chief of government.

They arrived by airplane, accompanied by an interpreter, after a visit to Spain, and spent yesterday talking with Japanese Ambassador Takonobu Mitani.

Received by Darlan.

Accompanied by Mitani, the admirals today went to the Hotel Thermal, seat of the French ministry of marine, where they were received by Darlan. A guard of French marines was drawn up to honor the Japs. Darlan received Nomura and Abe as commander in chief of all French armed forces.

Shortly after this reception, Mitani gave a sumptuous luncheon party at Hotel des Ambassadeurs in honor of the two visiting admirals. This luncheon was attended by Laval and Darlan together with the French Secretary of Navy Vice Adm. Paul Auphan, Secretary of War Gen. Eugene Bridoux, and Secretary of Aviation Jennekeyn, and chiefs of the general staffs of the armed forces.

Talk with Laval.

After this luncheon Laval received the Japanese admirals for another talk. The Japs will remain in Vichy for a few more days. Laval, on Tuesday, is to give another luncheon party in their honor at the Hotel Majestic.

In the afternoon Nomura laid a wreath on the monument to French dead in the first World war.

The purpose of the Japanese consultations here was not discussed in the press and remains undisclosed officially.

[Coming so soon after the Hitler-Mussolini conference last week at Salzburg, the Japanese visitation suggested there were discussions of important axis war plans involving France or French possessions, especially Madagascar, off the East African coast athwart the allied round-the-cape supply lines.]

Cripps, Bevin Say Britain Will Take Offensive Soon

LONDON, May 3 (AP).—Two members of the war cabinet, Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal, and Ernest Bevin, minister of labor, in speeches today said Britain soon would take the offensive. Cripps, broadcasting to Poles on their national day, urged them to stand firm, "for the moment to strike will soon be upon us." Bevin, addressing a meeting at Barnsley, said Britain was working out plans to strike at the right moment on "other unnamable fronts now that the tide has turned."

DENY GEN. GIRAUD HANDED OVER TO NAZIS BY FRENCH

Claim Escaped Hero Still Near Vichy.

VICHY, France, May 3 (AP).—Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, who escaped from a German prison and returned to unoccupied France thru Switzerland, was still in the unoccupied zone this morning, official sources said today.

These sources declared:

"Sensational rumors circulated yesterday evening concerning the fate of Gen. Giraud. As a result of erroneous indications, rumors circulated with insistence that he had been handed over to German military authorities at Moulins.

"Information from official sources formally denies this news and states that Gen. Giraud is still in unoccupied France."

CLAIMED HELD BY NAZIS.

Reports received by the Associated Press in New York last night from highly trustworthy European informants said that the French general, hero of two wars, was in custody near Vichy last night while Vichy and the Germans argued over his return to the Nazis.

First reports from these sources said he actually had left Vichy for Paris in the custody of two men, whom reliable informants identified as Germans. Later, however, it was said that he was returned to a detention point near Vichy, with his future in considerable doubt.

Believed Taken Outside Vichy.

Well posted European sources said they believed Gen. Giraud had met important military and political personages at a point outside of Vichy, that discussions regarding his return to German custody became snagged, and that he was taken back to the point outside Vichy.

The Germans were said to be exerting considerable pressure to regain Gen. Giraud.

The advices said nothing about the general being handed over to the German military authorities at Moulins.

[Another dispatch said Pierre Laval, chief of government, had discussed Giraud's position with Otto Abetz, German ambassador to Paris, at Moulins. It added that the general had been taken to the line of demarcation but was brought back to the vicinity of Lyons at the insistance of Marshal Petain.]

Say Nazis Won't Get Him.

LONDON, May 3 (AP). — "Free French" sources said tonight that the possibility of enraging the French people would prevent the Vichy government from handing Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud back to the Germans.

"It is clear that Vichy is determined to protect him," these sources added. "Petain will show himself very firm on this point, and it is doubtful if even Laval would accede to the German demands which if met would exasperate the French people who hold Giraud in high esteem."

Every payday employees of the firms sponsoring this advertisement are buying War Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan

★ We must all send our dollars to fight for our boys while they fight for us with their lives.

Let's stop kidding ourselves! This is a costly, bloody battle for freedom, and the sooner we realize the seriousness of the situation, the sooner things are going to start breaking in our favor.

To win, we need guns, planes, tanks, ships, equipment and supplies of all kinds. They cost money. Money that has to come from every man and woman in America—not out of spare change, but in generous amounts out of incomes.

A minimum of 10 per cent of every income in America is needed. We must all buy War Savings Bonds and Stamps—not just once, but regularly!

And remember, when you buy War Savings Bonds and Stamps, you are lending—not giving—your money to your Government. The principal itself, and good interest, are guaranteed by the Government of the United States. The best and most patriotic investment anyone can make.

The more Bonds bought voluntarily, the less money our Government will have to raise by taxation!

To help every employee buy his share of War Bonds, the United States Treasury has developed the Payroll Savings Plan. It's simple—each employee names the amount he wishes to set aside each payday, and when the amount set aside adds up to enough to buy a Bond, he gets his Bond.

Every payday, employees of the firms listed in this advertisement are buying War Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan. Will you join us in this easy-payment way to make an investment in Victory for America?

CHICAGO GREEKS GO ALL OUT FOR VICTORY IN WAR

...ng on Both Home and Fighting Fronts.

chapters and an official family of 250,000. It has 342 chapters for males with 50,000 members in America. It has organized boys under 21 in the order of Sons of Pericles. A woman's auxiliary has 10,000 enrolled in the order of Daughters of Penelope, and 8,000 girls in a junior order, Maids of Athens.

Chicago is the powerhouse for this national organization. As President Nomikos says: "Ahepa vibrates out of Chicago."

Make Heavy Bond Purchases.

Ahepa members in Chicago have purchased more than $1,000,000 in war bonds, while the total for the entire country aggregates $12,000,000.

Last month Ahepa held a dinner in Washington, D. C., and the address of President Nomikos was printed in the Congressional Record.

None but American citizens may belong to Ahepa. A large proportion of Greeks, however, take out naturalization papers as soon as they are eligible. Among the objects of the order are the promotion of loyalty to the United States, allegiance to its flag, support of the constitution and to instill in every member "a due appreciation of the privileges of citizenship, and the sacred duties attendant thereto."

The Illinois branch of the Greek War Relief Association, Inc., 77 West Washington street, has for its chairman, Andrew G. Kanelos. Last year the association raised $300,000 in Chicago to help feed starving war victims in Greece thru the Red Cross. A drive for relief contributions still is under way, but since Pearl Harbor residents of the American-Greek communities have concentrated upon America's war effort.

When Mussolini and then Hitler invaded Greece, Chicago Greeks trooped down to the consulate. Almost 2,000 of them volunteered to join the Greek army, but they were advised they could be of greater help in America.

Talk with an American-Greek and he will say that the months of resistance by Greece against Italy and Germany gave the United States time for defense preparation. They dwell upon Greece as the mother of democracy 2,500 years ago, the source of the word "demos," the people, and originator of "let the people rule."

Sixty in First Colony.

The Greeks discovered Chicago more than half a century ago. The first colony was at Halsted and Harrison streets and it numbered 60 members. Hull House was near by, and Jane Addams, then a young social worker, took them under her wing and taught them English. Now the Americans of Greek descent are scattered all over the city.

About 10,000 of them are in business. They have restaurants, food shops, bakeries, confectionery shops, fruits and other stores. The purveying of food is one of their specialties. A few years ago, Greek restaurants on the fringes of old South Water street, before Wacker drive was built, were famous. Greeks, too, are active in manufacturing enterprises and in the movie theater business.

The Greeks have built 11 Greek orthodox churches in Chicago, all of which are active in the war effort. Their congregations include more than 50,000 persons.

100,000 in Chicago Area.

It is estimated that approximately 100,000 persons of Greek birth or extraction live in the district extending from Chicago to Milwaukee. This number is about 15 per cent of the total in the country. The Chicago figure of 75,000 includes those in suburbs.

Old census figures are not much help in making population estimates and 1940 figures are not yet available. Many a Greek immigrant was born in some nearby land, Turkey for example, and therefore was enumerated as a Turk altho he may have been a descendant of Pericles or Plato. The figures used above are those of Greek leaders based mainly on the number of members in their societies.

In the first World war, Legion posts estimate, 6,500 Americans of Greek origin from Chicago served with American fighting forces.

CHUTISTS SEIZE PARLIAMENT—IN MOCK BATTLE

LONDON, May 3 (AP).—The houses of parliament, the seat of Britain's government, were in the hands of "enemy parachute troops" tonight after a two day battle—according to the rule of a military referee.

In a realistic invasion test with blank ammunition, fireworks and smoke pots, peers, commoners, government officials and members of the press gallery were routed by 1,500 British soldiers impersonating German parachute troops after a struggle thru the miles of corridors of the historic buildings.

Patrick Munro, 58 years old, the last member of parliament to speak in the house of commons chamber before it was demolished by German bombs a year ago, died while participating in the home guard exercise in Westminster. He collapsed in the Liberal party whip's office.

RED ARMY TAKES OATH TO DEFEAT NAZIS THIS YEAR

Vows Soviet Will Begin Its Own Offensive.

MOSCOW, May 3 (AP).—Red army forces all along the 2,000 mile front took oaths today to carry out Josef Stalin's order to make 1942 the year of final defeat for the Germans amid indications that the Russians were planning their own spring offensive.

"Special conditions of spring in which floods checked the advance of the Red army undoubtedly will change soon," the official communist newspaper Pravda said, "even more active military operations will begin."

Calling German threats of a spring offensive "a jester's tale," the newspaper asserted:

"The Red army will carry on the offensive in the spring."

Repulse German Wedge.

Premier Stalin's May day order was read at meetings of troops, after which the men pledged themselves to fulfill its terms. Similar meetings of civilians were held near the front lines, including regions in the Orel and Kharkov provinces where spring reconstruction and planting is under way.

The front momentarily remained stable with the only actions characterized as local encounters. German efforts to thrust a wedge into one sector of the western front last night were reported repulsed.

The soviet communique said 1,500 Germans were killed on the Leningrad front and that prisoners, arms and provisions were captured.

On the front west of Moscow, 200 attacking Germans were slain and in the Kalinin sector northwest of the capital, 300 others were killed.

The Russians said 25 German planes were destroyed on Saturday against a soviet loss of 8 planes.

Battles in Murmansk Area.

BERLIN, May 3 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Strong Russian attacks on the Murmansk sector of the Russian front have been repulsed by German forces, the Nazi high command announced today. Thirty-three Red planes were reported shot down in air combats Saturday without any losses by the Nazi air force.

REPORT WAVE OF NEW ARRESTS BY NAZIS IN NORWAY

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 3 (AP).—A wave of new arrests of prominent persons throughout Norway was reported today in the Swedish newspaper Aftontidningen.

Einar Korsvig Rasmussen, for 40 years the secretary of the government telegraph department, was said to have died in Moellergate prison at Oslo. The cause of his death was not learned, but he was reported to have suffered a "painful examination."

The fate of many other intellectuals, reported deported to Poland as "work soldiers," was said to be in doubt. One of those reported arrested in the new wave of detentions was a young mother with a five week old baby, who was taken from the hospital to Oslo prison.

San Francisco Region Has a 48 Minute Blackout

San Francisco, Cal., May 4 [Monday]—(AP).—An "all clear" signal was given here at 12:02 a. m. [Pacific war time] today, ending a 48 minute blackout which covered most of the San Francisco bay area. The alarm was ordered by the 4th interceptor command when the command detected the approach of an "unidentified target." At the end of three-quarters of an hour, the target proved to be "friendly," and the blockout was lifted.

ARCHBISHOP OF UKRAINIA UNDER FIRE OF CHURCH

[By wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, May 3.—Church circles in Geneva report that the Metropolitan, Sergius, patriarch of all the Russias, has requested by radio the meeting of an Orthodox church council of the Levant to judge Archbishop Polikarp of Lueck, provisional administrator of the Ukrainian church.

In his convocation, reportedly sent from Moscow, Sergius accuses Archbishop Polikarp of seeking to constitute a separate Ukrainian church, and proposes excommunication. He also accuses him of disobedience toward the state [Russia] and consorting with the Germans.

Archbishop Polikarp asserts he was entrusted by the Ukrainian council of bishops with the reorganization of religious work in the territory "free from astheistic domination" and expresses surprise that Metropolitan Sergius should bend his efforts toward rendering impossible the resumption of religious worship in regions liberated from Red domination.

LOPEZ LEADS IN COLOMBIA RACE FOR PRESIDENCY

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 3 (AP).—Former President Alfonso Lopez led Carlos Arango Velez by a margin of better than two to one tonight in incomplete and unofficial returns from all sections in Colombia's presidential election. A government election bulletin reported that three persons were killed and a number injured in election clashes.

Lopez is the candidate of the Liberal party and had announced that he would follow the policies of President Eduardo Santos, which included a program of wholehearted coöperation with the United States. Arango Velez also had promised coöperation with the United States.

Mr. Burton thinks spring showers are swell
Nature and his automatic water heater combine to make his Victory Garden real sport

"Back-to-the-Soil" Burton is my new name at the office; and it's all on account of my Victory Garden. I stopped in at the seed store last week and stocked up on packets of seeds . . . radishes, lettuce, carrots, beets, turnips, and green beans. I bought a lot of flower seeds, too, and now all I need is some spring showers to have vegetables and flowers aplenty this summer.

There are two kinds of spring showers in my book. There's the kind that makes vegetables and flowers grow, and then there's my shower bath. Mother Nature supplies the garden's showers, and my water heater takes care of mine . . . always plenty of just-right hot water.

Boy, this is really swell. Hot water for a good lather, and plenty more for a refreshing rinse. Our automatic water heater makes shower bathing real sport, and it takes all the work out of getting hot water when it's needed . . . no watching . . . no worrying.

Our automatic water heater is doing a real economy job, too. Think of all the time we can spend doing more things demanded by war times. Hot water service is the best answer to refreshing, time-saving cleanliness.

No wonder the Burtons enjoy automatic hot water service
It's clean, carefree and dependable. No trips up and down the basement stairs . . . no heating kettles on the stove. With automatic water heating there's always plenty of hot water—night and day, every season of the year.
Father Burton enjoys his shower after working in the garden, Mother Burton finds this convenient service perfect for washing dishes, doing the laundry and her many other household tasks, the children keep clean and healthy by washing often during the day.
Your family, too, will find living more pleasant if you take full advantage of your automatic water heating service. Whenever hot water is needed just turn the tap and there it is.

MONDAY, MAY 4, 1942.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

A TALE OF TOO LITTLE AND TOO LATE.

On March 18 Harold McGrath, a former official of the Illinois Air Pilots' association and a Canadian flyer in the first World war, made a suggestion in a letter to the Voice of the People. He wanted the nation's sportsmen pilots and light aircraft mobilized to patrol the waters off our coasts against submarines. The proposal was indorsed in a Tribune editorial the same day and the attention of the services was called to it.

The sinkings went on and there was nothing to indicate that the plan had been given more than half hearted welcome. Then, last Thursday, Sen. Wayland Brooks made substantially the same proposal in a senate speech. He said that 1,000 sportsmen pilots could maintain a continuous 24 hour patrol to a distance 50 miles offshore by merely equipping their planes with two way radios and a rack to carry 350 pounds of depth charges. "The pilots," Sen. Brooks said, "are wondering why we continually are losing ships at sea when they know that, if used, they could virtually bring sinking to a halt."

Secretary Knox's spokesmen lost no time in rushing an article into print purporting to show that the patrol had been operating at least since April 20—still a good month after Mr. McGrath made the original suggestion. It was said that the pilots were organized in the civil air patrol, under the Office of Civilian Defense, and were credited with spotting some submarines which were later sunk, of causing others to abandon attacks, and of bringing about the rescue of survivors.

A group of Chicago airmen immediately disclosed that the proposal had been submitted to Secretary Knox two months ago and that he had personally turned it down, saying, "It is not the intention of the navy department to employ civilian pilots or airplanes as such, as it is considered preferable to induct those individuals who meet navy requirements directly into the service." All right; but why, then, weren't they inducted by the hundreds and thousands? They can fly and they were eager to risk their ships and their lives for their country.

What was done was to put a limited number of civil pilots on patrol duty in unarmed planes at a few points along the 1,400 mile coast line, with patrols conducted only 15 miles to sea. This handful of pilots was credited with doing good work and providing a demonstration of what might be accomplished under a comprehensive plan, but there was no round the clock protection of shipping employing any substantial part of the 3,000 light planes and 100,000 pilots available.

The fact that the sinkings continue is evidence that there is need for more of the sportsmen pilots and for converting their planes into light bombers. Secretary Knox could make a formal showing for the record that something had been done, but that something was as little as possible. As Editor Joseph Medill wrote during the Civil war, some persons would rather be victorious over THE TRIBUNE than over the enemies of our country.

Obdurate fatheadedness is by no means confined to the navy department. Maj. Alexander de Seversky in his recently published book, "Victory Thru Air Power," asserts that burocratic inertia in the army air corps prevented this country from going into the war with pursuit planes at least equal in performance to those of the enemy, and in sufficient numbers to have provided a canopy of air power over the whole Pacific area.

He asserted that the preoccupation of Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, with a pet type of engine prevented us from having long range pursuit planes that could have been flown instead of shipped in crates to battle zones; that the army refused planes designed to use any one of several types of engines, and that as late as 1938 the army thought two guns provided adequate fire power for a pursuit ship. Later, de Seversky said, when all the ideas he had submitted long before were taken up, the publicity implied that the air corps, after frantic effort, had pulled something new out of the magician's hat.

As Maj. de Seversky says, the clear need is to forestall events by seeking out the causes of our weakness and eliminating them with relentless vigor. Nothing short of a thoro housecleaning will do the job. Men who are unequal to their jobs or who let their predilections and prejudices dictate their actions cannot be permitted to trifle with the national safety. If we want effective direction of our air effort, we need look no farther than Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker, who believes in air power and knows air power. He should be made chief of aviation, in charge of design, of procurement, of recruiting, of training, and allocation of personnel. But even he couldn't do the job with some of Washington's Old Men of the Sea riding his back.

THE DIES COMMITTEE WINS AGAIN.

By the overwhelming majority of 290 to 64, the house of representatives has voted $110,000 to the Dies committee to continue its investigation of activities aimed at destroying the American form of government. Extraordinary efforts were made to render the committee ineffective. When, on March 11, the house, by a vote of 331 to 46, extended the life of the committee for another year, most of the members assumed that the matter was settled; but as it turned out the fight had just begun. The next effort was to withhold funds and one parliamentary obstacle after another was raised. Only now has the question been finally settled for this year.

The attack on the committee was led by communists and their left wing sympathizers who didn't want their records to be studied or their penetration into government and industry exposed. It is a primary business of our government to preserve the liberties of the people and their free institutions. The Dies committee has done its part, almost single handed, to prevent the undermining of the republic by men and organizations determined to destroy it. The successive indorsements of the committee by the house are a recognition of usefulness.

AUSTRALIA HOLDS BACK.

Americans have read with amazement of the refusal of the Australian house of representatives to approve service by the nation's militia outside the boundaries of the continent. It was an opposition resolution, defeated by a close vote on strict party lines. A. W. Fadden, former prime minister, contended unsuccessfully that the Australian imperial force should be welded into a single arm available for offense as well as defense.

In refusing to send beyond the shores of its own continent what by now must be the major portion of its own army, the government is evading the primary strategic necessity of that defense. Australia will not be safe until the Japanese invasion bases have been retaken. The United States, having sent its soldiers as far to defend Australia as Australians have traveled in the past to defend the British empire, has the right to ask, and indeed to demand, that Australia hold back nothing from this common task.

Experience can explain but not excuse the decision. The government attitude quite obviously is that having been once bitten, it is twice shy. Australian troops were a principal part of the army in North Africa. They suffered severely in Greece and Crete. They have been campaigning in Asia Minor. They fought in Malaya and were captured in large numbers in the Singapore debacle. And when Australia was attacked, the empire was powerless to protect it. The action of the Australian house is, nevertheless, ill-judged and particularly ill-timed.

It is to be hoped that the decision will be reversed. Australians have never yet held back from a fight. If they value the good will of this country they will not do so now.

WHEN PROFITS DISAPPEAR.

If any of the planners in Washington regarded the present tightly controled war economy as offering a field of experimentation in testing out some of the pet theories they would like to put into effect on an enlarged scale after the war, they may have discovered that things are not as simple as they seemed from a distance. Take the price ceilings, for instance.

Hardly a day after they had been decreed discussion started as to whether it would be necessary to give government subsidies to some businesses. A retailer, for example, must sell his merchandise at the prices he was charging in March. He may have bought the merchandise months ago and so have been able to sell it at prices lower than he could have bought it from the wholesalers in March. Still, he cannot fix his future price any higher than the March price.

The government's solution for this is to "roll back" the difference between the retailer's March price and the wholesaler's March price so that the wholesaler will have to sell below the retail maximum. In that way the retailer can replace his goods at a price allowing him a margin of profit. The roll back may force the wholesaler to sell at a price that does not meet materials and labor costs, but apparently no consideration is given to a further roll back. The loss that the retailer would otherwise stand has merely been transferred to the wholesaler.

Presumably the way out would be to subsidize either the wholesaler, the manufacturer, or those who produce the materials that go into the merchandise. The Canadian government, which has been operating for six months on a system of price control closely resembling that adopted here, has already paid out $2,128,981 in subsidies to keep the costs of certain commodities from going up.

Mr. Bruce MacLeish, the Chicago merchant who serves on the retailers' advisory committee of the OPA, says the committee unsuccessfully urged that prices on some date before March be taken as the base for manufacturers and wholesalers' prices. Without this provision, losses to the manufacturer and wholesaler are inevitable, but the OPA proposes to make them good thru subsidies. The subsidy tentatively proposed by OPA is 750 million dollars for the first year of operation, but Mr. MacLeish said that 3 to 3½ billion may be a truer estimate of what will be required.

This forecast would tend to demonstrate that when the possibility for profit is eliminated or sharply reduced under a controled economy, losses have to be transferred to the taxpayer if any one is to remain in business.

The planners who are intrigued by concepts that look good in books or from across an ocean can derive a great deal of profit from watching how the present artificial economy works out during the war emergency. Doubtless they will discover, among other things, that trying to keep prices down by a series of restraints is something like reducing the bulge of a toy balloon by sticking your finger into it. The bulge goes down at that point, but it reappears somewhere else. Who knows but that the planners will come out of this war firm believers in capitalism and free markets?

Editorial of the Day

PROBLEMS IN AVIATION.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Mechanical developments have driven air battles higher and higher into the sky. Anti-aircraft guns have been improved. Climbing speeds of fighter planes have been increased. But these accomplishments have created other problems challenging the scientists.

One of the problems, a human one, is being conquered. When a fighter craft capable of climbing to 35,000 feet in seven minutes were devised the discovery was made that men aboard were incapacitated by what deep sea divers call the "bends." Rapid ascent to levels where the atmosphere is rare causes the blood to bubble like soda water. Experiments ascertained that bends could be eliminated to a great extent by breathing oxygen for an hour or more before flight. This forces out of the blood the nitrogen which causes the trouble.

The extreme cold of higher altitudes presents another problem. At 35,000 feet the temperature is 55 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. Without oxygen at this height a man loses consciousness in 15 seconds, and ordinary oxygen equipment will freeze in time at sub-zero temperatures. Thus engineers are faced with the necessity of devising methods of heating bomber compartments and of improving oxygen tanks.

The most serious situation in military aviation, however, is that of change of direction at speeds exceeding 300 miles an hour. Passengers lose consciousness momentarily even in slight turns. Involved here is one of the immutable laws of nature, centrifugal force. So great is the force in a turn at top airplane speeds that the weight of the blood is multiplied many times.

It is within the realm of probability that human factors, not mechanical limitations, will determine finally the speed and other possibilities of airplanes.

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

SIGHT-SEEING BY TELEPHONE.

We rang up Frederick Rex, municipal librarian, and said: "What have you got in the city hall besides commissioners, aldermen, and political machinery? For example, have you got any art?"

"Come on over," said Mr. Rex. "You'll be surprised. The latest acquisition to our galleries is a mural painting over the entrance to the water bureau, done in true fresco. Title: 'The Blessing of Water.' A gift of the WPA."

"Skip it."

"It was approved by Robert Harshe of the Art institute, John Storrs, sculptor; John Holabird, architect; Mrs. Increase Robinson, Nathaniel Owings, and Shepard Vogelgesang."

"Very well. Item, one large example of federal art in the project period. Anything else? Any old masters?"

"Did you ever hear of G. P. A. Healy?" asked Mr. Rex.

"Sure. Early American painter, 1813-'94. He did the worthies of his time in dozens. The Newberry library is full of dim old Healys. You got one? Good. Who was the victim?"

"I'll have to go take a look at it."

"Never mind. Keep talking."

"In the mayor's outer office you will find six good paintings of scenes in old and modern Chicago by WPA artists, and also a fine collection of prints of views in old Chicago. Come on over and see them.

"Then there are Bartlett's murals in the council chamber. Art critics take off their hats to them. Subjects: Labor, Commerce, Electricity, the Chicago fire, Construction, the Gifts of Illinois to the Nation, and Education. Also, over the rostrum, there is a painting of a fire marshal in uniform, done after a drawing by Carey Orr of THE TRIBUNE. It commemorates the stockyards fire of 1934."

"That's a home run, Mr. Rex. Thanks for the sight-seeing tour by telephone."

Frederick Clay Bartlett's mural decorations may also be found at the University of Chicago, the University club, and the Second and Fourth Presbyterian churches. As an easel painter he is represented in the Art institute, the Carnegie Institution, and the Corcoran gallery. See also, in the Art institute, the magnificent array of French modernists, of which Seurat's famous "Sunday on the Grand Jatte" is the centerpiece. POEMS FOR PAM—IV.

When Pam was pink
And very new,
She used to sleep
The whole day thru!
She did—
But she won't any more!

Her etiquet
Was quite well bred;
She always ate
What she was fed!
She did—
But she won't any more!

When family honor
Was at stake,
She used to wave
And "paddy-cake"—
She did—
But she won't any more!

And once remarked
Each parting guest,
"Pam's manners are
The very best!"
They did—
But they don't any more!

An Old Lesson to Re-Learn.

In Beardstown, on 2d street, there's a drab little old house. Few know that it was built in 1840, framed of black walnut timbers from sills to ridgepole. A brittle, yellowed paper in our German family Bible tells the story of that house and of the toil, the planning, and the thrift that built it.

Boots and shoes were hand made and well made in those days. Ten long years my grandfather cobbled patiently in a little shop near the waterfront in St. Louis, saving every penny. Piece by piece he accumulated walnut timbers, which were cut to a plan and carefully laid aside. A merchant named George Kuhl, from up the river, had told him that a good cobbler was needed in the German settlement that had grown around Beard's Ferry. So one day he took off his apron, loaded his family and their goods and the walnut lumber on a boat, and set out for Beardstown.

A nation must be founded upon work and sustained by thrift. The mad spending of the '20s and the black depression of the '30s had all but erased these truths from our lexicon. The old values and their safeguards were swept aside. Now, in the titanic struggle for world survival, we are learning again to save and save, to work and work—selflessly without stint.

Buekshot, O. R. S.

WHEN MAY ARRIVES.

When May arrives,
And warbler choirs again are caroling
As if they had but one desire—to sing,
Then from our snug retreats we haste away
And tune our hearts for one long holiday
Among the woods and hills, by blue lakes shimmering—
When May arrives.

Then should we fret
Because the winter winds like tempests blew,
Because the wars have veiled our thoughts with rue?
No, for today the world is fair and new!
Around the hill comes news, to my heart listening,
Of violets dew-drenched and wind-flowers glistening—
As May arrives.

THE VITAL ROLE OF THE ADRENALS.

WITHIN recent years it has become the fashion in some quarters to blame the adrenals for many types of ill health.

These glands, which lie above and adjacent to the kidneys, have been regarded as mysterious depots ever since Thomas Addison described what we now term "Addison's disease." He showed that tuberculosis affecting these structures could bring on a peculiar form of pigmentation of the skin [bronzing] accompanied by marked prostration.

The adrenals consist of two distinct parts, inner and outer, each with its own secretion. The cells of the cortex [outer] are indispensable to life. Their product must be present in the circulation, otherwise certain body functions will fail. With this substance deficient or lacking, the digestive tract is upset, and the nerves, muscles, and the circulation swing out of balance.

Much can be done with gland therapy. The use of interrenalin—the extract—will not only restore metabolism to an even keel but will aid recovery by helping the patient to combat the original malady [commonly, tuberculosis]. Good health, induced by the artificial administration of the missing compound, will in turn react favorably upon the damaged "factories."

The medulla, or internal portion, yields adrenalin or epinephrine. This drug, altho important, is not absolutely necessary. Furthermore, it is easily supplied by injection. We know that too much will cause the blood pressure to rise. This is what happens when a tumor develops in the interior of the gland. But it may be unsafe to remove the structure entirely unless the outer fraction of the opposite adrenal is intact and normal.

Epinephrine is utilized also in the treatment of shock. In this poorly understood phenomenon the circulation is disturbed profoundly. The blood pressure falls and too little vital fluid reaches the organs. If we are able to reëstablish the normal blood flow by means of adrenalin, speedy improvement is observed. Because the effect is brief, the material should be given well diluted in a solution of glucose. But even this plan must be guarded carefully because a weakened heart muscle may not be able to withstand the added strain.

We have learned then that the adrenals manufacture two useful preparations—one essential and the other not essential to life. No matter what the provocation, we should disrupt these industries as little as possible. Only with positive signs of failure need these chemicals be prescribed.

On the other hand, when a figurative flat wheel develops we are justified in making repairs. But we cannot increase nutrition by whipping a perfectly normal stomach. Therefore, unless there is a well established and close connection between disease and the behavior of some organ, common sense dictates that interference is unwarranted.

MAN OR MOUSE.

J. P. writes: I want two eggs for breakfast but my wife won't let me have them. She says they are not good to eat every day. Will you straighten us out?

REPLY.

You win, if you have no tendency to gall bladder trouble. The yolk particularly offers many essential food elements. After the age of 50, however, one a day is sufficient.

KNEE TROUBLE.

Mrs. C. M. writes: Some time ago a cartilage slipped out of place in my knee. Altho it is back in place the area is still stiff and sore. What can be done about it now?

REPLY.

This structure may be fractured and a loose bit may require surgical removal. Otherwise, the joint is prone to lock.

APPENDICITIS.

D. A. W. writes: Is there such a thing as chronic appendicitis?

REPLY.

Yes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet describing chronic and acute trouble in this structure.

TRAINING FUTURE FLYERS.

Chicago, May 1.—May I congratulate you on your excellent editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE, entitled "A Job for Captain Rickenbacker." I have already sent 50 copies to people interested in this subject.

Having been a naval aviator in the last war and having spent virtually all of my time for some months past in trying to get an aviation movement started among high school boys, you can well believe I agree with you 100 per cent in this respect.

The JayCee Glider Patrol, a nonprofit corporation sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce of Chicago, is devoted to the training of predraft young men in the fundamentals of aviation. Besides instruction in ground school and shop work pertaining to gliders, our program contemplates teaching boys actually to fly gliders so that they may instruct others.

The objective of this program is to demonstrate its feasibility in this country, as has already been proved in Germany and Russia, as an inexpensive method to eliminate those without the aptitude for flying from future costly power flight training; to teach fundamentals of flying at an earlier age to the end that better power plane pilots can be turned out in less time later on; and to produce instructors in gliding to relieve the existing shortage.

R. P. MATTHIESSEN.
Member, Advisory Board, JayCee Glider Patrol.

PEACE TERMS.

Sheboygan, Wis., April 30.—NOW is the time to think clearly. Just what are our war aims? Exactly what are to be the peace terms?

What is to be given to Britain, to Russia, to Greece, to Germany, to Italy, to the Serbs, the Croatians, the Slovaks, the Slovenes, the Bulgarians, the Poles, the Ruthenians, the Ukrainians, the Hollanders, the Belgians, the Hungarians, the Rumanians, the Lithuanians, the Estonians, the Finns, the Latvians, the Indo-Chinese, the Hindus, the Siamese, the Iranians, the Syrians, the Palestinians, the Egyptians, the Ethiopians? And what do we desire for ourselves?

Our peace terms and the new world map should NOW be published and handed to friend and foe, signed and sealed.

If we wait until the war is over, we may be told again: "You may now go home. We over here will attend to the little matter of dividing the spoils," and our children and children's children will be damned with more and better wars.

SECONDARY LANDLORDS.

Chicago, April 29.—Speaking of rent ceilings, what about a number of occupants in a flat I know who pay moderate rent and are making good salaries, yet, who rent out all their bedrooms and make their own bedroom in the parlor?

R. G. M.

A LANDLORD'S STORY.

Chicago, April 29.—My case is typical of all small renting properties in Chicago which have passed thru the last 10 years. When the depression struck suddenly in the fall of 1930, 15 tenants went on relief. There was no offer from the federal or state governments to pay the rent. In six months I had over $2,000 in unpaid rents—unpaid to this day. All the tenants said they were advised to remain until the landlord went to court expense.

Later on, state and federal agencies did start to take care of the rent, but frequently funds would run short and it would be 60 days or more before payments would be resumed, meanwhile, the ironclad rule was that no back rent would be paid, so that was another loss to the owner. This continued for several years until WPA was started. Our total rent loss was easily $4,000. All this time I appealed to those supposed to be in authority, but none would do anything, as a landlord apparently didn't need rent payments.

How many tenants are occupying 5 room furnace and stove heated flats for less than $25 a month, garages included, and because I did not raise rents a few dollars before March 1, I must retain my old scale of rents. The new rent order will find many prosperous tenants steadily employed and enjoying big wages, with an income of $200 or $400 a month, yet paying rent of less than $25. Some now own automobiles, while many landlords have theirs jacked up in the garage, unable to purchase license or tires. Tenants should be required to pay a fair rent, yet because of the March 1 freezing there is no recourse for the owner. Still, he must pay his taxes and keep up the property—and for what?

VISITING THE OLD FOLKS.

Chicago, May 1.—Having had occasion to visit Oak Forest infirmary, where the county's old people are given shelter, I noted the pathetic look as each visitor came past them in the halls: each one waiting to see if sons or daughters were visiting the old folks today. Soon we are going to have Mother's day. Let us not forget all the mothers out there. Make it a point to visit some old person there if you can, and see how happy they will be. Take a drive and you won't forget these old peoples' smiles as they see you. If you don't know any one, just adopt some one for the day, and bring a little happiness to them. MRS. P. R.

TICKET RACKET.

Chicago, May 1.—Something should be done to wipe out the petty graft practiced by so many local government offices in the sale of "tickets." Not so long ago one of the examiners for a driver's license tried to hold me up by explaining that they were selling "tickets" for a dance, and just recently after getting my name in the telephone directory as possessing an office an unctuous voice called me and wanted to know how I was getting along. I told him all right and he said he thought so as they "had nothing against me." I was at a loss to understand what he meant when he said that he was from some offices connected with assessments. He then mentioned that they had a sale of "tickets," which I told him I was not interested in. These ticket sellers should be given a ticket by the state's attorney. ANTI-GRAFT.

IN DEFENSE OF BLOCK CAPTAINS.

Chicago, April 27.—A few days ago E. Smith objected to a block captain serving as judge of election. I wonder if E. Smith knows that a block captain is elected to serve by the residents of the block in which the captain resides, and that the residents might elect a judge of election to serve as block captain for reasons other than political.

MARRIAGE.

Chicago, April 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A couple who have been living as man and wife for years want to be married. The cause for them not being married before has been removed. They have many friends and want to do this secretly. If they marry here in Chicago [1] must their names appear in the marriage license column of the daily paper?

2. What state can they go to and be married without physical examination or establishing residence? W. S.

1. There is no law requiring that the marriage information be published, but on the other hand, the records are public and the newspapers are at liberty to publish.

2. If they went to some other county it is not likely that their names would be noticed.

A man met a friend on the street. He hadn't seen or heard from this friend for 10 years.

"Well, well, this is great!" he exclaimed as he shook hands. "I'm certainly glad to see you again. What's new?"

"Thanks, Tom, not much," replied his friend, "except that I've married since I last saw you."

"And is this your daughter?" Tom inquired as he turned to the little girl beside his friend. "What's your name, little girl?"

"My name is the same as my mother's," she answered.

"O," said Tom, "then it's Sarah Lou."

How did Tom know the little girl's name?

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

DUPONT HOUSE PAINT

Stays White!

SAVE WITH PAINT

DU PONT House Paint gives you the utmost in protection, because it forms a tough, durable film which guards the surface against rot and decay. And it gives you lasting whiteness, too.

That's because Du Pont House Paint is "self-cleaning"! Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface, which is washed away by heavy rains. This powder carries the dirt with it, and exposes a fresh white surface.

This "self-cleaning" process starts after a few months of exposure under normal weather conditions. It may be delayed under unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions in extremely sooty industrial communities. Because this "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the film are not abnormally affected.

Du Pont "self-cleaning" House Paint, in white and Tru-Tint colors, costs you no more than other good paints.

● DON'T WASTE PAINT!

Because it protects America's war equipment, paint is a vital defense material. Use paint carefully. Consult a reliable painter. He knows how to do the job right, how much or how little paint to use. His skill means savings for you—and paint conservation for America.

ROUGH WATER CAN BE EVEN ROUGHER, PT BOAT REVEALS

Writer Cruises on Patrol Off Canal Zone.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

UNITED STATES NAVAL HEADQUARTERS, Panama Canal Zone, May 3.—Squadrons of PT boats—small, racy craft powered with tremendous engines and studded with torpedo tubes and heavy machine guns—are being counted on to carry grief at high speed to any hostile sea force attempting a thrust at the Panama canal.

PT boats, 77 feet long, cost $285,000 apiece. They have the latest type engines, three to a boat, developing 1,500 horsepower each.

These motor torpedo boats guarding the canal are twin sisters of the little stingers which first raised havoc with Japanese transports in the Philippines, then audaciously stole Gen. Douglas MacArthur out of Bataan under the noses of Jap destroyers on the first leg of his journey to Australia.

With First Torpedo Boat Officer.

This correspondent has just returned from a 24 hour patrol with a PT squadron commanded by Lieut. Comm. Earl S. Caldwell, a bronzed, aggressive young man who holds the distinction of having been the first motor torpedo boat officer in the navy.

I am not allowed to reveal whether the patrol took place in the Caribbean or in the Pacific, but we spent that 24 hours in probably the roughest water seen in these parts in a long time. And the pounding, weaving cockpit of a PT is the place from which to view rough water.

With Lieut. John Hurley, navy public relations officer, I boarded Commander Caldwell's PT as it lay refueling. Ten minutes later, with the other boats of our squadron fanned out behind us, we were under way.

Just as we reached the open sea and kicked up our speed lunch was served. That lunch, eaten in the hot and stuffy forward cabin as the boat smashed thru heavy seas at 35 miles an hour, was an experience.

Plates Leap Into Air.

We had scrambled eggs, sausage, hot biscuits and—for some strange reason—canned peas. The boat would roar up a long swell, toboggan off the crest and land with a bone shaking bump in the trough. With each bump the plates of food would leap into the air. It was not a meal to idle over.

Returning to the cockpit we found things changed. The eight man crew of our boat, a carefree gang at the refueling dock half an hour before, weren't carefree any longer. Two stood in the gun cockpits, each with twin .50 caliber machine guns ready in front of him. A machinist's mate stood at the depth bomb racks, while two other men swung the torpedo tubes to the action position.

All thru the daylight hours we searched that rough sea, 75 miles offshore, for signs of enemy activity. Then, as dusk approached, we swung into a temporary base for the night.

Boats Put Thru Maneuvers.

In the cool of the morning Commander Caldwell put his squadron thru maneuvers for us to demonstrate how the PT's would attack in actual combat. At 50 miles an hour we pounded toward an imaginary enemy, the other boats of the squadron streamed out in a column behind us. Then, at a radio command from our flagship, the boats fanned out on each side of us into a V formation.

An enemy task force, confronted with such a squadron smashing down upon it, undoubtedly would be able to shell and destroy some of the PT's which bear no armor. But others, because of their high speed and agility at dodging, would get in close—close enough to fire their torpedoes at point blank, can't miss range.

9 British Flyers Downed in Norway Escape to Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 3 (AP).—Nine British flyers shot down in the heavy RAF raids on Trondheim, Norway, last Monday and Tuesday, have made their way to Sweden. Three arrived today at Storlien, Swedish border town 60 miles east of Trondheim. They reported they parachuted from their burning plane and walked across the difficult country from the Norwegian coast to the border. Two of the men said they were Australians.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries. Persons are asked to keep their letters short because of the volume of mail.]

E. H. K. asks: "Will you please tell me who does the correcting of the correctible physical defects in the new 1-A [suspended] classification.

"Will such registrants be forced to have their defects corrected?"

ANSWER: It is up to the registrant to have his remediable defects corrected. As yet the proposed physical rehabilitation program is not under way nationally. Test rehabilitation programs are now being conducted in Maryland and Virginia by authorization of the national headquarters of the selective service system. When results of the program are evaluated, a date for the inauguration of the national program will be announced, according to selective service headquarters.

Mrs. C. N. M. asks: "What arrangements are there to write to a soldier who has been taken prisoner?"

ANSWER: A prisoners of war information bureau has been set up by the army provost marshal general's office. Thru the International Red Cross commission at Geneva, the bureau will exchange information with enemy countries. For information about prisoners of war write to Prisoners of War Information Bureau, Office of the Provost Marshal General, War Department, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. G. A. asks: "Is it possible for a wife to follow her husband to his base? Supposing my husband is stationed in Hawaii, is it probable the authorities would allow me to go to Hawaii for the summer or stay until conditions made it impossible?"

ANSWER: It would be impossible for you to visit your husband in Hawaii. The navy must certify all requests of persons who wish to go to Hawaii. Relatives of men in the armed services are not being given permission.

M. M. asks: "Is it compulsory that every enlisted man in the air corps take out government life insurance. If so, how much does it amount to?"

ANSWER: It is not compulsory for men in any branch of the nation's armed forces to carry national service life insurance. Aviation cadets during their training period are given a $10,000 policy, but they are not compelled to carry it after completion of their training, at which time they must take over payment of the premiums. The cost of the insurance is based upon the age of the insured at the time he applies for the policy. At 21, the insured pays 65 cents a month per $1,000 worth of insurance, at 22 the premium is 66 cents, at 24, 67 cents, etc.

J. I. asks: "Upon satisfactory completion of a course in aircraft engine mechanics at a local school, would I be eligible for enlistment in the army air force ground crew? I am 41 years of age."

ANSWER: Because of your age you will have to volunteer for induction thru your draft board. If accepted you would be assigned to a branch for which you were thought best qualified. A course such as you contemplate would make you qualified for ground crew duty, and it is quite probable that you would be assigned to that branch.

HAMBURG RAIDED BY RAF; PLANES SEEN AT TOULON

Nazis Smash at Town in Southwest England

LONDON, May 4 [Monday]—(AP).—The royal air force attacked objectives in enemy territory during the night, it was stated authoritatively today, while a sharp German air attack on a town in southwestern England early today caused considerable damage and a number of casualties.

Details of the RAF raids were not disclosed immediately.

[The Berlin radio said the German port of Hamburg was bombed last night by British air raiders and claimed six of the invading planes were shot down.]

Report Planes Over Toulon.

At the same time, the Vichy radio reported unidentified planes were over Toulon, great French naval base, and the port of Marseille, in unoccupied southern France. Air alarms were sounded in both places and anti-aircraft batteries were in action but no bombs were dropped, the Vichy radio said.

The British government said four German aircraft were shot down over England during the night and two over northern France.

On Saturday night, press reports said, aircraft ranged over Copenhagen, capital of German occupied Denmark, dropping bombs on the city. Anti-aircraft batteries were in action for 45 minutes.

Raids on Northern France.

Meanwhile, the RAF kept up its aerial offensive against northern France with morning and afternoon forays. Four German fighter planes were destroyed over northern France.

Targets included docks at Dunkirk and an airdrome at Abbeville, where bomb hits were scored on buildings and planes on the ground machine gunned. In these attacks the British lost three fighters.

Set Large Tanker on Fire.

The Germans raided one southeast coast town in England just before dark, causing casualties and damage.

The air ministry, summing up the raids of April, said the occupied port of Le Havre and the German industrial Ruhr section were the hardest hit during last month, with five attacks each, closely followed by Rostock with four heavy night attacks. During 19 nights of bombing thousands of tons of bombs were dropped on Germany, the ministry said. It listed 29 heavy attacks.

WIDE RAIDS ON CONTINENT.

There were indications from continental sources that British bombers flew wide over the continent Saturday night, from the Baltic to Italy, but the British air ministry made no announcement of such widespread raiding. The various reports indicated that Luebeck, German Baltic port, again might have been a target.

Tokio Orders Minister from Iran Out of Japan

TOKIO, May 4 [Monday] [From Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—The Iranian minister to Tokio was ordered today to leave Japan.

RINGS STOLEN FROM HOME.

William Kelly yesterday notified Burnside police that three diamond rings, valued at $500, were taken in a burglary of his home at 8028 Drexel boulevard.

RAF BLASTS AXIS SUBMARINE BASE ON LEROS ISLAND

Attacks Airfields in Greece and Rhodes.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 3 (AP).—The important axis submarine base at Porto Laki bay on Leros Island near Turkey and airdromes on nearby Rhodes and in occupied Greece were hit hard by the RAF Friday night, the British announced today.

The airdromes at Menidi, near Athens and Piraeus, and at Maritza on Rhodes were attacked, a communique said. Both Leros and Rhodes are in the Italian Dodecanese group, where the axis is reported to have prepared air fields and concentrated aircraft for possible Mediterranean blows.

General headquarters said several axis parties on reconnaissance in the desert of Libya were forced to withdraw when encountered by light forces, but that the patrols were small.

Claim British Plane Downed.

ROME, May 3 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—British air raids on the Dodecanese islands of Rhodes and Leros were reported today by the Italian high command. One British plane was reported shot down. Other British air raiders smashed at the Greek port of Piraeus and the harbor for Athens, but the communique said only a "limited number of bombs fell." It put casualties at one dead and five injured.

In Libya, the communique said, German bombers attacked "great concentrations" of enemy motorized vehicles, setting many vehicles on fire and destroying others. It said one Curtiss plane was shot down.

Air attacks on Malta were reported renewed.

Report Lively Activity.

BERLIN, May 3 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command issued this communique: "In North Africa there was lively reconnaissance and artillery activity on both sides. In attacks on British concentrations of motor vehicles, camps and supply depots in Marmarica, the enemy suffered considerable losses. Attacks on British airfields in Malta were effectively continued day and night."

Down Axis Raider.

VALLETTA, Malta, May 3 (AP).—One axis plane was downed and two were believed damaged today in two light raids which caused a few casualties and slight civilian damage. The raiders concentrated on airdromes.

When repaid in six monthly instalments

WOULD a cash loan help you this month? If you have a job, you can borrow without fuss or bother—at reasonable cost and repay your loan in monthly instalments.

Do just this

All you do to apply for a Household Finance loan is to tell us how much you need and how you wish to repay.

Loans are made in three different ways. 1. On your personal note. No security is required. Note loans are made, under proper conditions, to both single persons and married couples. 2. On your car. This plan may suit you best. 3. On your furniture. Many people prefer this plan. When making car and furniture loans, we consider character and income far more important than the value of your security. We will make your loan the way which best suits your own situation.

You may choose the most convenient payment plan from the table below. Suppose you borrow $100. Twelve instalments of $9.77 each will repay the loan in full. You may prefer to repay sooner. Six monthly instalments of $18.18 each will also repay a $100 loan. The cost of your loan, in this case, is just $9.08. A $25 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $4.54 each, costs only $2.24.

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household—just the ability to repay in monthly instalments. This spares you the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives.

Get your loan for less

Payments in the table include charges at the rate of 2½% per month on a loan balance of $100 or less and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. The Small Loan Law permits us to charge substantially more than this. We publish our rates and payments to help you shop for your loan. It is to your advantage to compare rates before you borrow.

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. Or just phone for information. We are in business to make loans to folks with money problems.

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law.

THE LIFE OF DOUGLAS MacARTHUR — THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE — CHAPTER 11

CHAPTER II

FROM his early childhood, it was Douglas MacArthur's ambition to follow in his father's footsteps by devoting his life to the army. While he was a student at West Texas Military Academy he sought an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point, America's great officers' training school. When his application was rejected because of a minor spinal ailment, he was heartbroken.

However, he was undaunted, and after his graduation from West Texas Military Academy he returned to Milwaukee with his mother and placed himself under the care of the late Dr. Franz Pfister who corrected the

INTERNED JAPS TURN UP NOSES AT FAMOUS SPA

Luxurious Hotel Is Not Swanky Enough.

BY DAVID CHARNAY.

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York News.]

New York, May 3 [Special].—The Japanese diplomatic contingent, 330 strong, arrived at the Greenbrier hotel, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., at 2 p. m. on April 4, just 40 hours after the 237 Italian, Hungarian, and Bulgarian diplomats and their families had been shipped to Asheville, N. C.

The 556 members of the German diplomatic corps who were at the hotel, as well as the border patrol guards, immigration inspectors, and Federal Bureau of Investigation men, suddenly discovered life in the world's most luxurious club for enemy aliens, instead of being simplified, had become more complicated.

The famous old Greenbrier, which has catered to America's bon vivants for 160 years at rates up to $15.75 a day, just didn't have enough swank for some of the Japanese.

A Dining Room Episode.

An example was a dining room scene staged the first evening by Saburo Kurusu, the special Japanese envoy who came to this country to sing the Pearl Harbor lullaby. Several persons told us about Kurusu soon after we arrived at White Sulphur Springs to spend a fortnight as vacationists—at another hotel.

Virtually everybody else was seated by the time Kurusu strode into the hotel dining room, followed at a respectful distance by his retinue. The Germans, who had grouped themselves at one end of the room, were deep into their soup, but the Japanese wouldn't begin before their ranking compatriot had swallowed his first spoonful.

They had quite a wait. Kurusu allowed himself to be led by the head waiter to the most prominent table at that end of the room. The mellowed pine floor boards in the dining room, which have drawn gasps of admiration from many a famous visitor, were—as they have been for a century and a half—unsullied by any covering.

The Hon. Customer Is Right.

Kurusu stopped short. Where, he demanded suddenly, was the rug? The head waiter asked him what he meant. Surely, responded Kurusu, nobody could expect him to eat at a table which stood on a bare floor!

The customer is always right at the Greenbrier, so all activity stopped while a squad of attendants scurried around to find a rug. The Germans stared in amazement. The Japanese kept their eyes on their soup. Finally four waiters marched in, each holding a corner of a 12-foot rug.

The table was lifted and the rug was slipped under it. Then Kurusu condescended to sit at the table and partake of some breast of guinea hen.

Ribbed About Tokio Bombing.

Virtually the only time the Germans and the Japanese are together is for dinner, and then there is little mingling. On April 18 the day of the news of the bombing of Tokio arrived at the Greenbrier, most of the Japanese remained in their rooms at mealtime. Those who ate in the dining room came in for an unmerciful ribbing from the Nazis.

The favorite was a long, shrill whistle similar to that of a falling bomb, followed by a loud smack on the table. This never failed to produce guffaws—but not from the Japanese.

Amid this a Japanese about 18 years old rushed to the dining room. He had been born and reared in this country and he was as excited about the bombing as an American schoolboy.

"Gee," he shouted, "I guess we did it, huh?"

A Quiet Place to Eat.

There was a sudden silence. Even the Germans were appalled. Somebody grabbed the boy and pulled him down at a table. Another Japanese slapped his face with the back of his hand.

The Japanese had one big celebration the night of March 13 at the Homestead in Hot Springs, Va., where they were interned before being moved to White Sulphur Springs. None of the guards knew what the occasion was. The next day the navy announced in Washington, D. C., that the United States cruiser Houston had been sunk in the battle of Java.

How news of the sinking reached the Japanese still is a mystery to the FBI, because radios were barred at the Homestead, as they are at the Greenbrier.

JEAN AMES.

Hollywood, Cal., May 3 [Special].—Instead of a hurried marriage this week, Jean Ames, Warner Brothers actress, returned today from Amarillo, Tex., by plane with the announcement that she will be a June bride. The bridegroom-to-be is Paul Ellis, Texas oil man and now a member of the armed forces, whom she visited during her leave of absence from the studio. They had planned to marry while she was in Amarillo, but later decided on the postponement.

FOUR DESTROYERS SLIP DOWN WAYS IN 50 MINUTES

Launchings Hailed as Equal to a Victory.

Kearny, N. J., May 3 (AP).—Four destroyers slid down the ways here today in a mass launching which Gov. Charles Edison of New Jersey acclaimed the equivalent of a naval victory.

The fighting ships knifed the waters of the Hackensack river amid cheers of spectators at the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company yards. The launchings took only 50 minutes.

Gov. Edison, a former secretary of the navy, called the ceremony a heartwarming occasion for all who love the United States, but added: "We still are not building ships at the rate we must attain to win this war."

Speed Termed Encouraging.

"We must realize," he said, "that we do not have anything like the amount of shipping required by the far flung lines of the war."

He said it was encouraging that destroyers which required more than two years to build when the Kearny yard started its naval building work in 1934 now are completed in seven to nine months.

The first of the ships, sent down the ways at 11:40 a. m., was the Fletcher, which was named for the late Rear Adm. Frank Friday Fletcher, who fought in the battle of Vera Cruz and served in the World war.

Named for Civil War Commander.

The Fletcher was followed 15 minutes later by the Radford, second destroyer to pay tribute to Rear Adm. William Radford, commander of the Ironsides during the Civil war.

The other two, the Quick and the Mervine, were launched from neighboring ways. The Mervine slid down at 12:30 p. m.

The Quick was christened for Sergt. Maj. John Henry Quick, who was decorated for gallant action in the Spanish-American and World wars. The Mervine was named for the late Rear Adm. William Mervine, who saw service in three wars.

Subchaser Launched.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., May 3 (AP).—A 165 foot steel subchaser, the PC588, was launched at the Leathem Smith shipbuilding yard today and christened by Mrs. Joshua L. Johns, wife of Rep. Johns [R., Wis.]. Rep. T. A. Flaherty [D., Mass.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, headed a delegation from Washington.

GROCER ROBBED, LOCKED IN.

Dan Glavas, proprietor of a grocery at 4552 North Western avenue, was robbed of $700 and, with his brother, Nick, and a customer, was locked in the basement yesterday by two robbers who masked their faces with handkerchiefs.

FLORIDIANS BACK BROOKS PLAN FOR CIVIL AIR PATROL

Criticize Washington for Lack of Action.

Miami, Fla., May 3 [Special].—Hearty indorsement of the proposal in congress of Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], for an armed patrol of coastal waters by light civilian planes came today from civic and aviation leaders of south Florida.

Mayor C. H. Reeder.

Here on the Florida east coast, where the gulf stream keeps coastal shipping hugging the shore, the entire populace is acutely conscious of the submarine menace and there is general appreciation of the practical value of the Brooks plan.

Sen. Brooks proposed that a corps of licensed civilian pilots be formed to maintain a night and day guard over every mile of the eastern coastline, extending 50 miles to sea. He said 1,000 pilots could do the job and recommended that each plane carry two 250 pound depth charges.

Washington Criticized.

Local officials agreed that slowness of Washington officials alone is responsible for denying coastal shipping the protection of a civilian air umbrella. Planes and pilots are available locally to begin patrol work immediately, it was revealed. Civilian plane owners have worked out detailed patrol planes and have been begging the government since Pearl Harbor for permission to start functioning.

Mayor Clifford H. Reeder of Miami said that a civil air patrol was formed here last July by the Miami Air Pilots' association, composed of leading air enthusiasts in south Florida. The patrol was dedicated at the time to coöperation with the Dade county defense council.

30 Planes Available.

Immediately after Pearl Harbor, the patrol of more than 30 planes and 37 Civil Aeronautics administration certificated pilots, dedicated their men and equipment to assistance in the war effort. They originated the plan for patroling south Florida coastal waters, especially the Florida keys, whose myriad bays, inlets, and channels would provide ideal hiding places for enemy radio stations and supply bases for submarines.

"For some time," the mayor continued, "the young men who comprise the air patrol have been trying to gain official or semiofficiail status for their organization. All they ask for is the necessary fuel and reasonable maintenance of their planes. If the government would get busy and supply them with help and a coördinator, they could begin work in short order."

N. P. Lowrey, chairman of the Dade county board of commissioners, also indorsed Sen. Brooks' proposal. He said that the county commission recently opened negotiations with the war department for lease of Chapman field, a World War I. training field near Miami, since abandoned, in order that it might be made into a base for air patrol.

All Are "Dead Serious."

Tine W. Davis, leading south Florida chain grocer and one of the founders of the Miami Air Pilots' association, declared that slowness of Washington authorities is all that has kept the civil air patrol from functioning since last Dec. 7.

John Paul Riddle, pioneer American aviator who flew in World War I. and who now conducts three of the largest air corps contract primary flight training schools in the nation, added his indorsement of Sen. Brooks' plan.

Rep. Pat Cannon of the 4th congressional district of Florida, now here seeking reëlection, added his indorsement, saying: "I believe the Miami civil air patrol could perform valuable service in dispersing the submarine menace to coastal shipping. Their services should be accepted."

W-G-N TO COVER SUGAR RATIONING THIS MORNING

Ration Card Procedure to Be Told in Interviews.

W-G-N will "cover" Chicago's sugar rationing registration in a special 30 minute program starting at 9:15 a. m. today. First, June Baker, W-G-N's home management director, will interview Michael F. Mulcahy, ration administrator for the Chicago area, and Abbott Brown, first assistant to State Administrator Henry Pope Jr.

Then at 9:30 a. m. an announcer at Le Moyne Grammar school, 851 Waveland avenue, will describe the registration and interview persons who are signing up for ration books. The W-G-N special events department arranged the broadcast.

Inside information about the lives and careers of radio and movie headliners will be presented on a new series of programs called Stargazing, which will be introduced on W-G-N at 10 o'clock tonight. Forrest Lewis, noted character actor, will conduct the new show. On tonight's broadcast he will interview Les Tremayne, one of the stars of the First Nighter dramas. On Friday he will interview Barbara Luddy, feminine headliner. The show also will be presented on Wednesday nights. Lewis will present, as a regular feature, details of famous "boners" of broadcasting.

ROBBERY VICTIMS VIEW CAPTURED 'KERCHIEF GANG'

Victims of recent robberies in taverns and restaurants looked at six men in the police showup yesterday after one of the prisoners had admitted he and his companions were what police have come to know as the "handkerchief gang." None was reported able to identify the prisoners. Two of the gang had been in custody for a week and the others were caught Saturday night.

William Helmos.

William Helmos, 29 years old, 1642 Warren boulevard, was arrested in a crashed automobile April 22 after Motorcycle Policeman Arthur Comiskey had been wounded in an exchange of shots with four men he sought to arrest for driving thru a stoplight. Two days later Medio Mancione, 26, was seized at 718 South Oakley avenue where he was treating himself for a bullet wound.

Comiskey and Policeman James Biever of the Fillmore station learned Leona Hull, 20, of 718 South Oakley avenue, and Margaret Adams, 20, of 1632 Jackson boulevard, knew the hunted men, and followed them until they met the gang last night. They captured Neil McCauley, 28, of 209 South Damen avenue; Sam Perry, 29, of 1415 Jackson boulevard; Sam Pallaci, 27, of 3549 North avenue, and Thomas Lowe, 27, of 24 South Leavitt street, by curbing their car at Monroe street and Ogden avenue.

ASSASSINS KILL MEXICAN JUDGE AND AN OFFICER

MEXICO CITY, May 3 (AP).—Civil Judge Leopoldo Suarez Ocana and Federal Deputy Alternate Pedro Pasada were slain last night in a suburban street by a hail of machine gun fire from several unidentified assailants.

Before going down under the gunfire the officials fired several revolver shots at the assassins and wounded one so gravely that police feared he would die.

His companions escaped in the automobile with which they had forced the car of their victims to the curb. It was believed that at least two of the fugitives were wounded. Police did not know of any motive for the attack.

HEAR NAZIS KILL 70 CZECHS AFTER FACTORY STRIKE

LONDON, May 4 [Monday]—(AP).—The Moscow radio reported today that 70 Czechs taken to Germany for forced labor had been shot after a strike in the plant where they were working. Some of the Czechs protested to the plant manager over their treatment at the hands of German guards, the Moscow account said, and they were arrested. Then all foreign workers in the establishment went on strike. That night, it continued, Gestapo [secret police] agents burst into the Czechs' living quarters and summarily executed 70 men on the spot.

Loop Theater Manager Robbed of $658 in Office

George Rosenthal, assistant manager of the United Artists theater at 45 West Randolph street, reported to police last night that a gunman forced him into the office on the balcony floor, seized $658 from the safe, ran down the stairs, and escaped.

The Rev. James D. O'Neill Is Honored on Anniversary

Catholic dignitaries honored the Rev. James David O'Neill yesterday on his 50th anniversary as a priest. Father O'Neill has been priest of the Immaculate Conception church at Highland Park for 34 years. Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch presided at a solemn high mass at Father O'Neill's church. Among others present were Bishops Bernard J. Sheil and William D. O'Brien of Chicago and Archbishop Moses Kiley of Milwaukee.

F. D. R. REQUEST FOR 35 BILLION FUND EXPECTED

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—Informed legislators said today they expected a Presidential request for approximately 35 billion dollars for the war department to be placed before congress in the next week or 10 days.

The amount—the largest single appropriation request in history—would bring to more than 190 billions the total appropriations and contract authorizations made for military purposes in the last two years.

ACTOR IN RACE FOR HOUSE TO BEAT REP. FISH

New York, May 3 [Special].—Arthur R. Vinton, stage, screen and radio actor, who operates a 136 acre dairy farm in New Windsor, Orange county, announced today his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for representative in the 26th congressional district.

The candidacy of Vinton, a 100 per cent supporter of President Roosevelt, is aimed directly at Rep. Hamilton Fish, who announced last week that he would be a candidate for renomination in the Republican primary.

Vinton was campaign manager for Kenneth O. Shrewsbury, Democratic candidate for district attorney of Orange county four years ago.

Dim-Out Casts Shadow of War Over Cape Cod

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH the number of days until the opening of Cape Cod's summer season growing shorter, prospective visitors are wondering what the Cape will be like this summer. Cape Codders themselves are uncertain what kind of a summer season there will be this year in view of new government and army orders.

Until a few days ago life on the Cape was much as usual and the general belief was that persons with homes there would occupy them, our correspondent writes from Hyannis. Summer residents don't move around much after arrival, so that tire rationing would not bother them, and visitors at Wianno and Oyster Harbors have every facility right at hand, so they could look forward to a vacation as usual.

Gasoline Rationing's Effect Is Discounted.

Even when the announcement of gasoline rationing was made, it was regarded as more serious for the year-around residents than the summer folk. The latter could bicycle to the shopping districts. A limited amount of gasoline still would permit weekly trips to the Cape Playhouse, for instance, since the distance is not too great.

The recent "dim-out" order, however, is the cause of the Cape Codders' uncertainty. It provides that all houses with windows facing the sea must be blacked out nightly, and that persons traveling shore roads must operate autos on parking lights only. On all other roads, low beam driving lights are required, and street lights and outside electric signs are extinguished permanently. These orders may be, of course, only a prelude to total blackout, our correspondent suggests.

Even so, the chamber of commerce has reported many inquiries from persons living in the midwest and far west. The Cape Playhouse president expects to offer the cream of actors and actresses because all are interested in getting away from the west coast for the summer. Virtually all of the regular summer residents are planning to go to the Cape.

Mrs. Seymour Wheeler Goes East in August.

Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, who has a house at Wianno, right on the shore, won't be going east until August. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Morris R. Eddy, is occupying the house while Ensign Eddy is on active duty. Mrs. Robert M. Roloson will go east at the end of the month, stopping in Washington first for a visit with her son, Ensign Robert M. Burns, and Mrs. Burns, who were in Mrs. Roloson's house at Oyster Harbors until he received his orders. The season at Oyster Harbors got off to an early start, with many homes already open for week-ends and the golf club open for visitors. Its formal opening will be held on June 19.

The David Danglers, who usually are early birds at the resort, will arrive at their bayshore home in Oyster Harbors by July 1. They are remaining in Lake Forest until after the marriage on June 20 of their daughter, Nancy, and Dr. Pliny Norcross. Their Lake Forest home is leased for the summer to the Morris L. Johnstons.

Miss Dangler is a courageous bride-to-be, for she plans to hear two wedding services on the 20th, her own at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and one at 12:30 o'clock that will unite in marriage her good friend, Miss Ruth Burrows, and Laurence R. R. Dawson. Miss Dangler plans to slip into the garden of Mrs. William F. Burrows' Lake Forest home just during the ceremony, which will be held outdoors, weather permitting.

Miss Dangler Chooses Her Bridal Attendants.

The Rev. Oliver Brackett will officiate at the Norcross-Dangler ceremony. Miss Emily Norcross will be maid of honor for her future sister-in-law. The bride's sub-deb sisters, Mary Jean and Margaret, Miss Betty Broome, and perhaps Miss Dangler's cousin, Mrs. Henry Newman of Colorado Springs, and one other will be bridesmaids. Dr. Norcross hopes to have his younger brother, Edward, as best man if he has not received orders from the army. The bride's three brothers, David, Hugh, who is at Hotchkiss, and Henry, an army air cadet, will usher. Dr. Norcross and his bride will live in La Porte, Ind.

Miss Burrows spent the week-end at Princeton, attending houseparties. She and Mrs. George Voevodsky, Mr. Dawson's aunt, will go to the university for Mr. Dawson's graduation on June 16, and the three will return to Lake Forest on the eve of the ceremony. The wedding will be small, with only relatives and a few close friends present. The Rev. Herbert Prince of the Church of the Holy Spirit will officiate, and a breakfast will follow.

Mrs. Robert M. Whittemore of Boston, Miss Burrows' sister, will be her only attendant. Edmond Dawson, a student at Lehigh university, will be best man. He is leaving his studies to enter the service. Larry Daw-

Negro Soprano Displays Rarely Beautiful Voice

BY CECIL SMITH.

In May the music calendar is given over largely to the names of young and unknown artists, many of whom appear in public once or twice and return to foreordained obscurity. It is an occasion of the rarest excitement, therefore, when a young artist of exceptional gifts relieves the persistent mediocrity of the late spring routine.

Such an artist, to an altogether extraordinary degree, is Muriel Rahn, the young Negro soprano who gave her first Chicago recital in the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon. Her small audience was fortunate in making the early acquaintance of a singer who seems destined to reach the very top of her profession.

Miss Rahn possesses one of the rarely beautiful voices of this generation. With an easy range of two octaves or more, it is superb in its concentrated intensity, yet radiantly full and round, and most blandishing in texture. Tho she calls herself a dramatic soprano, she is not one; in weight and quality her voice would be classified by old Italian experts as a spinto, capable of more vehemence and force than a true lyric soprano, yet not heroic enough to belong in the dramatic classification.

It is a happy miracle that Miss Rahn has already learned to sing absolutely correctly, tho she is still in her early twenties. Her tone production is frontal, which means that it sounds like Maria Kurenko or Edith Mason, with the tone issuing forth directly without muscular constriction or throaty sound. When her voice moves easily and naturally up thru an even scale to a climactic A or B, the result is nothing short of electrically exciting. And, best of all, she looks quite charming as she accomplishes these remarkable feats of singing, for her carriage is graceful and her face and figure are delightful to the sight.

It is unthinkable, as I have said, that Miss Rahn should not find an important place for herself in the concert world. But since she is young, she still has much to accomplish before her art will be complete. As a matter of pure technique, she needs to develop a pianissimo in the upper register, altho it is to be hoped devoutly that she will never fall into Dorothy Maynor's example of using it too much of the time. And she needs to watch out lest a clicking glottis wreak its vengeance upon her voice, as it has upon some beautiful voices in the past.

While it is wonderful to discover a singer who can sing Agathe's prayer from Weber's "Der Freischütz" with spontaneous ease, yet there is no overlooking the fact that here, and elsewhere as well, her interpretations were somewhat callow and immature. She can do anything she wants with her magnificent voice; now she needs to learn more fully precisely what she wants to do.

The capable and responsive accompaniments of Jonathan Brice were of great assistance in the success of the recital.

After the simple naturalness of Miss Rahn, the pretentiousness of Theodore Charles Stone's recital up in Curtiss hall proved to be a little more than I could accept with equanimity. Mr. Stone, a Chicago Negro baritone, does not possess a voice worthy of concert exploitation, for its volume seldom exceeds a whisper. Accompanied by Marion Geary Randall, he sang while I was there a group of Brahms and Schubert songs in which affectations of style robbed the music of genuine appeal.

Celestial Mechanic.

Annabella, who floats lightly thru the nightly performances of "Blithe Spirit" as the ghost of Dennis King's first wife, has been getting down to earth in her leisure hours, donning her dungarees to take the mechanics' course under auspices of the Red Cross motor corps.

Having completed that course, she is now taking first aid, as is Estelle Winwood. When the class instructor was explaining the symptoms of shock—trembling, cold perspiration and cold hands and feet—Miss Winwood whispered to a neighbor," I'm glad I came to this class, because now I know that I am in a perpetual state of shock."

Slogans.

Whimsy oftener than not gets the better of a bright girl we know who writes copy for an advertising agency. For example: Last week she was asked to suggest slogans intended to sell a certain brand of complexion soap. In no time at all she came up with these two: "This face under new management." "That for your dirty face:—soap."

Add Malapropisms: The woman who told her manicure that her fingernails were splitting because she didn't have enough calcimine in her system.

Salvage Note.

Two friends, Izzy and Ginny, called to add this one to the stories of the successful salvage campaign conducted recently in Evanston.

On the lawn of a large house was stacked a neat pile of odds and ends, and beside it an iron cot, complete with mattress and pillows. Tied to the headboard of the cot was this placard in a childish scrawl:

Shape a New Society Now, Parent-Teacher Delegates Are Told

San Antonio, Tex., May 3 (AP).—The National Congress of Parents and Teachers was told today the postwar world will be shaped by the ability of Democracy's citizens to select now the "permanent philosophies which we want to come out of this war."

Howard V. Funk of Bronxville, N. Y., regional vice president, said at vesper services opening the annual convention that "we must make this more than a war of survival altho that is the essential immediate end. "We must seek enduring social values find them and then put them into effect as elements in a program of daily living."

The first general session of the convention, which is devoted to an intensification of the PTA wartime program, will be held tomorrow morning.

Lutherans Sing Oratorio; Park Chorus Pleases

BY FELIX BOROWSKI.

Robert Reuter, who conducted the Lutheran Oratorio society's concert at the Goodman theater yesterday, has it greatly to his credit that he selected another of Handel's oratorios than the "Messiah," which is one of the well-worn inevitabilities at Christmas time. And while "Judas Maccabaeus" is far from being the most majestic or inspired of the great choral dramas with which Handel astonished British concertgoers in the first half of the 18th century, it contains some splendid music.

The Lutheran Oratorio society is not an extensive organization; but altho multitudinous vocal bodies have always been considered necessary to the interpretation of Handel's choral pageants, the great Saxon composer never employed them, and the half a hundred members of Mr. Reuter's choir were almost twice as numerous as any chorus that sang "Messiah," "Samson," "Israel in Egypt," or "Judas Maccabaeus" in the days in which those works were first set forth.

In its totality the chorus accomplished effective labors in the presentation of Handel's work; but they would have been—and the efforts of the solo singers also would have been—even more effective if they had accepted "Judas Maccabaeus" as a great drama of life and death, and not as a religious ceremony. It was the general solemnity of the proceedings that put a pall upon the performance. Something of this may have resulted from use of the organ to play Handel's instrumental pages.

There were four soloists. Ralph Njehaus sang the tenor part with a pleasant and well handled voice that found no difficulties in Handel's florid passages. The baritone was Burton Dole. He, too, sang well, but unfortunately with little realization of the heroic nature of the music. "Arm, arm, ye brave," for instance, left no impression that Simon the high priest was making an impassioned and fiery address to his people. Paula Zwane disclosed an attractive voice in Handel's soprano music, and Hazel Meisterling had little to do, but did it with vocal charm.

In three of the movements the chorus was reënforced by a contingent of children from Lutheran churches in Chicago and its suburbs, and the little folk may well have put patriotic, if not Handelian, fervor into "See, the conquering hero comes!"

There is something infinitely touching and attractive about the music festivals which the Civic Music Association of Chicago presents each spring. It gave one at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. The multitude of young people who lift up their fresh and unspoiled voices in songs, and to whom the festival will remain one of the major experiences of their lives, bring only delight to those who listen to them.

For the purposes of this review it was possible to hear only four of the songs—"A Tragic Story" [with Mozart's music], "The Pearl," a Latin-American folksong; a Creole ditty, "Ay, Ay, Ay," and John Alden Carpenter's stirring "Home Road." The children, skilfully directed by Marx E. Oberndorfer, sang with enthusiasm, and in "The Pearl" with admirable variety of nuance. Something of the fervor with which they lifted up their voices in Mr. Carpenter's work reflected the circumstance that in the park centers in which they are trained patriotism as well as music is inculcated in the little folk.

A word of commendation should be given Mr. Oberndorfer and his staff for the excellence of the work that was accomplished, and to the director in particular for the orchestral accompaniments which he arranged for the songs. Commendation, too, should be extended to the Civic orchestra which, under the baton of Hans Lange, played delicately and poetically some of the ballet music written by Schubert to Mme. von Chezy's play, "Rosamunde." The orchestra also performed two movements from Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" in an earlier part of the program, directed by Clarence Evans.

Variety was given to the proceedings by 30 members of the marine aviation detachment from Navy pier, who sang their hymn, "From the Halls of Montezuma," with gusto, and provoked enthusiasm from the audience.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Miss Charlotte Niven, American YWCA worker who has just returned home after two and a half years of war service in England, will be the keynote speaker at the central regional conference of the YWCA to be held next Friday thru Sunday at the Hotel Sherman. Miss Niven's subject will be "Women in a Warring World." She will speak at the opening session Friday morning. More than 400 new YWCA centers have been opened in England since the war began, and the British government has appointed the organization the official agency to work with women in the British armed forces.

Miss Myra Smith.

Miss Niven, who is an aunt of Thornton Wilder, novelist and playwright, will describe the new hostels for land army girls who are taking the place of men on farms. The YWCA also maintains hostels for munitions workers, reception centers for new arrivals in munition making towns and leave hostels for women workers. Mrs. Ernest Johnson of Lake Forest is chairman of the regional conference.

The YWCA war service coördinating committee, Mrs. Howard Goodman, chairman, will meet at 10:30 o'clock today to hear Miss Myra Smith of the organization's national staff speak on the effects of the war situation on YWCA thruout the nation.

Miss Smith heads the department of data and trends of the national board. Her department provides analysis of social conditions in relation to YWCA programs.

Cheering news for women workers in the Navy Relief fund campaign comes from Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, chairman of the women's committee. She reports that more than $5,000 has already been contributed to the woman's committee.

"Some groups have found it necessary to hold their campaign meetings early in the morning; others devote their evenings to the work," said Mrs. MacArthur. "But, whatever the pressure of other duties, they are all finding a way to help in assuring that the families of navy men will not suffer if they can prevent it. They take it almost as a personal responsibility to see to it that our sailors, marines, and coast guardsmen can face the enemy without worry about the welfare of the folks at home."

A meeting for all chairmen and co-chairmen of the women's suburban and city groups will be held at the headquarters of the Chicago Citizens' committee, 105 South La Salle street, at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

The Navy Mother's club will hold its regular monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock today in its headquarters.

The woman's auxiliary of the Englewood branch of the Chicago Medical society will hold its monthly meeting at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the Englewood Hospital Nurses' home, 60th and Green streets. A special program has been arranged by Mrs. Henry Christiansen, chairman. The annual spring luncheon and card party will be held on Friday at Evergreen Towers.

War and Peacetime Programs Concern DAR Congress Today

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Intensification of a wartime program and maintenance of peacetime projects were set yesterday as the main objectives of the 51st Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution by Mrs. William H. Pouch of New York City, president general of the organization.

Mrs. Pouch was the special guest at several programs held yesterday as preludes to the congress, which will open at a colorful ceremony this evening in Medinah temple.

"This is a war congress and its chief objective is to redouble the society's war efforts and at the same time to maintain peacetime activities," she said. "The society is doing everything possible to support the government in its war effort. An indication is that we are holding our annual congress outside of Washington, D. C., despite having our own Constitutional hall and headquarters there. We did not wish to add to the congestion of the city.

"The society is willing to make any sacrifice and we will do all we can in every way to help win the war. They say this is a time of blood and sweat and tears. We will try to keep back the tears."

In accordance with the aim of the congress, a national defense meeting will herald the opening sessions this afternoon in the Stevens hotel. More than 2,000 delegates are expected to attend. The meeting will be conducted by the committee on national defense thru patriotic education with Mrs. E. Thomas Boyd, chairman, presiding.

Guest speakers will include Marshall E. Dimock of the department of justice in Washington, D. C.; Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district; Hugh H. Clegg, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D. C.; Col. Chester Fordney of the United State marine corps, Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commanding officer of the 6th corps area, and Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown university.

Gov. Dwight H. Green will make the opening address this evening and Mrs. Pouch will set the keynote of the congress.

Members of the resolutions committee, headed by Mrs. Julian G. Goodhue of Oak Park, indicated yesterday that more resolutions will be considered at this congress than at any other meeting in the history of the organization. The resolutions will touch on home defense, coöperation with service organizations, and the sale of defense bonds.

Mrs. Russell William Magna of Holyoke, Mass., former president general, will head the sale of defense bonds and stamps during the congress. She anticipates a pledge of a bond from every delegate present.

A roster of candidates for election as vice presidents general to be voted on Wednesday was announced yesterday. Six of nine candidates will be elected to serve for three years and one for two years. Running for the national offices are Mrs. Howard P. Arnest of Portland, Ore.; Mrs. George Duffy of Fort Plains, N. Y.; Mrs. John T. Gardner of East Greenwich, R. I.; Mrs. Carbon Gillespie of Boulder, Colo.; Mrs. R. P. Hinkle of Roswell, N. M.; Mrs. Oscar Know of Cleveland, O.; Mrs. J. Warren Perkins of East Orange, N. J.; Miss Mary C. Welch of Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. Frank G. Wheeler of Appleton, Wis.

Mrs. Thomas J. Mauldin of Pickens, S. C., will be the only candidate for the office of honorary vice president general to be elected for life to succeed Mrs. Alvin Lane of Texas, who died last year.

GAY HOLLAND.

Gay Holland, daughter of the junior Kirk D. Hollands of Oak Park, will present the president general of the DAR, Mrs. William H. Pouch of New York, with a cash bouquet during the ceremonies in connection with the 51st annual continental congress to be held here today thru Thursday. Gay is the colonial page of the DAR. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Holland Sr., of Evanston, and the S. O. Stones of Oak Park.

Ginger Rogers' Mother Plays—Ginger's Mother

Hollywood, Cal., May 3 (AP).—Mrs. Lela Rogers has just made her movie debut. Not that she's any stranger to the sound stages. For years she's been watching over the career of a red-haired daughter who grew up to be Ginger Rogers and won an academy award. Paramount lured her from the Oregon ranch that is the pride and joy of both mother and daughter to play Ginger's mother in "The Major and the Minor." And she says she has the critics where she wants them. "Just let them try to say I'm not the type," she says, chuckling.

Good Morning!

On Saturday, my little ones, we considered the strange case of German twins involved in political intrigue. Today we are concerned with the adventures of the Raden brothers—one an upstanding and respected member of society, the other a mad man.

This chill cuddler opens with scenes in the private burial grounds of the Raden estate. . . . Here the body of John Raden, father of the aforementioned twins, has just been lowered into the grave. . . . Ceremonies are watched and occasionally hooted at by a crowd of watchers outside the gates—many of whom have been employed in the now idle factory owned by the Radens. . . . The preacher may believe he's burying a good man, but these folks think differently.

Behind a tree some distance away an old Negro stands watching and listening, throwing occasional backward glances at the supposedly haunted and run down Raden house where he—an old retainer—lives, raising a few vegetables, chickens and such for his maintenance. . . . Dr. Saunders—family physician—sees him with a frown, and after the service is ended hastens to him and orders him to the house—"How dare you leave at such a time. . . .?"

And, later you meet in the old house where for years he has been tended by the Negro Pompey, Paul, twin of John Raden Jr., whom the world believes to have died when a lad. . . .

Don't think I'm going to tell you more of the story, because I'm not.

Albert Dekker in the double rôle of John and Paul gives an exciting and believable performance. . . . Harry Carey distinguishes himself anew as the doctor, who, for humanity's sake—or so he had thought—commits a certain crime. . . . Susan Hayward does some beautiful work as a girl who falls for the maniac and Jean Phillips presents a nice bit as a café hostess. . . . 'Smatter of fact all the playing is tops; dialog zips, action skeers, and the director had the matter well in hand.

See you tomorrow.

INSTALMENT VII.

ODD PARTY.

June closed her eyes and opened them again.

"Go ahead," she murmured.

"Matarasso is giving a party," said Maj. Stranack. "You know nothing about him except that he is in the export trade.

"As a matter of fact, he isn't. There's Rawlings, his aid, a fellow who looks like a film star and is supposedly irresistible to women. You needn't know anything about him, either. They'll have a woman each, Lady Baerie and Beryl Tramayne, but the women don't matter. You and I—you're not my girl yet, but I'm supposed to be hoping you will be. So I call you June. Is that clear?"

"Yes, but——"

"Your assignment is as follows: Enjoy the party as a party. After dinner I shall get a message which will call me away and one of the women will say she has to go, too. The party will go on to Matarasso's house. You go with them when they ask you. Stay there until I come. You will probably have to play poker or chemin de fer."

"But I can't play any game like that."

"They will teach you. You've only to take their lead. Do everything they suggest. Do you want to ask me any questions?"

She wanted to ask him thousands. But if she had been in the secret service only a matter of hours, she had already discovered that unnecessary questions and comments were not popular. So she boiled it down to a single question.

"Do I have to try to find out anything?"

"No. You wouldn't succeed anyway. Just listen and memorize as much as you can, so that you can make a detailed report to the chief tomorrow. By the way, I'm a military correspondent for a New York paper."

June was disappointed. Her orders were to go to a party, be nice at the party, and leave the party. After the strange, sinister efficiency of Glenday and Miss Flinders, it all seemed very simple and schoolgirlish.

Stranack left her, to telephone her report. She felt as if she were walking in a dream. Stranack had been no more interested in her amazing adventure with the police than if it had been an account of catching the wrong train.

In a couple of minutes he rejoined her.

"You're aware that if the police get you it's no good saying anything about the service," he warned her. "They won't believe you and we shan't back you up. Ah, here's the party!"

And there they were, just as he had described them, except for the two women, one of whom was a pretty, expensively dressed girl with too much jewelry. The other was a tired face-lifted dowager with an ingratiating manner.

Stranack introduced her proudly and they were all very nice and welcoming.

They dined at a round table. June sat between Stranack and Matarasso. On the other side of Matarasso sat the dowager, who scarcely spoke or was spoken to by any one. Then Rawlings, the positively beautiful young man, of whom few people would have believed that he had survived three air crashes and was one of the best civilian flyers in the world; then the pretty girl who took no notice of him but hung on every word of Matarasso's.

During the dinner they talked exclusively about a musical show in the West End, of which, it appeared, Matarasso was the financial backer. Fortunately June had seen it with Ralph and was able to contribute her quota.

"You've seen the show, Miss Clayton? I brought it from the States. I saw it was the goods and I said 'snap'—just like that. Now that soubrette part. Rotten, wasn't it? I offered it to Beryl and she just tilted that pretty nose of hers."

"My sex appeal doesn't carry beyond the orchestra," drawled Beryl. "Matarasso, let's hear the rest of your life story—over coffee."

"You see!" Matarasso beamed at June. "That's what I have to put up with. But a pretty girl can twist me around her finger—just like that."

"I'm sure no one could make you do anything you didn't want to, Mr. Matarasso," simpered June. A simper, she gathered, was all that was required of her. Matarasso was talking to her as if she were a pretty fool.

Almost as soon as they sat down to coffee, a page approached Stranack with an envelope.

"Sorry, Mat!" said Stranack. "They want me at the office and are likely to keep me there for a bit. What about you, June?"

"O, hang it all, Miss Clayton is coming with us, aren't you, my dear? You can come on to my place, George, and pick her up when you're thru."

June smiled demurely.

"Sorry, June," said Stranack. "I may be around about 11. Mr. Matarasso will show you some pictures if you're nice to him."

"All right, George," returned June gayly. "You needn't hurry on my account."

"George, I'll come in your taxi," said Beryl. "Matarasso knows I've got to go. Good night, Mat, and thanks for the blowout."

He patted her arm and let her go. A man and his wife strolled up and spoke to Matarasso. The man was wearing a foreign order.

Lady Baerie crossed and sat next to June.

"I hope we shall be great friends," she said. "I want you to tell me about yourself."

June mechanically answered her half silly, half patronizing questions while she watched Matarasso. He certainly had huge ears, but his eyes were much more intelligent than his conversation. On the surface he was a noisy, vulgar man boasting about his money with a bad style uncleverness manner to herself. Yet he was, apparently, important enough for the secret service to take him seriously.

Rawlings seemed the only normal person in the party, altho people were staring at him for his ridiculous beauty, which was a blend of that of the three leading film heroes. But he certainly didn't pose and probably didn't know he was so good looking. In any case, he didn't have the obvious vanity of the much less striking Ralph Eddis.

When his acquaintances moved off, Matarasso got up. Presently all four were engulfed in the biggest car June had even seen.

"Drive a car, my dear?" asked Matarasso,

"Only a Baby Morstyn," answered June.

"Ah! One day you'll have one like this. I know what I'm talking about. You've got the big-car eye."

They were driven along the embankment to a house in Chelsea—a large house with a wide hall and a galleried staircase. June knew that the rent of such a house in such a neighborhood would be at least a thousand pounds a year and probably more. She half expected to see a butler and a screen of footmen, but no servants appeared.

Lady Baerie led the way to the drawing room on the first floor. It could have held a hundred persons without overcrowding. It was richly furnished, parquet floor with a number of rugs, as ill-assorted as the furniture.

Rawlings switched on a radio, warmed into a waltz. Taking her wrap, Rawlings spoke in her ear:

"Dance with me—I want to speak to you."

It was funny leaving your jacket in the drawing room, thought June. But then everything about these people was more or less "funny." Rawlings, avoiding the rugs without appearing to do so, waltzed her past Matarasso and Lady Baerie.

"That's what I like to see. That's what gladdens the heart! Young people being young," mouthed Matarasso.

'Round a tiger skin and back to the other side of the radio, Rawlings danced with superb confidence and skill.

"Matarasso is my boss, for the moment. He thinks you're a fool and you're not," Rawlings said in her ear. "You think he's a fool and he's not."

"You're very loyal," she said.

"No, I'm not—I'm being damnably disloyal," he returned. "He wants you to think him a fool."

"Thanks," said June. "But why give me the tip?"

"Because I at least am a fool," answered Rawlings.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., May 3—Sunday—Our first motor week-end away from home since war began, and we're at Big Bear lake, less than four hours from home but more than a mile high, and the snow is still around. . . . Couple of gags you may have missed: Heard about the Kee bird? It's a white bird with a longish beak and black edging around its wings, and it sits at the north pole—sits on top of a little ball right on the north pole. And it says, "Kee . . . kee . . . kee-ripes, but it's cold up here!" . . . and then there's the one about the two sardines swimming along past the Santa Monica pier. One of them says, "Whatever happened to that drunken brother of yours?" The other sardine shrugs his shoulders and says, "How should I know? Am I my brother's kipper?" . . . We probably should stay up there in those hills, but we came home.

Monday—Desk work, but time out for lunch with Whitney Bolton and Nunnally Johnson. Johnson can get away from 20th-Fox at noontime because his picture, "The Pied Piper," has been closed down. One of his stars, young Roddy McDowall, has been taken with mumps. The other one, Monty Woolley, has to stick around until Roddy recovers, instead of going back to New York on schedule. And they had only five days' shooting left on the schedule. . . . On Friday Bolton will observe with appropriate awe and deserved pleasure the first anniversary of his becoming press representative for David O. Selznick. During that time Selznick hasn't made a picture, but he and Bolton have been busy as bird dogs. Selznick long has planned production of "The Keys of the Kingdom," but it's still in preparation. Wouldn't surprise me if he took another year at it—but he'd better hurry, because if we win the war before the picture is out the picture is sunk. . . . Hollywood's scramble to get on a war footing and make war pictures has been heroic and historic; but it will be nothing compared to swinging over into peacetime plots.

Tuesday—To Errol Flynn's house for lunch and a long talk. . . . Here and there: Orson Welles is due to stay in South America until August. Now that it's all over between him and Dolores Del Rio, maybe he won't make the picture he'd planned to do in Mexico later on. . . . Joan Fontaine, Ginger Rogers, and Doris Dudley have been playing little girls in their recent assignments. But in "Lazybones" Judy Canova will play 12 year old hillbilly triplets. . . . Ray Milland will play opposite Ginger Rogers in Paramount's film version of "Lady in the Dark." The studio is trying to get Victor Mature for the rôle he played on Broadway, and is angling for Fred Astaire to take the Danny Kaye part. . . . Fashion note: C. C. De Mille has stopped wearing his French Legion of Honor rosette, in protest against Pierre Laval. Instead he's wearing the rosette of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre, awarded him by the patriarch of Jerusalem.

Wednesday—Several weeks ago I wrote in the column that I was tired of hearing fancy radio talkers say "raytioning." Several dozen correspondents wrote scolding me, saying raytioning is the preferred pronunciation in the Standard dictionary. I had to write them all, saying that, preferred or not, it struck me as against common usage and sounded silly—and besides, "rashioning" gets top billing in the Oxford English dictionary. I felt a lot better when President Roosevelt said rashioning in his speech last night.

Thursday—To RKO for an early look at Walt Disney's "Bambi," which has been in preparation three or four years and which, by the time it opens July 30 at the Music hall, will have cost $3,000,000. "Bambi" is a forest idyl—the simple story of a young deer and other woodfolk. It is the most beautiful picture Disney ever has made, and technically it makes his previous features look like the Mutt and Jeff animations Gregory La Cava used to draw before we got into the World war. For the first time, oils instead of water colors have been used for the backgrounds, and these, besides being lovely, give the picture a third dimensional quality that is astonishing. Besides Bambi there are many lovable characters, including a rabbit named Thumper. My favorite is a shy, graceful, coy and exceedingly feminine skunk named Flower.

Friday—Golf with Howard Ellis and Frank Willard, and dinner at the W. Boltons', and a game of anagrams instead of gin rummy. That's practically treason in Hollywood.

Saturday—Bob Hope expects to entertain 100,000 men on his new tour of the service camps. . . . Metro figures it has a sleeper in "Once Upon A Thursday."

Mostly I don't like avocados outside of salads [O, what wonderful salads they make!], but here's an idea I came across the other day that appeals to me as a picnic notion. You split a "red hot" and insert a long slice of avocado. Put it into one of the long, buttered buns and add chili sauce or mustard, as you like.

Cut up well cleaned, drained spinach or watercress with the kitchen scissors, to make a big bowlful. Then pour this hot dressing over the greens, toss well, and eat with great delight: Cut four slices of bacon fine, fry until crisp, add ½ small onion, minced, cook until tender, then add 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, a little freshly ground pepper, and ¼ cup tarragon or herb flavored wine vinegar. This is enough dressing for four servings. If you haven't the wine vinegar, use any kind you have. The dressing is best ever with any good vinegar.

You can make a smooth, creamy, vanilla ice cream with corn sirup. You'll like it with crushed fresh strawberries over the top.

Ice Cream Made with Corn Sirup.
[Serves six.]

2 eggs, beaten
1 cup light corn sirup
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Beat eggs until very thick and light. Stir in corn sirup, then milk and flavoring. Whip cream to custardy consistency and fold in. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until frozen around the edges to a depth of about an inch. Remove tray from refrigerator and beat mixture until smooth. Return to freezing unit until firm.

I like this ice cream with maple sirup and no vanilla, too.

Liver extracts may help you keep your hair from turning gray, nutritionists think. Research on what has been called the "anti-gray hair" vitamin factor is so new that no conclusive results can be announced, but it probably won't be long until we know what is responsible for graying and can forestall it if we wish to.

Got some leftover cooked rice? It will make a good jellied dessert with fruit juice and whipped cream. Enough for company, or for several meals.

Pineapple Rice Cream.
[Serves 10.]

1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup pineapple or orange juice
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream
2 cups cooked rice

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, add fruit juice, salt, and sugar. Chill until cold and sirupy. Fold in cream, whipped until thick but not stiff. Fold in rice. Chill until slightly thickened. Turn into mold and chill until firm.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

It's an original, this unusual apple pie that wins today's $5 prize for Mrs. J. E. Cecrle Jr., box 10, route 2, North Judson, Ind.

Even tho you haven't an original, some other interesting recipe may be worthy of the $5 prize given daily by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Give standard and level measurements in your recipe, listing them in the order of use and make your directions clear and complete. Address your entry to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Apple Tree Pie.
[One 9 inch pie.]

Pastry for double crust 9 inch pie:
3 cups peeled, pared, chopped apples
½ cup white raisins
¾ cup honey
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind.
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
2 teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup crushed graham cracker crumbs
1 tablespoon melted butter

Line pie plate with pastry and combine remaining ingredients in order listed. Turn into pie plate and cover with top crust, pressing edges of crusts together firmly. Bake in 450 degrees oven for 10 minutes, then reduce heat and bake 40 minutes longer at 375 degrees.

Musicians Club of Women Will Close Season Today

The 67th season of the Musicians Club of Women will come to a close today with a luncheon at the Swedish club. Mrs. Margaret Lester succeeds Mrs. Almada Biery Jones as president.

On the House

There is a fire retardent mastic available for attics. . . . It can be troweled on the finished floor of an attic, if that attic is unused, as a protection against the spread of fires caused by incendiary bombs. . . . It dries in 15 to 24 hours and then the floor can be used. . . . It is not expensive, costing about 15 cents a square foot, nor is it decorative, either, but decoration is not its purpose. Two Summer Fashions

WOMAN'S SUMMER FASHIONS.

Cool comfort for those "dog days" sure to come is offered in today's two patterns. One makes a sheer frock with simple neckline and brief sleeves. The other makes a tennis or active sports dress with buttons for trim. Both models have their own jackets.

Style No. 3386 is designed for size 16 and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material for collarless dress with short sleeves; 1½ yards of 39 inch for jacket.

Style No. 3055 is designed for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material for dress; 1⅛ yards for bolero.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The spring pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Many Reasons Child May Be Destructive

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My child is so destructive," begin some tales of woe. But then, when I read on, it is not always a true statement.

"Children are naturally destructive," I hear again and again. Yet, in spite of what most adults think, young children are not naturally destructive. The things they break or injure usually are harmed only incidentally. The exception is found when a child has been so mismanaged that he breaks a plaything to get attention, or for spite.

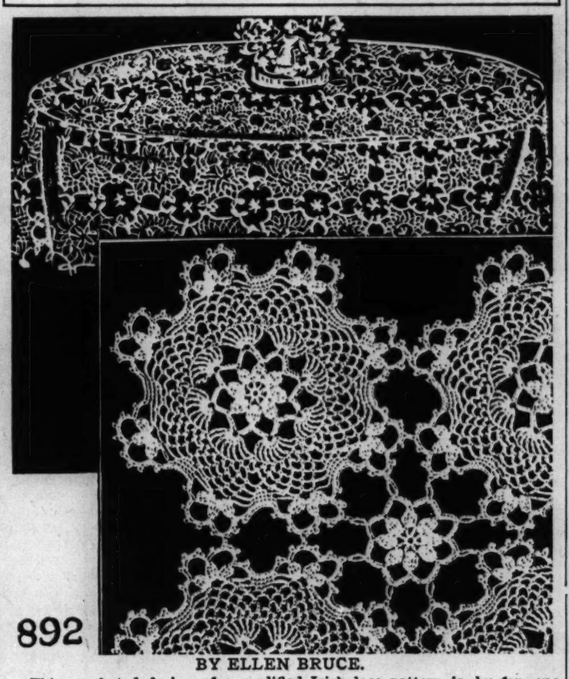
"I took Babs a cute little gadget the other day, and she deliberately broke it before my eyes," said a friend of mine of a friend's child. "Her little brother looked on and the whole family exclaimed with dismay. And she just stood there with a little smile on her face." Babs has a fascinating little brother, and a new baby sister, and it looks as tho she just has to "fight for her life." Bewilderingly [to her], she was flooded with a sort of spoiling adoration, which stopped when the others came along. So that makes it pretty rough sledding right now for Babs.

Of course, I can't always give explanations by letter at long distance of why certain children do the things we label as destructive. Their motives may be too hidden or complex. But the fact remains that children are not naturally destructive, and if they become so it is because something's wrong somewhere. So we can look about to see what may be wrong.

As you know, and I know, it's easier to prevent a bad habit than it is to cure one that's already started. It's that same old ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of cure. So let's look into this behavior we call destructiveness and see what we can learn about it.

To begin with, let us take the very young child. He's filled with interest and curiosity about everything under the sun. This leads him into exploring in all sorts of places and examining all sorts of things. In the process, objects may be damaged because he's not yet deft or sure in all his movements. But if his mishaps are treated reasonably, and he's still given freedom with things that aren't fragile, he's going to gain constantly in muscular skill and judgment. He will learn with continued practice, and with understanding management. Also, treating his possessions with respect encourages him to treat yours, as well as his, that way.

Irish Lace Tablecloth



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This crocheted design of a modified Irish lace pattern is, by far, one of the most attractive motifs to create. It is not difficult to do, and a completed tablecloth worked in this medallion is handsome enough to rate as a museum piece. The medallions are joined as the work progresses, so it is not difficult to visualize the finished product.

For instructions in crocheting the Irish lace tablecloth, No. 892, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

A Word for the Boss.

Unsigned and unidentified, it came in the mail:

"He must like the way she writes his letters—or else . . .

"He finds her hard to dictate to—so what. . . .

"He must allow days off for real or fancied reasons, without complaint.

"He must be happy when she's late—or at least he must appear to be.

"He must constantly build her up with appreciation and thanks.

"He must guard every move to make sure he is not put down as grumpy, grouchy—or what have you? . . .

"He must be cheerful when she noses into his personal affairs, satisfied when she is indifferent to her work, courteous when she forgets to be, patient when she becomes irritated and generous to a fault.

"And yet—THE BOSS IS ALWAYS WRONG."

The Answer Is—?

Higher mathematics department: "Here's something you wouldn't understand," said the voice on the other end of the wire. "Suppose you made a hoop which just fitted around the earth at the equator—24,902 miles. Now, suppose you add a foot to the length of the hoop. How much clearance would the earth have at all points while passing thru this hoop?"

"Uh huh," said the white collar girl, "as you say I wouldn't know, but I've got a couple of readers and . . . and . . . I bet they'd know."

A Sense of Humor.

Of all professions and kinds of business open to women none requires a sense of humor more than lecturing. Caricatured by Helen Hokinson, poked fun at by witty sophisticates, the "lady lecturer" often gazes into the faces of her little group of serious thinkers and struggles to keep a straight face herself.

Recently a Chicago book reviewer, famous for her startling millinery, showed she was not lacking in humor. A skit in the "South Shore Country Club Follies" took her off to perfection—outrageous hat and all! Monday, Mrs. Ellis telephoned the embarrassed girl who impersonated her. She would like to lunch with her. The next day? Fine.

At lunch she made known her intention. She wanted that hat, from the skit, wild as it was. She intended to wear it to the next lecture at the club. And she did.

Suggestion.

E. L. writes: "I am wondering if it would not be a good suggestion to ask all firms to install a receptacle at a convenient place where all employés might deposit articles helpful to the war effort. Most of us have such articles but are not sure what to do with them. For instance, I have metal garters, hooks and zippers, and caps from tops of bottles, razor blades, etc. I am sure a lot of stuff could be accumulated in this way that could be put to good use."

Contract According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

If only bridge players were not in such a hurry! To watch many of them, one might think that the only way to get rid of a loser is to ruff it or discard it immediately. Note today's deal.

South, dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	2 clubs	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the club king and declarer won. Then, apparently feeling that now was as good a time as any to get rid of the losing club, South led the seven spot and ruffed in dummy. He then drew trumps in three rounds, after which he decided to establish the diamond suit. He cashed the ace and king and continued with the three spot. West won and led the queen of clubs. Now declarer was in a terrible position. He had to use his last trump as a ruffer and had no quick entry to dummy. He led a spade. West hopped up with the ace and rattled off club tricks. South, who had started off by thinking of a slam, found himself down two tricks on a mere game contract.

The haste in ruffing the losing club was directly responsible for this upset. Declarer should have seen that as long as trumps were in the dummy, he was safe against a club loser. His prime consideration should have been to establish dummy's diamond suit for discards. To that end he should have drawn, at most, two trumps, then should have led the A K and a third diamond. Now it would be West who would be helpless. If he chose to return a club, dummy would ruff, draw the last trump and then cash two good diamonds, upon which declarer would discard two spades. Declarer still would have a trump and would merely have to concede two spades to the enemy. If West chose to return the ace and another spade, declarer would end up with an overtrick.

As a matter of fact, by taking some slight risk at the very beginning declarer could insure his own overtrick, that is, he could lead a spade toward dummy. This, however, might go wrong, and since the contract was only four hearts and the game was rubber bridge, not match point duplicate, the previously outlined plan was advisable.

This Is Year to Guard Furs and Woolens

BY REA SEEGER.

Time to tuck your winter woolies and fur comforts away for the summer. If you want to park any worries about these cherished items in your wardrobe while you're out of town, if you want to have them ready for action next fall and winter in a fine state of preservation, you'll send the furs to fur storage, and your winter woolens, this year of all years, into the haven of a moth bag or other moth and varmint proof security.

From all the best sources of information, wool is going not only to increase in price, but also be listed as exceedingly limited. So, back you go to the days of properly cherishing your clothes. Brush them, clean them thoroly, hang each piece on padded hanger and place in the moth and bugproof bags or boxes. This means suits, dresses, jackets, and topcoats, anything made of wool. Or you can send all your wool pieces to reputable cleaners and order the stuff returned to you in mothproofed storage bags. After that, no matter how the moth traffic around the house or town, your best and most valued clothes are protected.

If you own a wool coat with fur collar, fur scarfs, mugs, tippets, pelerines, capes, fur hats and gloves, or fur bags, suits lavishly trimmed with fur, or anything else made with fur and fabric, they should travel with the prized fur jacket or coat down to the storage depots. Furs will be cleaned, repaired, and even remade if you order. Storage fees are based on the valuation of the coat or jacket . . . modest fees that assure peace of mind all thru the summer.

Archbishop to Open Knights of Columbus State Session Today

A pontifical high mass celebrated by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch at Holy Name Cathedral will open the 45th annual convention of the Illinois Knights of Columbus this morning. Business sessions will be held at the Morrison hotel. More than 50,000 members are expected to attend the two day session.

Convention business will include the setting of a $3,000,000 quota for Illinois members for the purchase of war bonds, reports on blood donor activity and participation in USO work and social welfare programs. Joseph A. Lamb, national secretary of the Knights of Columbus, who was recently named a Knight Commander of the Holy Sepulchre by Pope Pius, will be one of the speakers at the convention.

Sally Tells Need in Many Homes for Baby Supplies

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

The babies are clamoring for attention again. The following requests are typical of many similar ones which we have listed in our files—so if you have items of baby clothing or furniture to place, we'll be glad to hear from you.

"Dear Miss Brown: I have twin sons, now 6 months old, who are greatly in need of cribs and high chairs, and I would be very grateful if you could help me to secure them. They are rapidly outgrowing the baskets in which they have slept since birth, but my husband's salary just will not stretch far enough to allow cash for even such necessities. In fact, it just does cover rent and food expenses. I am certain I can arrange to pick them up if you can help me.

"Mrs. R."

This address is on the north side of the city.

A case worker in a south side district writes in behalf of the P. family:

"Dear Miss Brown: I hope that thru your column you can help Mrs. P., who is a widow with three small children. She is much in need of a day bed, a baby bed, and a buggy. The children have had whooping cough and the baby is at present in the contagious diseases hospital. She is soon to be discharged but the nurse has said that she must have her own bed. Mrs. P. has only one room and one bed.

"She is planning to move into a larger place, but until some better living quarters are found, this additional furniture would make them much more comfortable."

Thru the Looking Glass

The business girl's lunch hour is a time for her to relax, have a wholesome, if light meal, and unravel her nerves. However, too many of them make it a time of hurrying and scurrying about, trying to do innumerable personal errands or shopping. They make hasty purchases, get upset waiting for clerks to take care of them, and generally work themselves into an exhausted state. In the meantime, a hasty lunch is gulped, usually of the sandwich and carbonated beverage variety, to be left in an undigested lump in the stomach. It's a vicious circle they work out for themselves, for often consideration of their purchases finds them unwise and the next day the stuff has to be returned, another hasty purchase is made, and so on, ad infinitum.

We wish that more of them could be persuaded to develop the habit of making the lunch hour a leisurely, spirit-renewing business. Most of us are aware of what constitutes a healthful lunch, and just how much food is required to maintain proper weight, and give adequate nourishment. A not too noisy restaurant should be selected and the meal might well be partaken of in the company of congenial friends with whom a quiet conversation can be carried on.

The subject of work and its little trials should be excluded from the talk and something far removed from it discussed. It's a good idea also to choose a place which will afford a little walk, since the exercise will take the kinks out of the body and pep up circulation.

Such a lunch hour is as good as a beauty nap and will do much to keep eyes bright and complexion clear.

Carl Ingram Leaving to Visit Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ingram are leaving today for Northampton, Mass., to visit their daughter, Miss Janet Carle Ingram, a freshman at Smith college. During their trip they expect to set a tentative date for Miss Ingram's debut early in the fall. The young woman probably will make her bow at an old-fashioned tea to include friends of her parents' generation, either at the Exmoor club or at the Ingrams' Evanston home.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey L. Mellinger left on Saturday for a ten day trip to New York, Washington, and Asheville, N. C. In Washington they plan to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Bliss Snyder Jr., going on to Asheville to buy property on which they hope to build a winter home. Young Mr. Snyder is connected with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Since they have given up their large home in Sheridan road in Evanston, the Mellingers will be spending the summer in an apartment at the Glen View club.

Yale university will lose the captain-elect of its football team when Spencer D. Moseley of Highland Park drops out of school next month to enlist in a Yale naval flying unit made up of eight students on the New Haven, Conn., campus. Also in the group will be Alan Fisher Dailey of Wilmette, who will receive his degree next month.

The Francis W. Parker school is giving a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon to open an exhibition of the art department. Parents and friends of pupils are invited to see the exhibition, which will continue to May 15.

DODGERS DROP PAIR TO CARDS; 4TH IN ROW

CUBS, PHILS DIVIDE; WHITE SOX LOSE TWO TO YANKEES

LEE WINS FIRST, 9-1; VISITORS TAKE 2D, 8 TO 1

Bithorn Is Routed in Six Run First.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs furnished Bill Lee, their stately veteran, with more help than he needed yesterday but found themselves unable to accomplish anything of account in behalf of Freshman Hiram Bithorn.

Mr. Lee, functioning in elegant style, was so ably assisted that he dusted off the eighth place Phils, 9 to 1, in the front half of a double header before 19,880 customers. But the swarthy Bithorn, bogged down by an error at the very start, was gone from the second battle before an inning was completed, a six run splurge eventually developing into an 8 to 1 enemy success.

The sudden collapse of Bithorn after an error by Len Merullo had caused him to part with six unearned runs wasn't the only flaw in the Cubs' ensemble. The same Cubs who had created havoc with their bats in the first game learned to their sorrow that Reuben Melton was not to be tampered with. Maybe the lad's name reminded them painfully of the shutout heaped on them the day previous by Cliff Melton. At any rate, the Philadelphia Melton cooled the Cubs off on five hits, four in the last three innings.

Stringer Hits 3d Homer.

Lee, now holder of three decisions against one defeat, was supported so vigorously with batting power that the Phils used four pitchers before discovering one sufficiently skilled to keep things in order. First of the unfortunates was Tom Hughes, who weathered five innings despite seven hits for four runs. Walter Beck came next and was clubbed into extinction in a five run seventh, two of the cluster being a home run blossom from the bat of Lou Stringer, his third of the year. Sam Nahem had a brief part in the inning, altho assessed for one hit. Paul Masterson was the gentleman who kept things in order thereafter.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs went into production against Hughes in the second inning of the first game on singles by Dallessandro and Cavarretta with an infield out by Stringer in between. Dallessandro also took a hand in the third inning to make it a two run affair. Gilbert singled, Merullo forced him and Hack singled. After Nicholson had spurned opportunity, Dallessandro tripled to right. McCullough and Gilbert added to the loot in the fourth, the former doubling and scoring on Gilbert's drive which bounced past Northey in right. Gilbert tried to make a homer on his clout but was nailed at the plate.

Boom Boom Beck was surprisingly talented in the sixth, his first inning. He struck out Cavarretta and McCullough, but this exhausted his luck. He walked Lee to start the seventh and Gilbert followed with a single, both advancing on Merullo's bunt. Hack whistled a two bagger over short to send in the first two of the Cubs' last five runs. A fly ball disposed of Nicholson, but a single by Dallessandro sent in Hack and a moment later Stringer hoisted his homer into the left field terrace. Sam Nahem was brought in to finish the inning.

Warren started the finish of Lee's shutout bid by opening the eighth with a single and going to second when May walked. Benjamin batted for Nahem and produced a fly on RUDY MUCHA, the Cleveland Rams' blocking back who is in training at the Great Lakes Naval station, insists there is nothing in football, including the Chicago Bears, that is comparable to the shock of falling out of a navy hammock and landing on one's puss while sound asleep. . . . Athletic Director Conrad M. Jennings of Marquette expects the advancement of the NCAA track meet at Lincoln, Neb., to June 12-13 to aid the Central Intercollegiate games in Milwaukee, June 6. . . . Several prominent teams will make both events on the same trip. . . . The shifts in many Cleveland plants change at 3 p. m., hence the decision to start the Indians' weekday games at 4 o'clock. . . . The Washington Redskins' season ticket sales may be a barometer of football attendance this fall. . . . At this time last year George Marshall's club had disposed of 11,600 seats for all home games. . . . The figure this spring is 11,827. . . . Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland where Clark Shaughnessy is now athletic chief, believes sports activities should be expanded rather than deëmphasized during the war. . . . What does Joe Petritz, genial publicity director at Notre Dame, mean by calling Frank Leahy's new offense the "Stanford T formation?" . . . That system George Halas and Bob Snyder have been showing the Irish in spring practice didn't originate at Stanford.

Accurate figures are not available, but it is said that in the last two seasons the Cubs lost almost half a million dollars. . . . Roy Weatherly, Cleveland outfielder, is 23 pounds lighter than he was at the close of the season last year. . . . The Green Bay Packers have lost 15 of last year's roster to the armed forces, which gives them the lead over all other National Football league clubs in player contributions. . . . The New York Giants are second with 14. . . . When all others are worrying over the fate of football on the Pacific coast next fall, Norman Strader, coach of the St. Mary Gaels, is fretting about the lack of a couple of good guards. . . . Harry Mehre, who has lost most of his assistant football coaches at Mississippi and several outstanding players to the army and navy, tried to enlist himself, but was rejected because of eye defects. . . . Lee Lenkoff of Northwestern, winner of the Big Ten dueling swords championship, did not take up fencing until he entered the university. . . . He became interested in the sport from reading novels in which swordsmen were the heroes. . . . Barney Olsen, outfielder recently released to the Los Angeles farm team by the Cubs, can't be recalled by the Chicago club because it has exhausted its quota of options on the player. . . . He will be subject to draft next fall unless previously sold.

We used to mourn for the dead in France
And grieve for the lives they'd given,
But now when France is in our thoughts
Our sorrow is for the living;
How pale the sting of honored death
Compared with what they feel,
Who, crushed beneath that bitter yoke,
Know the woe of the tyrant's heel.

But the poppies growing row on row
On far-off Flanders field
Have bloomed again with the spring-time,
To no iron thrall they yield;
And their message on the twilight breeze
To that stricken, crushed domain
Is: "Courage! Hope! You too, like us,
Will one day live again!"

WHITE SOX FLOP TWICE BEFORE YANKS, 6-4, 3-1

Dietrich and Smith Lose; Dykes Chased.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 3.—A crowd of 68,394 jammed into Yankee stadium this afternoon to watch the Yankees emerge from a slump which had seen them lose four of their last five starts. Close analysis revealed the champions are still in a slump, but nevertheless the White Sox obliged by beating themselves in both games, 6 to 4 and 3 to 1.

In the second game, Manager Jimmy Dykes' frayed nerves and churning gallstones exploded simultaneously and he was banished from the game as thousands cheered, after giving Umpire Ed Rommel a thunderous raspberry. The very sight of Rommel, his old team mate on the Athletics, upsets Mr. D.'s otherwise beautiful disposition, even if nothing else happens.

But today, when Rommel executed an extra fancy ruling nullifying what had appeared to be the scoring of a run without a play at the plate, it was just too much for our beloved leader. James not only threw his raiment all over the place but hollered as we've never known him to remonstrate before.

Dykes Kicks Dirt on Rommel.

Knowing that Rommel fancies himself quite a dude, James even went so far as to kick dust all over Ed's radiantly polished boots. Well, you know how it ended, but Jim must have got a bang out of the attitude of the New York masses.

In the first game the Sox showed their best power of the season, topping their previous high by acquiring 11 hits, including two doubles by Wally Moses and a triple by Bob Kennedy. But they left 11 men on bases and the fact that they knocked out Red Ruffing in the eighth was slight solace, indeed. Ruffing, by the way, became major league baseball's winningest active pitcher, with a total of 247 against Ted Lyons' 246. It was Ed Smith's fourth defeat in four starts.

Deeper Into the Cellar.

The Sox outhit the Yanks in the second game, 7 to 6. In this one they left 10 men on bases, counting West, tho he had slid over the plate in that play that so ruffled Dykes. The Sox made three doubles, by Kennedy, Don Kolloway, and Bill Dietrich. Bill, by the way, pitched all the way.

The outcome gave the Sox a tighter hold on their cellar rights, the challenging Athletics having split even with the Detroit Tigers who fell out of their third place tie with the Yanks. Tonight's tabulation shows the Sox to have lost 10 of their last 11 games, and 6 out of 7 on this road trip.

FIRST GAME

The Sox started out in the first game like they weren't the least awed by being in the Yankee stadium, Moses opened with his first double, after which Appling walked. Then the Sox realized this sort of thing simply wasn't normal. So Kolloway whiffed, Hoag flied to Henrich and Kuhel bounced to Gordon.

Keller, first up in the Yankees' second, walked, and Gordon sent a high twisting fly to short center. If anybody had a chance for the catch it was the still fleet West. But Moses and Kolloway collided under the ball and in front of West. Rosar grounded into a double play started by Kennedy, Keller reaching third. Rizzuto singled, scoring Keller, and stole second while Smith held the ball, but the inning ended when Appling threw out Ruffing.

The hysterical third opened with Crosetti's single to left. Hassett then bunted and Kennedy fell going for the ball. Henrich bunted, and was credited with a hit when Kennedy

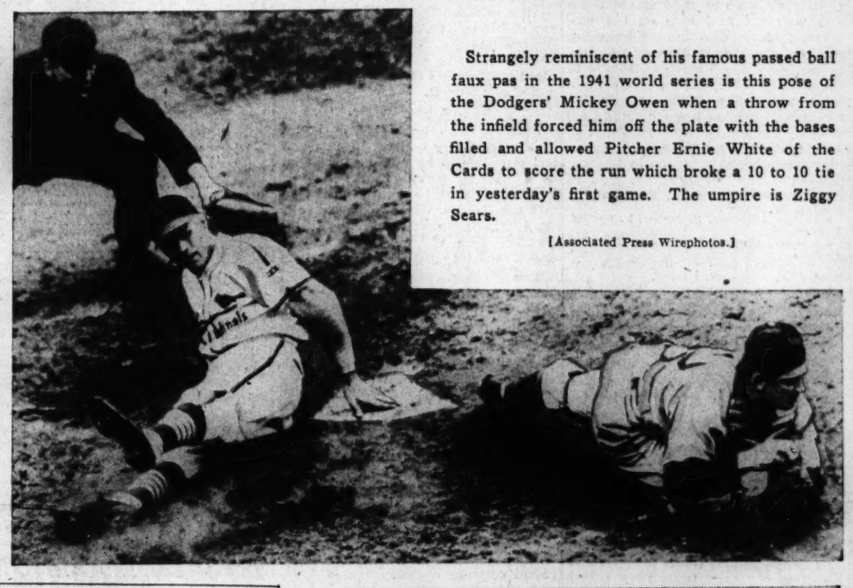
Dodgers Break the Sabbath Calm in St. Louis



Strangely reminiscent of his famous passed ball faux pas in the 1941 world series is this pose of the Dodgers' Mickey Owen when a throw from the infield forced him off the plate with the bases filled and allowed Pitcher Ernie White of the Cards to score the run which broke a 10 to 10 tie in yesterday's first game. The umpire is Ziggy Sears.

Derby Fans Go Home; Horses to Preakness

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 3.—Louisville became the equivalent of a ghost town today as the Kentucky Derby crowd evacuated its precincts by all available methods of transportation. There had been a particularly heavy jam for train accommodations last night, and many who had failed to get early reservations were forced to wait until this afternoon and evening. Even long distance telephone calls last night were delayed for two hours or more.

Many of the horses which ran in the Derby are being shipped to the east today and tomorrow to run in Saturday's Preakness stakes at Baltimore. Most of the Derby horses, including the first three—Shut Out, Alsab, and Valdina Orphan—are eligible for this race and their handlers have indicated they fully intend to send them to the post.

Sabath Tells His Regrets.

Al Sabath, whose Alsab came from far back in the last half mile to take second place in the closing strides, said today that he's sorry he couldn't bring the Derby cup back to Chicago, but he hopes to bring the Preakness and Belmont trophies instead.

"Alsab will go east now and stay there until after the Belmont stakes," Sabath said. "Then we'll take him back to Chicago for the Arlington Classic and the American Derby. He came out of the race fine with nothing but a slightly scuffed ankle which he incurred in that crowding as they went into the first turn. He ate a good meal after he went back to the barn and seemed in fine shape. We feel that he's just coming up to his true 3 year old form now and that he'll keep on getting better and better."

Shut Out Fools Handlers.

Shut Out's Derby victory was his second stake success of the season. Previously he had won the Blue Grass at Keeneland. His performance yesterday tended to substantiate the earlier opinion of many observers that he may be a better horse over a route than his stable mate, Devil Diver. Even the veteran Eddie Arcaro guessed wrong on this because he had his choice of mounts and took Devil Diver.

Two of the horses which didn't run in the Derby are considered likely to make strong threats in the Preakness. These are Warren Wright's Sun Again and Sterling Clark's Colchis. Sun Again was withheld from the Derby because Trainer Ben Jones didn't believe the colt was far enough along in his work to send him a mile and a quarter. The Preakness is a shorter distance—a mile and three-sixteenths—and Jones has an extra week to prepare for it.

Almost everything happened during the double header and this is where Leo Durocher, the Dodgers' fiery manager, was ordered off the premises, with Sears again officiating. Fred Fitzsimmons, Dolph Camilli, and Whit Wyatt also were thumbed out before the battles ended. Just to show he wasn't partial, Ziggy later banished Billy Southworth, Cards' pilot. St. Louis won, 14 to 10 and 4 to 2.

Tribune Golf School Has New Duty—Helping War Nerves

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Golf is one of the few major sports in which the bulk of its followers can be participants as well as spectators, and the game has the biggest opportunity of its life in this wartime year to prove its value as a physical and mental conditioner.

Assured of a supply of clubs and of balls adequate for the coming summer at least, golf officials are anticipating an unusually heavy season of actual play, since so many regular vacations will be scrapped and more time spent nearer home. Also, many defense workers must find an outlet for their spare hours.

THE TRIBUNE'S 10th annual free golf school, which opens on the four courses of the Chicago park district tomorrow night, aims to do its part in encouraging this wartime interest in the game.

They'll Simplify It for You.

The school's plan is the same as in other years. There is no fee for any of the four regular lessons. The teachers, as usual, will make every effort to reduce the grip, the stance, and the swing to their simplest forms. The only requirements for enrollment are a willingness to learn the game, a golf club, and the student's prompt appearance at one of the four park courses nearest to his home or work.

The locations of the four park district courses on which the lessons will be given simultaneously on each of the four nights are: Jackson park, 63d street and Stony Island avenue; Columbus park, Jackson boulevard and Central avenue; Marquette park, Marquette road and Kedzie avenue, and Diversey, located in Lincoln park, on Lake Michigan, at the foot of Diversey boulevard.

The dates of the lessons are tomorrow night, Thursday night, Tuesday night, May 12, and Thursday night, May 14. Each of the four lessons will begin promptly at 7 p. m.

Pick Thirty-two Finalists.

Following the conclusion of the final regular lesson May 14, the Illinois PGA members in charge of the teaching will name the two men, the two boys, the two women, and the two girls who have progressed most rapidly during the four lessons.

This selection will make for a final graduating class of 32 novices, who will assemble on Sunday afternoon, May 17, at one of the four park courses to be announced later. A special jury of professionals will examine the swings of all finalists. The four pupils adjudged to have the best swings in this session—man, woman, boy, and girl—will be given golf bags and sets of clubs.

UMPIRES CHASE BOTH MANAGERS AND 3 PLAYERS

St. Louis Triumphs, 14-10, 4-2.

St. Louis, Mo., May 3 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers in a double header here today, 14 to 10 and 4 to 2. The second game was halted by darkness at the end of five and one-half innings because the first contest lasted three hours and six minutes.

The double loss brought Brooklyn's losing streak to four games.

Just an inkling of what 24,871 witnessed in this first clash of the 1942 season between the Dodgers and the Cardinals:

Five men, including both managers, ejected from the field during the two games; 14 extra base hits, including three home runs and a triple; a parade of 10 pitchers and a hitting attack by Cardinal Catcher Ken O'Dea that drove in seven runs.

Two Managers Banished.

Manager Leo Durocher and Freddy Fitzsimmons were banished from the first game for continuing an argument with the umpires from the bench, and Manager Billy Southworth was thumbed off for protesting the calling of a ball. Dolph Camilli and Whitlow Wyatt were sent to the showers during the second game for arguing with an umpire.

It was O'Dea's bat that decided the first contest. He hit a homer off Wyatt in the first inning with the bases loaded. Then, with the score 10-all in the seventh and the bases loaded, he drove in three more runs with a double. The Dodgers had rallied after trailing, 8 to 2, and had tied the score at 10 to 10.

In the second game the Cards gained all their runs in the fourth inning. Kirby Higbe's wildness placed three men on base on walks and all scored on Jimmy Brown's triple. Brown scored on Stan Musial's fly.

Southpaws Beat Dodgers.

It also was the fourth straight game the Dodgers, packed with left handed hitters, succumbed to southpaw pitchers. Ken Heintzelman and Aldon Wilkie beat them in Pittsburgh, and today's Cardinal winners were Ernie White and Max Lanier.

Umpire troubles followed the Dodgers from Pittsburgh, too. The Dodgers and Pirates put on a 15 minute ninth inning brawl Friday which ended when Umpire Larry Goetz banished four Pirates. The Saturday game also was delayed by repeated arguments with the arbiters.

N. U. NET TEAM AGAIN BARS PATH OF NOTRE DAME

Irish Hope for First Victory Over Wildcats Saturday.

BY WILLIAM FAY.

This time last year Notre Dame had won eight straight tennis matches. A victory over Northwestern in Evanston would have meant an undefeated season—something that had eluded Prof. Walter Langford, the Irish coach, for more than a decade. Also, the Irish never had beaten Northwestern.

Notre Dame was the favorite. The Irish had whipped Michigan and Michigan had defeated Northwestern. The match progressed to 4-all. A Notre Dame player led, 5 to 1, in the final set of the decisive match. Prof. Langford was looking mighty happy and Paul Bennett, the Northwestern coach, mighty sad.

Then the Wildcats' No. 5 rallied for six straight games and the set, 7 to 5. Final score—Northwestern, 5; Notre Dame, 4.

What! No Hemlock?

Prof. Langford staggered to the soft drinks cooler and poked around among the root beer and orange pop, searching vainly for some ice cold hemlock. Coach Bennett clapped Langford across the shoulders and remarked sympathetically: "Tough luck, Walt, Old Boy. But we always could beat Notre Dame."

Now Bennett and Langford are good friends, but the professor has been heard to say several times since that if he weren't a family man with a wife and three kids . . . and if there had been a baseball bat handy . . .

But this is another year and the professor doesn't think he will need a ball bat when the Wildcats invade Notre Dame Saturday afternoon. If the Irish can beat Chicago on Thursday, also at Notre Dame, Langford thinks the Irish finally will achieve their first undefeated tennis season and their first victory over Northwestern, all in one afternoon.

Not So Optimistic Earlier.

Langford was not so optimistic earlier in the season. The Irish were winning matches, but losing consistently at the No. 5 and No. 6 singles and the No. 3 doubles. Langford realized he couldn't hope to spot Northwestern and Chicago three points, and still win.

Then a sophomore named Joe Shaffer, 19 year old engineering student from Philadelphia, told Langford he'd like to try out for the squad. Shaffer said he'd played some at the Germantown Tennis club, just a few blocks from his home.

Langford put Shaffer at 13 on the squad's challenge list. In one week Shaffer worked down to No. 6, a position he occupied Saturday when the Irish walloped Wisconsin, 9 to 0. Shaffer won his singles, 6-1, 6-2. Langford believes Shaffer's addition strengthens the Irish just enough for that undefeated season.

Wisconsin was Notre Dame's seventh success of 1942. The other victime were Indiana, Western Michigan, Michigan, Michigan State, Illinois and Kentucky.

Michigan Defeats Chicago.

Michigan dealt Chicago its first defeat Saturday and Wisconsin has beaten Northwestern. Off the record, the Irish figure to beat Chicago and Northwestern, but it should be noted that Wisconsin's triumph over Northwestern was scored when Seymour Greenburg, N. U.'s Big Ten champion, was out of the lineup.

Whoever wins, the best tennis of the midwest college season will be played at Notre Dame Thursday and Saturday. If the Irish sweep both matches, they will have clinched the midwest title.

The large commencement crowd Saturday should insure a large gallery for the Northwestern clash. But the ticket demand has not been so brisk for the Chicago engagement. Bob Cahill, Notre Dame's ticket manager, reveals there are approximately 65,000 seats still available.

Auto Race Cup Honors Hero

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Tony Bettenhausen receives a trophy from Mrs. Caroline Bardowski after winning yesterday's first outdoor midget auto race of the year at Hammond speedway. The cup is in memory of her son, Bud Bardowski, former driver, who was with the Maywood tank corps, captured on Bataan peninsula.

Wins 1st Outdoor Race

Tony Bettenhousen of Gary won the inaugural outdoor 15 lap feature midget auto race yesterday at the Hammond speedway. Bob Muhlke of Evanston was second, Frank Burany of Chicago third, and Emil Andres of Chicago fourth.

Bettenhousen broke the one lap track record during the qualifying time trials when he did the five-eighths distance in 30:50 seconds. He also won the first race on the program. Mrs. Caroline Bardowski, mother of Bud Bardowski, former driver, who was honored previous to the capture of Bataan for his heroism, presented a trophy to Bettenhousen in honor of her son. Bud Bardowski, known as Bud Bardy, was with the Maywood Tank corps when that division was captured in Bataan. Summaries:

5 LAPS—T. Bettenhousen, E. Andres, B. Muhlke, B. Dittmer.

5 LAPS—T. Duncan, H. Turner, F. Burany, A. Cummings.

5 LAPS—A. Bruzes, P. Roberts, D. Kledis, R. Kimble.

5 LAPS—Handicap: T. Bettenhousen, B. Muhlke, E. Andres, T. Duncan.

6) LAPS—Consolation: B. Dittmer, R. Stephanson, G. Van.

15 LAPS—Bud Bardy purse: T. Bettenhousen, B. Muhlke, F. Burany, E. Andres.

ABC's Record for 700 Series Matched at 25

Columbus, O., May 3 [Special].—The record for 700 totals in American Bowling congress tournaments was tied today when Jimmy Kalamaris of Chicago hit 712 in the singles. Joe Stanley of Cleveland leads with 756.

Last year at St. Paul 25 bowlers scored 700 or more. With 10 more days of competition left, a new mark is expected to be set.

Kalamaris Shoots 279.

Rolling a speedy, straight ball, Kalamaris, member of the Schlitz team, opened with a 243 game. He added 279, sparing in the first frame, and following with nine strikes. He left the No. 5 pin standing on his 11th shot.

Needing 235 in the final game for the lead, Kalamaris, who averages 191 in the Greater Chicago Traveling and Stack and Ryan Major leagues, drew a 4—7—9 split in the fourth frame and missed the No. 6 pin in the ninth, finishing with 190 for his highest total in a 10 year career.

A dozen Chicagoans hit 600 or better in the singles today. For the seventh straight day there was no changes in the high 10 leaders.

Stan Kott Gets 651.

Stanley Kott, Kalamaris' teammate, tallied 651 with a 234 finishing game; Hank Urban had 642; Mike Verona, 634; Paul Miller, 624; John Kintgen, 621; Peter Dusablon, 619; Jack Stack, 616; Harold Nelson, 614; Ellsworth Anderson, 612; Al Jensen, 601, and Stan Pasciak, 600.

High in doubles today was 1,177 scored by Otto Svestka and Mike Verona of Brookfield, Ill.

N. U. AND IOWA GOLF TEAMS TO BATTLE TODAY

Northwestern university's golf team will seek its sixth straight victory of the season when it meets Iowa at the Kildeer Country club today. The Wildcats dealt Minnesota its first defeat of the season Saturday, 13 to 11.

Capt. Burt Abrahams and John Stoltz, a sophomore, paced the Wildcats to their victory over the Gophers. The former carded a 75, one over par, in defeating John Williams, while Stoltz posted a 35 on the back nine to nose out Herb Rose, 2 and 1. Stoltz had a 74 for the 18 hole round against 76 for Rose.

After today's match the Wildcats will travel to Ann Arbor Saturday for a match with Michigan's undefeated squad. Othe. remaining matches are with Illinois and Notre Dame, also undefeated.

SOLDIER NINE DEFEATS WINKLER MOTORS, 9 TO 7

Davenport, Ia., May 3 [Special].—The Jefferson Barracks baseball team defeated the Winkler Motors of Chicago, formerly the Spencer Coals semi-pro nine, 9 to 7, today in Municipal stadium. The game was sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars. George Archie, formerly Washington Senators infielder, and Heinie Mueller led the 12 hit attack for the winner. Archie collected three hits, a home run, double, and a single. Mueller also hit a home run. Score:

Winkler Motors	000	050	020	7	12	4
Jefferson Barracks	111	202	02*	9	12	1

Batteries—Yarros, Goddard, Williams and Hoffman; Wright, Wilson and Heathley.

BOLDEN TO MEET BARATKA TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD CLUB

Nate Bolden, 1937 Intercity Golden Gloves middleweight champion, winner of his last three fights, will meet George Baratka, hard hitting fighter of Cleveland, in a 10 round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace streets.

Taylor Faces Tate.

Baratka, who beat George Feltes in a preliminary contest in this city last month, will be making his debut as a windup performer against Bolden. It will be a rough, tough test for George, who is 25 years old. Baratka, whose conquest of Feltes was his 15th victory in 19 appearances, turned professional in 1936.

Tito Taylor, probably the south side's ablest welterweight, is paired with Art Tate, stablemate of Baratka, in a four round event. Taylor is one of the busiest boxers at his weight in the game.

Billy Pierce, West Allis, Wis., light heavyweight, will try for his third consecutive victory over Vince Calzaretto of Palos Park in eight rounds.

Drew with Brent.

In his latest appearance Calzaretto held Luther Brent to a draw in six rounds on March 30. Subsequently Brent twice defeated Pierce in the Marigold arena.

Dickie Cook, Peoria featherweight, will encounter Vito Rizzo in a four round opening match.

Anton Christoforidis, former light heavyweight champion, and Johnny Colan of New York yesterday were matched to meet in a 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium May 22. Original date was May 15, but Christoforidis wanted more time to train for such an important assignment. . . . It was reported last night that Mello Bettina, Beacon, N. Y., southpaw fighter, who beat Booker Beckwith in the Stadium on April 10, has accepted a $20,000 guarantee to face Harry Bobo in Pittsburgh June 24. Bob Pastor had been offered $25,000 for the encounter against Bobo, but he refused in the belief he will be picked to oppose Joe Louis in a proposed title match in Cleveland next summer or fall. . . . Promoter Ross Miller has canceled his show scheduled in the Coliseum May 15.

CHICAGO BOWLER FAILS IN DEFENSE OF STATE TITLE

Bill Flesch of Chicago failed in defense of two Illinois state bowling championships in the 1942 tournament at the Sylvandell alleys in Aurora yesterday as a host of other Chicago stars failed in bids to replace current leaders.

Flesch, who won the singles and all-events at Cicero last year with 728 and 1,920, managed a 10th place 1,848 in the all-events, but fell to 606 in the singles. The Reichmann Jewelers failed to defend their five man title Saturday night. The doubles champions, Herb Freitag and Joe Sinke, are still to shoot.

A second place 1,912 in the all-events by H. Pratt of Chicago was yesterday's major change. Paul Krumske, also of Chicago, landed fourth in the singles with 678, G. Foster and E. Carlson of Chicago took fifth in the doubles with 1,245, and Leo Faetz of Chicago followed Pratt in the all-events with an 1,878 fourth place total.

J. Marino of Chicago got a great ride in the doubles from his partner, A. Unhoch. The latter scored the highest series in any event of the meet thus far—716—but Marino had only 480. G. Bauer of Chicago rolled the high game to date, 289, in a 644 single series.

OPEN ALL AGE FIELD TRIAL WON BY GLENAIRLINE

Glenairline, a Rocket Laborador retriever, owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Garlock of Barrington and handled by Mrs. Garlock, yesterday won the open all age stake in the annual spring trials of the Midwest Field Trial club in Barrington.

Freehaven Jay, Labrador retriever owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Free, was second; Patricia Roedare, golden retriever owned by Mr. Robert Noonan, third, and Golden Beauty of Roedare, golden retriever owned by Richard Ryan, fourth.

Stilrovin Nitro Express, Labrador retriever owned by Ben L. Boelt of Milwaukee, received the certificate of merit.

SPARTAS DEFEAT GALLATIN, 3 TO 2, BUT LOSE SERIES

Pennsylvanians Win on Total Goals, 4 to 3.

BY OFFSIDE.

The Spartas defeated the Gallatin Sport club of Gallatin, Pa., 3 to 2, yesterday afternoon in Sparta stadium in the second game of their two game series for the National Open Western Soccer title. Gallatin won the first game in Donora, Pa., 2 to 0, last Sunday and, on a total goal basis, won the series, 4 to 3.

The Spartas were whipped by their own misplays. Laddi Mrnka, left back, tried to intercept a Gallatin shot by John Roman in the last minute of the first half. The ball slid off Mrnka's foot into the Sparta cage to give Gallatin a 2 to 1 advantage.

Rezak Misses Kick.

Then, with seven minutes gone in the second half, Jerry Rezak, Sparta left half, missed a penalty kick; his shot sailed high over the Gallatin cage.

That left the Spartas with the almost impossible task of scoring three goals to stave off elimination. They got one goal after 29 minutes when Jimmy MacDermott hit from 15 yards out. MacDermott received a penalty kick with two minutes left and made it to put the Spartas ahead, 3 to 2.

The Spartas needed another goal to even the total goal score and throw the series into overtime, but Gallatin held them off.

Three Goals for MacDermott.

MacDermott scored all three Sparta goals. He put the Spartas ahead after 14 minutes by taking a pass from Jerry Pavlecik and sinking a shot from 20 yards. Gallatin tied at 1 all after 25 minutes. Roman's shot bounced away from Goalie Joe Silovsky to Jim Visnich who nudged the ball into the open net. Lineups:

WALLER CREWS WIN ASSIGNMENT TO ROW MARMION

Sixteen oarsmen from Waller High school yesterday won the right to represent Chicago and the Lincoln Park Boat club next Saturday at Marmion academy in Aurora. The Waller senior and junior eights defeated Schurz schoolboy oarsmen in two one-mile races in the Lincoln park lagoon.

The senior crew led Schurz by two and a half lengths at the finish of the 5 minute 14 2-5 second race. The juniors from Waller finished six lengths ahead of Schurz's juniors. The winning time was 5:36 3-5.

Two unscheduled races between the Waller crews and Lane Tech's senior and junior oarsmen resulted in the Lane boys defeating Waller in turn, both times by six lengths.

Lane's seniors won with a time of 5:12, best of the day, and the juniors' time was 5:48.

A schoolboy singles race over a five-eighths mile course between Larry Bott of Lane Tech, and Tommy Heyden of Waller, was won by Bott by three lengths.

YACHTSMEN TO MEET WITH NAVY ON TRAINING PLAN

Chicago yachtsmen will meet with naval officers tonight at Thorne hall, Lake Shore drive and Chicago avenue, to complete plans for their new program to train midshipmen in practical seamanship aboard privately owned boats in Lake Michigan.

More than 135 yacht owners and crew members already have enrolled in the plan, and more are expected to sign tonight. Further instructions and assignments will be given, and a suitable charter submitted at the meeting.

Sponsored by the Navy league and the national defense committee of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, the program has the full approval of the navy. Certain periods during the week have been tentatively set aside for instruction aboard ship to middies attending Abbott and Tower halls as part of the curriculum.

HORNSBY GOES ON TO ACTIVE LIST; HIT WINS GAME

Houston, Tex., May 3 (AP).—Rogers Hornsby, 46 year old manager of the Texas league's Fort Worth team, celebrated his return to active duty today by hitting a ninth inning single to drive in two runs and give his club a 3 to 1 victory over Houston in the second game of a double header and an even break for the day.

The former major league star, who had struck out twice and lined to left field, came to bat with runners on second and third and drove a single to left.

RED SOX BREAK INDIAN VICTORY STREAK, 8 TO 4

2 Big Innings Snap Chain at 13 Games.

Boston, Mass., May 3 (AP).—The Red Sox snapped Cleveland's 13 game winning streak today, defeating the Indians, 8 to 4, for Charlie Wagner's third straight victory.

The Red Sox made a pair of unearned runs in the first with two out. After Ted Williams walked, Jeff Heath, who is nursing a sore right hand, muffed a pair of line drives off the bats of Jimmy Foxx and Jim Tabor to allow two runs to cross the plate.

Giants Quell Red Rally in 9th; Win, 5-4

Cincinnati, O., May 3 (AP).—The New York Giants won their first game of the season from the Cincinnati Reds here today, 5 to 4, driving Bucky Walters from the mound to make all their runs in the first two innings and then holding off a ninth inning Red rally. Walters was knocked from the mound for the third straight time in the second. Bob Carpenter had held the Reds to four singles until the eighth when Rookie Hank Sauer, batting for Thompson, hit a home run with none on. Score:

PIRATES, 6-3; BRAVES, 2-12.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 3 (AP).—The Pirates ran their winning streak to three straight today by beating the Boston Braves, 6 to 2, in the opener of a double header, but the Braves romped to a 12 to 3 victory in the second game. A crowd of 29,030 was present. Eddie Miller of Boston hit an inside the park homer in the fourth inning of the second game with the bases loaded. Babe Phelps accounted for all of the Pirates' second game runs with homers in the third and seventh, the latter with a mate on base. Scores:

TORNADO SWEPT ILLINOIS AREAS LIST 13 INJURED

Propery Damage Heavy; 12 Killed in Oklahoma.

Springfield, Ill., May 3 (AP).—Ten communities in central Illinois counted 13 persons injured and property damage running into several hundred thousand dollars today as a result of a tornado which lashed across Morgan, Sangamon, and Logan counties last night.

Scores were left homeless as houses and farm buildings crumbled before the high winds. Live stock losses were reported and several of the communities were cut off when power and telephone lines went down.

At Franklin, a village of 500 in Morgan county where the tornado struck first and did its greatest damage, between 50 and 75 homes were damaged or destroyed, all utility services were disrupted and six loaded freight cars were toppled over.

25 Families Homeless.

Early today the Red Cross established headquarters in the Franklin high school, and representatives of the state health department arranged for emergency water protection. Mayor Alan M. Keplinger said about 25 families, left without shelter, would be quartered tonight in the high school. He placed the Franklin property damage at $125,000 but only one injury was reported.

Six persons in the tiny rural community of Riddle Hill, eight miles west of Springfield, were brought to hospitals here. The most severely injured was James Hobson, a tenant farmer.

Other communities in the path of the storm included New Berlin, Bradfordton, Bates, Curran, Sherman, Andrew, Elkhart, and Lincoln. The tornado swept northeast from Morgan county thru Sangamon and Logan counties, barely missing Springfield.

Lasts Only 4 Minutes.

"I saw it coming," said Thomas Williamson, "and took my wife and baby to the basement. It began to hail at 6:17 and the tornado hit at 6:30. It lasted four minutes by my watch, but that was enough."

Skirting Springfield to the west and north, the tornado wrecked a brick home in which were huddled five small children of Mr. and Mrs. James MacDonald. All the children received minor injuries and were brought to Springeld hospital. The parents were at a physician's office in Springfield when the storm struck.

John Burge, residing north of Springfield, said he was standing on his back porch when the tornado hit, and that he was lifted bodily from the porch and carried along by the wind for a block. He was treated for minor injuries.

Toll in Oklahoma Is 22.

Pawhuska, Okla., May 3 (AP).—Storm battered northeast Oklahoma counted 22 persons dead or missing, upward of 100 injured and tremendous property damage today in the wake of fierce spring tornadoes. Three other persons were killed and scores injured in eastern Kansas, and one woman was killed in central Missouri.

In Oklahoma the affected area was about 100 miles long and 50 miles wide, bounded by Pawhuska and Dewey on the north, Okemah on the south, Pawnee on the west and Tulsa county on the east.

'TEEN-AGE BOYS PLAN WAR AID AT MEETING HERE

Mobilization of the country's 'teen age boys for a program of all out war aid will be the chief topic at the 36th annual convention of the Boys' Clubs of America, which opens a four day session in the Drake hotel today. The clubs have a membership of more than 300,000 boys in the United States.

The convention will launch a new organization for boy participants to be known as the Boys' Club Victory Volunteers. Members of this patriotic group will be organized into farm labor groups to help relieve shortage of farm labor.

Speakers who will address the delegates will include former President Herbert Hoover; William E. Hall, president of the Boys' Clubs of America for the last 26 years, and David W. Armstrong, executive director of the clubs. Lynn Waldorf, football coach at Northwestern university, will preside at a physical fitness luncheon tomorrow at which John Kelly, director of physical fitness, office of defense health and welfare, will speak.

Former Berlin Journalist, Wife Die; Gas Jets Open

New York, May 3 (AP).—Dr. Felix Pinner, 62 years old, former financial expert on the Berlin Tageblatt, and his wife, Gertrude, 56, were found dead today in the kitchen of their Queens apartment. Four gas jets were open. Two notes lay on a table. One was addressed to a friend, George Wolfson, and was said by Police Capt. Francis Burns to have revealed that the couple had been ill. Police said Dr. Pinner had a son, Stephen, and and foster son, Guenther Drucher, both serving in the United States army.

ATTACKER INJURES WOMAN.

Mrs. Bernice Swider, 29 years old, was cut by a blow on her head inflicted by a man who attempted to attack her yesterday in her living quarters at a candy store she operates at 3611 Diversey avenue. The intruder fled after ripping a telephone off the wall and threatening to kill Mrs. Swider.

Haymarket Veterans

Capt. Frank Tyrrell, 84 (left), and George Roycraft, 95.

Shortly before 10 o'clock on a rainy evening just 56 years ago today, 176 policemen marched out of the Desplaines street station and advanced on an anarchist rally in Haymarket square—a short half block away.

Samuel Fielden, radical leader, was in the midst of his speech to the small crowd; Capt. John [Black Jack] Bonfield, in charge of the police, had ordered the crowd to disperse.

Out of the alley across from the police station hurtled a bomb. It landed within the ranks of the police. Its blast killed one officer, fatally injured six more, and wounded 67 others.

The bomb, the riot that followed, the trial and conviction and hanging of four of the anarchist leaders—all made history.

Yesterday the two remaining police veterans of the Haymarket riot held the annual reunion at the Desplaines street station—the same structure from which they marched on May 4, 1886.

They are Capt. Frank Tyrrell, 84 years old, 643 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, and George Roycraft, 95, of 3304 Schubert avenue.

Still active and enjoying life, the two veterans chatted with police and reporters. They told of how they were wounded in the riot—Tyrrell torn by the bomb and Roycraft crushed under the feet of the mob.

POLICEMAN DIES IN HEAD-ON CRASH CHASING SPEEDER

Motorcycle Policeman Philip Romano was killed last night in a collision with an automobile while he was chasing a speeder. He was riding northeast in Forest Preserve drive when his motorcycle crashed head-on with a car driven by Raymond Gustafson, 25, years old, of 5958 Grace street, as Gustafson, coming from the opposite direction, turned at Olcott avenue.

Policeman Romano.

Romano was still conscious when taken to the Belmont hospital. Before he died, he told the story of chasing the speeder who escaped.

Romano had been a member of the motorcycle police seven months, having served previously as a state highway policeman and a Criminal court bailiff. The policeman, 33 years old, lived with his wife, Pearl and five children ranging in age from 6 to 14 years, at 5536 North Mulligan avenue.

Wladyslaw Kalinowski, 54 years old, 7032 South Bishop street, a painter, died in St. Bernard's hospital yesterday after he was hit by a Yellow cab at 69th street and Ashland avenue. Raymond Slowinski, 40, of 6240 Justine street, was the driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 268 persons had lost their lives in Cook county automobile accidents since Jan. 1. Two hundred nine of this number were killed in Chicago, where 6,754 others were injured.

2 CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES EYE AIR LINER CRASH

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 3 (AP).—Two congressional committees joined tonight in investigating a United Air Lines transport plane crash fatal to 17 persons Friday night.

The senate committee to investigate air crashes, headed by Sen. Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.], sent its chief investigator, Lieut. Carl Harper. The house committee, headed by Rep. Jack Nichols [D., Okla.], also assigned its chief investigator, Judge Irving G. McCann.

The two investigators joined with the Civil Aeronautics board, the Utah State Aeronautics commission, and the air line in studying the crash. R. D. Hoyt, CAB official, said a public hearing will be held later this week.

NEGRO SHOT, MOB LOOTS AND BURNS CAFE IN RACE RIOT

Police Hit by Bricks in Detroit Battle.

Detroit, Mich., May 3 (AP).—Three policemen were injured by bricks today while dispersing a Negro mob estimated at 2,000 which looted and burned a restaurant, operated by a white proprietor, after a Negro was shot in another nearby white restaurant.

All available officers were rushed to the scene of the disorders which began shortly before midnight and continued until 2 a. m.

It was Detroit's second major demonstration of racial animosity in a little more than two months.

Troops Guard Housing Project.

State troops with fixed bayonets, state police and city police still maintain constant guard over the million dollar Sojourner Truth housing project for Negroes, scene of rioting Feb. 28 when white residents of the neighborhood, who had protested Negro occupation of the 200 home federal development, clashed with the Negroes.

Detective Inspector William Delisle said the new disorder, miles away from the Sojourner Truth project, followed the shooting of Henry Rollin, 46 year old Negro, in a restaurant altercation.

Police arrested Peter Kafcas, 22, son of the restaurant proprietor, and held him for investigation.

Looting and Firing.

While officers were restoring order in the vicinity of Kafcas' restaurant, Inspector Delisle reported, Negroes gathered at the second restaurant and another altercation developed. A crowd numbering 2,000 was attracted and looting and firing of the place followed. One Negro was arrested.

NEGROES BATTLE POLICE

Hempstead, N. Y., May 3 (AP).—Efforts of city police to arrest a Negro soldier precipitated a club-swinging, rock-throwing battle between civil and military authorities and patrons of a tavern in the Negro section of Hempstead early today.

One civilian suffered a possible skull fracture, and a woman received a lacerated neck when a bottle struck her. Patrolman John Freeth suffered an eye injury.

The battle started as Patrolman Freeth and John Marlow of the Hempstead police force attempted to escort into a patrol car an intoxicated soldier.

Crowd Hurls Stones.

A crowd of Negroes poured out of a nearby tavern, hurling stones and bottles. The engagement raged sporadically for several hours and was joined in by the nine carloads of Nassau county police and two truckloads of military police from nearby Mitchel field, who entered the fray swinging nightsticks.

The fighting ceased after civil authorities had made nine arrests and military police had seized an undisclosed number of soldiers.

FEAR BILL GIVES WOMEN OPENING IN COMBAT UNITS

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—Controversy over terms of legislation to create female branches of the army, navy, and marines developed today with a demand by Chairman David I. Walsh, [D., Mass.], of the senate naval affairs committee for an amendment to eliminate from a house-approved bill the possibility that women might be called for combat duty.

Walsh wrote the navy department that he and most members of the committee "entertain great apprehensions as to the wisdom of enactment" of a measure passed by the house April 16 setting up a women's reserve corps for the navy and marines.

The committee chairman complained that the effect of this measure would be that "every stenographer, typist, and file clerk in the navy shore establishment could be enrolled in the naval service, women could be promoted up to and including the rank of captain in unlimited numbers without further congressional authority and, if the department so desired, they could be assigned to overseas duty or on board vessels of the navy."

The bill would permit the enlistment of women on the same basis as men naval reserves, with the same rank and benefits. A similar proposal, made by Sen. Elbert Thomas [D., Utah], for a women's army reserve was sent back to the military affairs committee last week by the senate.

OBITUARIES

Brig. Gen. Hubert A. Allen.

Portland, Ore., May 3 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Hubert A. Allen, 70 years old, retired, who helped build the Corregidor Island defenses, died today. He was in the Philippines in the Spanish-American war, commanding several native regiments. He commanded the Iowa national guard on the Mexican border in 1916 and 1917 and was regimental commander with the 34th and 28th divisions in France in 1917 and 1918. He was a native of Independence, Ia., and retired in 1936.

The funeral of John Francis Lulay, a proofreader for THE TRIBUNE for 27 years, will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 2700 East 75th street to St. Bride's church, where mass will be said at 9:30 a. m. Mr. Lulay, who was 74 years old, died Saturday in the Jackson Park hospital. His home was at 7620 Colfax avenue. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Dorothy A. Lulay, and two stepdaughters, Martha F. Smith and Hattie A. Strauch.

Hugo W. Celander.

Hugo W. Celander, 51 years old, 7727 Oglesby avenue, for many years secretary of Frederick H. Bartlett & Co., real estate firm, and a World war veteran of the 149th field artillery of the famed Rainbow division, died yesterday in Presbyterian hospital. Surviving are his widow, Imo, and two sons, Hugo W. Jr., and Robert. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. in the chapel at 2700 East 75th street, with burial in Evergreen cemetery.

DANISH PRIME MINISTER DIES AFTER A FALL

BERLIN, May 3 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Thovald Stauning, 68 year old prime minister of Denmark, died in a Copenhagen hospital today.

Ill for some time, he was injured in a fall

Vilhelm Buhl.

Aage Buhl.

Thursday and was taken to the hospital. He became unconscious Friday night and remained in that condition until his death.

King Christian X. appointed Finance Minister Vilhelm Buhl to succeed Stauning. Buhl will retain his financial post also.

Stauning was a Danish politician who rose from leadership of a cigar workers' union to serve as prime minister for 15 years, including two years under German occupation.

Aage Buhl of 1618 North Mango avenue, president of a fish company, is the only brother of Denmark's new premier, Vilhelm Buhl. "I am proud of him," he said last night, "but it is a great responsibility. I would rather be in my business."

Buhl, whose son, Paul, is in the United States army, said he visited his brother in Denmark five years ago when he became finance minister after serving as Copenhagen's tax chief for 15 years. Their sister, Ingeborg, is a private nurse in San Diego, Cal.

SOLDIERS LEARN A HANDY LITTLE TRICK WITH ROPE

Strangers Make Ju-jitsu Look Like Game.

Fort George G. Meade, Md., May 3 (AP).—Barehanded fighting tactics that make Japanese jujitsu almost a pleasant outdoor sport by comparison are being taught to a group of athletic and recreation officers at an army school here.

The instructor is Dr. François D'Eliscu, who at 47 can handle any of the 117 former college athletes in his class.

The doctor's only weapon is a five-foot sash cord which he terms his "hog tier." It is looped around an enemy's knees just after planting a boot in his midsection. When the "enemy" is doubled up and gasping Dr. D'Eliscu draws the loose ends around his opponent's neck, tying them in front.

Doubled up, the victim has a firm noose at his knees and a running noose at his throat. Either he strangles himself with his own struggles or his opponent hastens the process by sitting on his face and pushing forward on his knees.

Dr. D'Eliscu, who formerly taught at Columbia and New York universities, is the originator of this savage art, one of the most brutal forms of fighting since man graduated from their bare hands to clubs. He hasn't any use for boxing.

"Boxing—bah!" he tells his class. "We Americans aim for the jaw, the nose, the cauliflower ear.

"Swing your right elbow, like this, to crush his windpipe. Slap him with your other hand. Then follow thru with a good left. [To Dr. D'Eliscu this means a left knee or foot to the abdomen.] Now only instant surgery can save his life."

The student officers are members of the special services branch school, and the instruction in hand to hand fighting is part of a physical education and recreation program that includes mass calisthenics, tumbling, and lectures.

FREIGHTER RUNS ASHORE IN N. J. AFTER COLLISION

Sea Bright, N. J., May 3 (AP).—An unidentified freighter, a gaping hole in its side, was beached 200 yards off shore in clear view of thousands of persons today after colliding with another freighter at the mouth of New York harbor.

Mayor Walter L. Sweeney said the two medium sized ships crashed in a night fog off Fort Hancock where the other was anchored today, its bow damaged. The second drifted onto the Sea Bright sands.

"It seems you could throw a rock on her," one onlooker said.

None was injured in the collision, Sweeney reported, and the crew remained aboard.

N. Y. DEMOCRATS STUDY 'DRAFT LEHMAN' MOVE

New York, May 3 [Special].—New Deal supporters of President Roosevelt have found in a survey that Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. is a much stronger candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor than they expected and are contemplating a movement to renominate Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, it was learned today. New Dealers from this state and in Washington are reported to be definitely opposed to Bennett.

Launching of a "draft Lehman" movement awaits word from the White House, it was said.

Bennett has been conducting an active upstate campaign to win support of delegates to the state convention. He has the support of State Chairman James A. Farley, James A. Roe, Democratic leader in Queens, and Democratic leaders of nearly all the upstate counties, provided Gov. Lehman is not a candidate.

Thomas E. Dewey continues to be considered virtually certain of the Republican nomination. In the last gubernatorial election, Gov. Lehman defeated Dewey by less than 1 per cent of the total vote cast, a margin provided by the communists.

SENATE TO BALK ON FARM SLASH, SAYS BANKHEAD

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—Sen. John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.] said today that a poll of senate sentiment indicated President Roosevelt would be unable to obtain the farm price revision he requested last Monday in his message to congress.

In his message to congress the President requested revision of the price control act to permit lower ceilings on farm commodities—as low as 100 per cent of parity.

The lowest possible ceiling now is 110 per cent of parity. Parity is a price which would give a farm commodity the same purchasing power, in terms of nonfarm products, that it had in a base period, usually 1909-'14.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

GRAIN MARKET INDICATOR SEEN IN WEEK'S NEWS

Farmers Adopt New Wheat Control.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Developments last week that largely will determine the course of grain markets in the coming year, were reported by grain men yesterday. This was particularly true of wheat, usually the bellwether of grain price trends, they said.

Among the occurrences that probably will prove highly significant in market trends during the remainder of this year and early in 1943, grain men listed:

1. Farmers adopted the federal marketing control program for the 1942 wheat crop.

2. The department of agriculture announced government loan rates for this year's wheat, rye, and barley crops—loans that will assure farmers the highest prices for their grains in many years.

Further Cuts Expected.

3. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard in a speech at Enid, Okla., called for further reductions in wheat acreage next year. Plantings this year are the smallest since 1919.

4. Wartime tax limits on personal income proposed by President Roosevelt indicated that speculative buying likely will largely disappear from the futures markets shortly.

5. The federally financed Commodity Credit corporation was expected to take over about 200 million bushels of wheat as loans on 1941 grown wheat matured on April 30.

The grain men expect federal marketing authorities to encounter many difficulties under the marketing program this year because of the shortage of grain storage space. However, if the farmer will store his grain in an approved bin on his farm, he can borrow about $1.14 a bushel on his wheat and hold it until marketing conditions improve.

Department of agriculture records show that wheat prices on the farm have not averaged above $1.14 a bushel since 1927. Almost equally as high loan rates in proportion were announced for rye and barley.

WHEAT CONTROL VOTE

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—Tabulations today of the wheat growers' referendum indicated that more than 75 per cent favored continuance for another season of the federal market control program.

With about three-quarters of the expected total vote counted, the ballot for marketing quotas stood at 174,913. The opposition vote totaled 56,745.

WPB ASKS SUBSTITUTE FOR PACKING OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES IN TIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—The War Production board tonight requested canners to consider substitutes for packing in tin containers, such as freezing, dehydrating, or packaging in materials less critical than tin. The WPB warned that more drastic tin conservation measures may be necessary before the 1943 packing season begins.

The board also, after consultation with the agriculture department, urged careful planning of the production of "secondary" vegetables and the harvesting of "secondary" fruits this year so that the amounts of tin allotted for packing of these products will be adequate for the amounts produced.

INDICATE STEEL FACES SQUEEZE BY U.S. AGENCIES

Pay, Price Changes Are Considered.

Cleveland, O., May 3 (AP).—Divergencies between policies of the Office of Price Administration and the War Labor board threaten to "squeeze" steel producers, the magazine Steel declared today. The OPA is reported toying with the idea of reducing steel prices, the review said, and there are indications the WLB may recommend a wage increase for workers.

Altho "it appears improbable that OPA actually will direct a reduction in prices under present conditions," the magazine said:

"WLB is studying the request of the Steel Workers Organizing committee for a $1 a day wage advance in the case of the 'little steel' companies.

Some Increase Likely.

"Recent decisions by the board and comments by board members, especially its chairman, W. H. Davis, indicate that it is not improbable the board will recommend at least some increase.

"Even if the wage increases are denied other factors are even now increasing costs. Taxes for the current year will be much greater than last. Overtime will become more common as more workers are drawn into the armed forces and the labor shortage becomes more acute. First quarter earnings statements show sharp declines from the comparable period last year. In most cases profit was little more than half the 1941 figure, due to wage increases granted last spring and to necessity for large provisions for taxes and contingencies."

Plate Production High.

Shipbuilding requirements are sending plate production toward a new high this month of around a million tons, 100,000 to 125,000 tons above the April estimate, the review said. Bars and sheets are close to plates in volume of requirements for war purposes and top priorities have accumulated so that general allocation seems likely to be applied soon.

Steel making operations last week were computed at 99 per cent of plant capacity, up half a point, highest since June, 1941, and representing a much larger tonnage than the 1941 month because of increased capacity.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER.

I read recently that Phillips Petroleum soon will be producing synthetic rubber on a large scale. Didn't the company take steps in this direction some time ago? What is being done now?—R. L. S.

Answer: Phillips Petroleum company and B. F. Goodrich company formed the Hydrocarbon Chemical and Rubber company in July, 1940. Each owned a 50 per cent interest. The new company acquired from B. F. Goodrich the results of its research and experience in making synthetic rubber, and received from Phillips Petroleum the benefits of vast resources of necessary raw materials. A plant was placed in operation at Akron, O., with a daily capacity of 6 tons.

Phillips Petroleum said in its 1941 report that its subsidiary is being tripled in size and that a new plant for producing butadiene, a Phillips product used in making finished synthetic rubber, was being built under contract with the government. Plans for an additional butadiene plant are being made now, it was said.

VETERANS' INSURANCE.

I have been told by the veterans administration that my life insurance policy with them no longer will be in effect after June 30 unless I pay a larger premium. Will you please explain this?—T. W. D.

Answer: In all probability you have been carrying term life insurance with the veterans administration. Congress twice extended the life of veterans' term policies for five years each. The last extension expires June 30 with no apparent support for another. Consequently, the veterans administration is asking term policyholders to convert their policies to permanent life insurance at naturally higher premiums. There have been no increases in veterans permanent life insurance premiums.

ORDERS INTEREST PAID.

Will overdue and unpaid interest on St. Louis-San Francisco railway bonds be paid in the near future?—O. S.

Answer: Payment of $5,115,871 in overdue and unpaid interest on St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company bonds was ordered by the United States District court at St. Louis, Mo., on April 8. Payment will be made on the Frisco's Fort Scott bonds, on the prior lien bonds, series A, B, and E, and on consolidated mortgage bonds, series A and B.

FOR THE DURATION.

What is the War Production board's order covering manufacture of washing machines?—H. J.

Answer: As of May 15 the WPB has ordered a complete suspension of the manufacture of washing machines.

200,000 Given Instruction for War Bond Sale

More than 200,000 Illinois "Minute Men" who will conduct a three day house to house war bond selling canvass for the treasury department received sales instructions in a special broadcast over W-G-N yesterday morning.

Holman D. Pettibone. [Moffett Photo.]

The canvass to be conducted May 11, 12, and 13 is expected to result in the sales of $49,300,000 in stamps and bonds. Cook county's quota—$38,136,600—is the largest given to any county in the nation. One hundred and twenty thousand "Minute Men" will conduct the county drive.

Has Threefold Objective.

Instructions and an outline of the objectives of the campaign were given in the broadcast by Norman B. Collins, state administrator of the war savings staff, and other leaders of the drive.

The campaign will have a threefold objective:

1. Make every citizen a shareholder in America.

2. Raise money thru the war bond sales to help meet the cost of the war effort.

3. Help avert inflation by diverting to the government money which might be used otherwise to purchase greater quantities of consumer goods.

USO Drive Begins Same Day.

Another fund raising drive will start the same day to collect money for the second campaign for the United Service Organizations. The national quota for this campaign will be 32 million dollars and the goal for the Chicago district, including Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties, will be $1,749,432.

Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, yesterday was appointed campaign chairman by Jeffrey B. Short, Chicago USO president.

3,000 to Aid in Campaign.

Three thousand volunteer workers from this district are to be enrolled to carry the USO appeal for funds to more than 1,500,000 persons. No closing date has been set in the campaign.

The national goal of 32 million was set at a conference with army and navy authorities as a minimum needed by USO to carry out its work of furnishing recreation for service men.

Division chairmen in the drive are John Stuart, president of the Quaker Oats company, head of the sponsors division; James A. Cunningham, vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, business division; Julien H. Collins, individual gifts; Percy F. Brautigam, public departments division; Nicholas J. Conrad, country towns; Conger Reynolds, public relations, and Mrs. Charles G. Wells, women's division.

GOVERNMENT SUBSIDY PLAN TO HELP AVOID PRICE CEILING BREAKS

Washington, D. C., May 3 [Special].—The Office of Price Administration is prepared to offer subsidies to manufacturers rather than permit the puncturing of the price ceiling for any article, it was reported today.

While hoping that the general maximum price order of last Wednesday will enable all goods to be sold profitably at retail at the highest price they brought in March, an OPA spokesman said today that the theory of a subsidy when manufacturers' costs make this impossible is inherent in any over-all price ceiling.

Last week's price order will freeze the cost of materials and services to manufacturers as well as to consumers, but wages, the important factor in manufacturers' costs, have not been stabilized. The OPA, it is understood, believes cases will develop in which manufacturers must get some relief if price ceilings are to be maintained.

Big Treasury Offerings Are Put on Market

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau tonight announced details of the huge new bond offering disclosed last week. The bonds to be offered tomorrow consist of approximately 1¼ billion dollars of 2 per cent treasury bonds of 1949-51, and an unspecified amount of 2½ per cent registered treasury bonds of 1962-67.

The 2 per cent bonds will be in denominations of $100 to $100,000 and all subscriptions for amounts up to $10,000 will be allotted in full. Interest will be payable semiannually with the first coupon due Sept. 15, 1942. The bonds will be dated May 15.

The second issue of 2½ per cent bonds will be barred to commercial banks for 10 years from May 5, which date they will bear. The object of this is to make them available primarily to savings and other investing institutions. These bonds will mature June 15, 1967, but may be redeemed on or after June 15, 1962. They are also in denominations of $100 to $100,000.

BANK DECLARES INFLATION IS NOT FOUGHT SOUNDLY

New York, May 3 [Special].—Asserting that the inflationary tendency is growing steadily and that more effective measures are needed to keep it under control, the National City Bank of New York in its monthly bulletin said today that the chief criticism of the government has been against the lack of a complete and rounded policy to accomplish its purpose.

"The principal threat of inflation lies in the swelling pay rolls of the mass of consumers who buy the bulk of goods and services available," the bank said. "In 1941, 70 per cent of the increase in national income was in wages and salaries. Taxation for the purpose of curtailing spending should reach this increase either thru a sales tax, a tax on wage payments at the source, or reduced income tax exemptions and high rates on the lower brackets."

591 MORE FIRMS AND INDIVIDUALS GO ON BLACKLIST

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—The state department tonight announced the addition of 591 firms and individuals in Latin America and European neutral countries to the United States blacklist. At the same time 25 firms and individuals in Latin America and 18 in European neutrals were removed from the list.

All firms and individuals placed on the blacklist are deemed to be acting in the interest of the enemy and United States citizens are forbidden to trade with them.

PAN AMERICAN AIRWAYS' 1941 BUSINESS HEAVY

Contributes Largely to War Effort.

Business in 1941 was the most successful in the history of the Pan American Airways system, J. T. Trippe, president, disclosed yesterday.

J. T. Trippe.

"More than three quarters of the resources, equipment, and man power of the company are devoted directly or indirectly to the prosecution of the war," Trippe said in the annual report to stockholders.

Net income after taxes and other income deductions for the year ended Dec. 31, was $3,361,251, or $1.73 a capital share, compared with net earnings of $2,256,317, or $1.20 a share, in 1940.

Goes on Wartime Basis.

Within 24 hours after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7 Pan American services in all parts of the world were on a full wartime basis, the report said.

Route mileage of the company in Latin America increased 15 per cent, and miles flown 34 per cent, Trippe said. The system is operating 60 schedules every week between the United States and Latin America.

Flights over the north and south Atlantic ocean more than doubled in 1941, he said, adding that service to Ireland might shortly be reinstated.

Service was instituted over 25,967 miles of new routes, mostly to meet military requirements, the report said, and airport facilities were constructed in many parts of the world, useful for the war effort.

War Transport Extended.

War transport service was established from the United States to Africa and points in the middle east and a ferrying operation was inaugurated in coöperation with the government to speed delivery of military aircraft and equipment to the middle east and the orient.

Follansbee Steel corporation reported a net profit of $165,308 for the first quarter of 1942 on net sales of $4,150,794. This was equal to 61 cents a share on the 217,966 common shares of the company after allowing for dividends on 25,516 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock.

Briggs & Stratton corporation reported net income of $227,285 in the first quarter after taxes of $1,301,500. In the 12 months ended March 31 profit was $1,005,016 after taxes of $2,458,561.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

Prepare to Plant Corn.

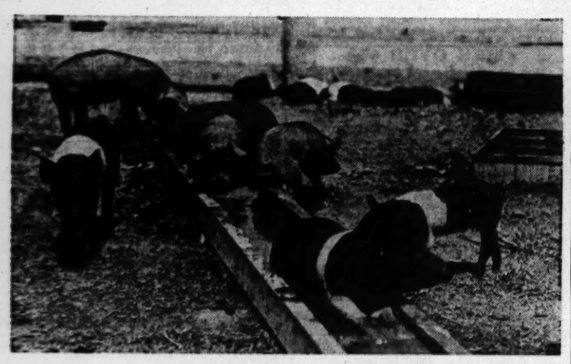
May 3, 1942.

"WHEN the oak leaves are as big as a squirrel's ear then it's time to plant corn."

The oak leaves at the Fox river farm are big enough, and 200 out of the 360 acres that are to go into corn have been plowed and disked once, but the farm manager believes he will wait a little longer before rolling out the planter.

He plans to begin corn drilling Wednesday or Thursday. The longer he can wait the less danger there will be from corn borer or grape colaspis, both of which can do tremendous damage to a field of grain. Plow early and plant late is the rule for corn at the farm, and the years have proved the value of the formula.

This year the horses will be retired from the heavy work of pulling the planter. Last year the horses and a two row planter were used almost exclusively. The result was slower work, and sore shoulders and lame legs for the animals.



When it gets hot, the baby pigs at the Fox River farm cool off in the water of their drinking trough, as above.

Use Tractor This Year.

This year the big four row planter will be mounted on one of the tractors for the job. The horses will be used occasionally in the smaller fields.

As each field is planted, four tractors will travel ahead of the planter, giving the ground a final fitting. The manager is going to roll most of the corn ground before planting it to break up the large lumps that were missed by the harrow. Some of the ground is working up hard and will benefit from rolling.

If there is a good soaking rain before planting, however, the big roller will stay in the barn, for the moisture will break down the clods. The farm needs rain badly now.

The men have spread 320 loads of manure on the corn land, so it should be well fertilized. Each load weighed at least a ton, which is a big dividend from the breeding cattle and feeding steers that will be put on the farm books to their credit. With manure increasing yields to the value of $3 or $4 an acre, the 320 loads represent a substantial sum for the profit column.

Horses Get Summer Shoes.

The horses have had their winter shoes pulled off, and part of a day was spent reshoeing them for summer. The flock of 40 sheep will be sheared soon, and then the men can give full attention to corn planting.

The hundreds of baby pigs at the farm have found a little relief from the heat by strolling into their creep and snuggling down in the drinking trough. There is a perpetual mad scramble among the little porkers to see who gets the best spot in the trough. The bigger pigs push the little ones out time and again, but they are no sooner settled than some little fellow undermines them and with a swing of a snoot sends the big pig rolling out of the cool water.

Three Insurance Agencies Report Big Business Gains

First quarter business of the Vermillion, Helfetz, and Hastie agencies of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York in Chicago, showed an average increase of 43.4 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago, J. Roger Hull, vice president and manager of agencies, reported yesterday.

Expect More than 3,500 Safety Experts at Meeting

More than 3,500 safety experts of the middle west are expected to attend the 20th annual Midwest Safety conference opening tomorrow at the Sherman hotel. The meeting, sponsored by the Greater Chicago Safety council, will continue three days.

CHAIN STORE SALES RISE.

The commerce department estimates that March sales of chain stores and mail order houses were 10 per cent above February and 25 per cent above March of last year. For the first quarter of the year sales averaged 30 per cent higher than last year.

9 ADVANTAGES of Getting YOUR LOAN from 'PERSONAL'

1. Loans made to all employed men and women whether single or married.
2. Business women and those working in defense plants borrow here "on your own."
3. A special plan provides loans for defense workers and others on a new job or who have just moved into the community.
4. Between pay-day loans for small amounts and short periods made as readily as other loans.
5. Loans made for purchase of tools, uniforms, car or home repairs, medical or dental attention, payment of old bills, etc.
6. Your account here establishes NATION-WIDE Cash Credit at any of more than 400 "Personal" offices.
7. Monthly payments arranged that you can comfortably afford. Take a year or more to repay.
8. Complete privacy. Loans made on signature, furniture, or auto. No wage assignments. Outsiders not involved.
9. Quick, friendly service. No waiting for a "Board" or committee to pass on your loan.

More people from coast-to-coast borrow from "Personal" than from any other similar company. If you need $10 to $250 or more phone or come to our nearest office today.
